People Of Diocese Rush Aid To Victims Of Chile Quakes

Supplies of clothing and blankets are still mounting as people of the Diocese of Miami cooperate in the world-wide effort to speed aid to victims of the Chilean disaster.

In response to an appeal made in parish churches and schools, families are gathering warm and usable apparel for the 100,000 Chileans who were left homeless in the series of earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and tidal waves that struck the South American nation.

People of the diocese joined others in responding quickly to the call for emergency assistance.

The first contributions, deposited in Spanish by the diocese parishes in several areas, particularly in Dade and Broward counties, were forwarded to Pan Am: Chile Airlines in Fort Lauderdale, fire houses and to Diocese headquarters for the Spanish-speaking people.

A radio appeal for contributions was made in Spanish by Father Angel Viscarra, O.P. of the Centro staff.

Shortly after the Centro volunteered as a receiving center it was swamped with contributions from neighboring parishes.

First Cloistered Nuns Locate In Diocese

DELRAY BEACH — The first cloistered contemplative community of nuns in Florida has been established here by the Poor Clare Nuns of Borden-town, N.J., who are observing their 95th anniversary this year.

At the invitation of Bishop Coleman F. Carroll, the new foundation will be known as Christ the King Monastery of St. Clare and is under the direction of Mother Mary Charitas, O.S.C., abbess.

Other members of the community are Sister Mary Stephen, Sister Mary Declaun, Sister Mary Veronica, Sister Mary Pius, and Sister Mary Agnes.

Founded in 1912 in Italy by St. Francis and St. Clare of Assisi, the Order of St. Clare established its first monastery in the U.S. in Omaha, Neb. In 1972 and now has many communities which will more than double the capacity of the St. John Vianney Minor Seminary.

In less than two months, contributions to the Diocese of Miami's Development Fund already have created an extensive program of construction and expansion. And in three more months the most important and most urgent of the projects to meet the last developing needs of the Diocese will be completed.

Work is well under way on the construction of new facilities which will more than double the capacity of the St. John Vianney Minor Seminary.

These include both an addition to the present structure, to care for more boys studying at the high school level, and an entirely new and separate building for those young men who will begin their studies at the college level.

Both are being speeded to completion by early September so that they will be ready to accommodate the greatly increased number of young men who have applied for admission to study for the priesthood for the Diocese of Miami.

In addition, another project made possible by the Development Fund is expected to be ready for occupancy this Fall. It is the new Home for the Aged in West Palm Beach.

The spacious building formerly known as the Lake Court Apartments is being entirely remodeled. When the work is completed, it will provide a comfortable home for men and women, with hospital and medical care provided. It will be operated by the Carmelite Sisters for the Aged and Infirm.

Architect's plans also are now being prepared for a new home for dependent children. This will provide modern and home-like accommodations for both boys and girls. It, too, will be made possible through the Development Fund.

Franciscan Sister Honored At Barry College Graduation

A Franciscan Sister who pioneered in hospital work at Miami Beach was especially honored by Barry College when degrees were conferred on 77 graduates during commencement exercises on Monday evening.

An honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on Mother Magdalenae O.S.F., administrator of St. Francis Hospital, by Bishop Coleman Carroll, vice-president of Barry College, who presided at graduation ceremonies.

According to Sister Mary Anzio, O.P., vice-president of Barry College, Mother Magdalenae was honored "because of the deep esteem in which she is held at the college, in recognition of the outstanding and remarkable work she has accomplished in this area and as a means of deepening and strengthening the spiritual bond between the Dominican and Franciscan Orders for more than 700 years."

A native of Galway, Ireland, who entered the Third Order of St. Francis Regular after coming to the U.S., Mother Magdalenae took her novice's training at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Newark, N.J., in 1926 to staff the Allison Hospital, hospital work in Miami Beach was especially honored in hospital work at Miami Beach after coming to the U.S., she was given a degree from Bishop Coleman Carroll at Barry College.

Father Richard T. A. Murphy, O.P., S.T.D., S.S. Doct., of St. Rose of Lima Priory, Dubuque, Iowa, reminded graduates that 'life is not a continual voyage of discovery, but a time to use well what God's providence has placed in our hands.'

"It is no accident," he said, "that you have been born in these times. God could have brought you into being centuries ago, had He so wished. He could have made you contemporaries of the martyrs, could have had you marching with Joan of Arc, or the Little Flower. He has wanted you alive now, to work out your salvation against the backdrop of a modern, 20th century civilization, and to do your work, one proper to you, alone, for His honor and glory. Success in life is not in achievements done but in the love of God."

Thief On Knees Was 'At Prayer'

NEW ORLEANS (NC) — He said he was praying. He was on his knees in the sacristy of Our Lady of Guadalupe church.

But it was in front of a safe and the safe was open.

Father Joseph Laux, O.M.I., the pastor, was awakened in the early hour when a burglar alarm went off. He telephoned the police station one block away. Two foot patrolmen came and arrested Freddie Wallaen, 30, after he told his story.

The police said entrance was gained through a side window.

monastery throughout the country.

Devoting themselves to a life of prayer and penance, the nuns are bound to the recitation of the Divine Office, for which purpose they rise at midnight. This prayer of the Church is also continued at stated intervals during the day.

Chief work of the nuns, who subsist by the work of their hands and the freely bestowed alms of the faithful, is the making of altar breads for parish churches. In addition to the recitation of the choral, which they carry on by permission of the Vatican, the nuns maintain silence except for a one-hour period of recreation during the afternoon. All share in the work at the monastery and observe strict abstemiousness from meat.

Bust Of Late Sec. Dulles Presented By Italians

ROME (NC) — A marble bust of the late U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was presented to the U.S. embassy here by citizens of Massa in northern Italy.

Among those present were Dulles' son, Father Avery Dulles, S.J., and Domenic Ancram, president of the Catholic Action organization of Italian men.

Baccalaureate Day was observed at Barry College last Sunday by 77 members of this year's graduating class. Seniors and juniors are shown as they exchanged roses and candles during the traditional ceremony preceding commencement exercises.

Bill For Construction Loans To Schools, Dies In Senate

By JOHN J. DALY, JR.
WASHINGTON (NC) — A proposal for Federal loans to private and parochial school districts failed in the Senate today after the House approved an amendment to permit loans for public school construction.

An effort to amend the public school construction aid bill was made in the Senate today, but it was defeated by a vote of 36-1,839.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Philip D. Lewis, has provided a four-year, $3 billion public school program, which is expected to result in a school system, despite the Senate's failure to override the Administration's veto.

The prelate also hit the form of government in education, then it would be the Federal government that should do so in conformity with the dictates of justice, the rights of parents and the heritage of the country.

The prelate further explained that the Senate has the power to override the President's veto, but it has failed to recognize this fact by eliminating private, nonprofit educational systems.

"Americans are opposed to having their children into a single educational mold. They receive to themselves the freedom to choose the system of education they desire."

"Congress has failed to recognize this fact by eliminating private, nonprofit educational systems. If Congress is going to involve the Federal government in education, then it should do so in conformity with the dictates of justice, the rights of parents and the heritage of the country.

Bishop Sheahan's reference to the loan precedent in the National Defense Education Act refers to that section which permits private and parochial school systems to secure longer-term loans for certain teaching equipment or to finance the minor remodeling of science laboratories.

DALLAS, Tex. (NC) — Spanish-speaking delegates at the Serra International Convention here June 26-28, will debate a good deal of attention to the problems of vocations in Latin American countries. Sizable delegations from Mexico, South and Central America are expected.

"The McHales Have Been Serving Catholic Families For Three Generations"
The Feast of Pentecost should remind us of the mission of the Church to proclaim the mantle of liberty and this is the proper attitude of God's children.

The attention of millions of people the world over was drawn this past week to two Latin American countries suffering heartbreaking experiences of an entirely different nature. Chile was ravaged by the upheavals of nature to a degree seldom endured by any nation. Cuba apparently was sinking more rapidly than the weight of Communist influence.

Everyone wanted to help in some way to relieve the pain and suffering, so many of those who had lived through the horrors of many successive days of earthquakes, Relief agencies rushed to the scene. The church established by God lives the human spirit of self-sacrifice. But with regard to Cuba almost every one of the world's wills and means of helpfulness, the Church authorities there issued a powerful warning about the evil of communism.

The Wise Old Saw

By JOSEPH BREIG

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." An old saw? Yes, a chestnut? Yup. A bromide? You said it.

But, as Chesterton remarked, a saw needs a lot of truth to last long enough to become a saw.

Truisms, in other words, are truisms because they're truths that have been oft-repeated. And the repetition testifies that they're particularly important truths; needed truths; truths that people keep coming back to because it would be too bad if they were forgotten.

So—"the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

That's the old saw. That's the hoary reminder handed down from generation to generation.

But people need restatement of old truths. Wisdom must be presented in new and attractive forms so that folks will really listen. There is always a tendency to conclude that something uttered over and over, in the same old words, must be too trite to be worth bother ing about.

After all, this is 1960, isn't it? How can we moderns, aren't we? Oh, we're as up-to-date as anybody.

So let's turn to a present-day psychiatrist.

His name: Dr. Leon J. Saul of the University of Pennsylvania.

And—and what is he saying? He's saying that the hand, that, well, that rocks the cradle rules the world.

Not in those words, of course. And he takes pains to include Dad as well as Mother, in addition to the child himself. But what he says is that hate, tyranny, crime and war are in very great measure due to the fear and rearing of children.

"Since most children are bad, or at least are seriously bad, because they're like the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

Mainly, but not entirely, because, of course. And he takes pains to include Dad as well as Mother, in addition to the child himself. But what he says is that hate, tyranny, crime and war are in very great measure due to the fear and rearing of children.

The range of our possible sufferings is determined by the vastness of our sins. The shepherd who earns a thousand shekels will have more work to do than a shepherd who limts himself to one. The pastor who thinks only of parish work will be less burdened than the one who realizes that every unconverted soul is the world is a charge on his conscience. If a man wishes to avoid the troubles of life, the remedy is perfectly simple: let him cut off the wings of every soaring purpose, let him cultivate the narrow life, let him think that the suffering Church in China or Vietnam is "foreign" to him. Such people go through life with a minimum of opposition with tribulation because they have reduced their souls to a minimum of interest and have cut the sensitive nerves which bind them to the human race and to the Church throughout the world; easily self-contained, the sorrow of the world never disturbs their conclusions.

But let a man tear out of his soul his petty and selfish interests and entertain a world-purpose, a mission-purpose, his sufferings will be increased on every side. Every interest in the lepers, the starving, and the refugees will sharpen his perception of the world's infirmity and make him feel the keen bite of the splinters of Christ-purpose, and his sufferings will be increased on every side.

Our Faith demands that "we fill up the sufferings that are wanting to the body of Christ." Souls that feel sympathy with the pagans and the suffering throughout the world by escaping strife, forget that those who are God's "Sheep" must Nam his will on their soul and this on the Last Day. He will know them by the scars of flame. Even in this life, by a beautiful paradox, we find that by the enlargement of our life through the suffering of human sorrow in the Mission lands, we also let in Divine consolation and a Christ-erasure. If suffering abounds, so does our consolation.

How about giving an immigrant a chance at some work? Many need work, some skilled, others unskilled, some speak both languages, others, only Spanish.

A drive to interest business firms in the employment of handicapped workers is now being conducted in Dade County by the local Committee for the Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

According to L. J. Dillon, executive secretary of the organization which is affiliated with the President's Committee for the Employment of the Physically Handicapped, some 3,000 workers are now unemployed. Their training and abilities, he said, cover every single field of office and industrial work.

Those interested in the employment of workers should contact P. H. Russell, Dade County Co-coordinator at HH 3-6006.

CCD Exhibits Open Tonight
In Three Areas Of Diocese

The teaching of religion will be demonstrated to the public at three centers in the diocese starting tonight (Friday) and continuing through tomorrow. Members of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine will stage the demonstrations in an effort to publicize the forthcoming Religious Vacation School which the CCD will conduct for Catholic students who ordinarily attend parochial schools.

The exhibits, opening tonight at 8 p.m., with a panel discussion on "The Adaptive Way Method of Teaching," will be held at Barry College, Miami Shores; St. Ann Parish, West Palm Beach; and St. Francis Xavier Parish, Fort Myers.

On Saturday, the program will reopen at each center at 9:15 a.m., and close with the showing of a film at 3 p.m. on the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. Mass will be celebrated at 11:30 a.m. The public is invited to all sessions.

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll recently urged all pastors to promote the Confraternity in their parishes. Calling it a "CCD a truly apostolic work," the Bishop said "our people should be reminded that membership in the CCD is their best means of making use of God's greatest gift -- the talents with which all are endowed -- to praise His goodness and express gratitude."

Pope John XXIII recently lauded the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine and urged "all members of the clergy and laity to be faithful to participate in this most necessary and valuable form of apostolate by personal collaboration, prayerful intercession and generous support."

The public demonstrations will be given by men and women volunteers who are training to teach religion in many parishes during a two-week session starting on June 20. This week-end, the teacher-trainees will conduct model classes in singing and the teaching of liturgy and Church doctrine to pupils of the sixth and second grades.

The workshops will be halted at 11:15 on Saturday for lunch, after which there will be a general session at which the public will address questions to the participants.

Sister Annunciata will conduct workshops at Barry College; Sister Florida Crista at St. Francis Xavier, and Sister Monica Virginia at St. Ann.

During the week of June 5 at 8 p.m. each evening, instructions in the "Adaptive Way Method" will be conducted by the Sisters at the same three locations.

Father R. E. Philbin, diocesan director of the CCD, has urged that all lay people attend these evening sessions as well as the two-day workshops. "The material to be covered," he said, "forms the groundwork for the first purpose of the Church, which is to teach. The success of these two programs will mean much to the future of the CCD in the diocese," he added.

MEMORIAL DAY was observed in the Diocese of Miami with outdoor Masses celebrated in the diocesan cemeteries. Shown above is part of the crowd which assisted Mass celebrated in our Lady of Mercy Cemetery, Miami, by Father Peter Reilly.

Remember Religious Duties In Summer, Students Told

Boredom and unhappiness may be the result of a summer vacation devoted exclusively to recreation. Father Robert F. Keenan suggested that a daily routine be scheduled and kept.

“God gives us this time,” he said, “so that we may learn to be more sympathetic to others. There are many others who are lonely or depressed. We go out of our way to widen our circle of acquaintances. We visit shut-ins or others who are lonely or depressed. Anyone who is bored is missing the happiness that can be found in his own nature; a purposeful existence begins upon service to God and man.”

Indian Solves Problem For Missioner's Jeep

POMATA, Peru (NC) — When his jeep brakes gave out on a dangerous mountain trip, Father Richard M. Quinn, M.M., of San Jose, Cal., pulled into service station here for brake fluid.

The Indian proprietor told the harried Maryknoller he had no brake fluid but would sell him a bottle of all-purpose "pisco" Indian brandy. With no other alternative, Father Quinn thoughtfully bought a bottle of "pisco," poured it into the master brake cylinder and continued on his mission trip.

"The brakes worked perfectly for the remainder of the trip," says the young Maryknoller. "I challenge anyone to show me any other hydraulic brake fluid that can be also used for anti-freeze, liniment, antiseptic and cold feet!"

Castro Plots Church Schism, Exile Charges

Fidel Castro has been described here by Dr. Jose Ignacio Rasco, head of Cuba's Christian Democratic movement, as a “slave to the international communist movement” who is trying to create a schism in the Church.

A professor of Cuban history at the Catholic University of Havana, who accompanied the Cuban premier on his visit to the U. S. and Venezuela, Dr. Rasco fled to Miami some 18 months ago when Cuban officials attempted to incriminate him.

Founder and head of the Cuban unit of the Christian Democratic movement which began in Italy at the close of the last century and now active in Venezuela, Chile, Argentina, Brazil and other countries, Dr. Rasco recently returned from Venezuela where he had operated, at the invitation of President Romulo Betancourt, in political workshops at the Second Inter-American Congress for Democracy and Liberty.

PRIESTS MUST REGISTER

Declaring that there is “danger of a schism in the Church because the government has tried to stimulate a foundation for a national church,” Dr. Rasco pointed out that Castro “has been very careful not to have any external contacts with the Catholic Church.”

All priests, Dr. Rasco added, were required to register in the recently decreed census of workers.

The recent pastoral letter of Archbishop Enrique Perez Seraino of Santo Domingo de Cuba which warned Cubans “not to cooperate in any way with Communism,” will, in the opinion of Dr. Rasco, “have a great impact on non-Catholics as well as Catholics, since it is the first time a member of the hierarchy has spoken and said that Communism is within the country.”

According to Dr. Rasco, for 10 years a classmate of Fidel Castro at the National University of Havana, the Cuban people are now almost equally divided in their support of the government, and are, he believes, “definitely waiting” for further statements from the Church.

ARMED COUNTRY

“Although Catholic groups no longer support the government,” he said, “there are those within our own circles who are still incredulous, who still want to be discreet and who are completely taken in by communist tactics.”

Comparing the present of the social reform program with those in Argentina under Peron and in Italy under Mussolini, Dr. Rasco criticized the Agrarian Reform and said that “very little land has been distributed.”

“One of the greatest slums of Fidel is that he was fighting against militarism and has now armed the whole country,” Dr. Rasco continued. “He has become a slave to the international communist movement and is making Cuba serve Communism as a customs house and a powder factory. Fidel has brought expert technicians and spies to America through Cuba and has bought more than $139,000,000 worth of arms, more than one-third of the national budget during the past year.”

“STRONG UNDERGROUND"

“Many of these arms,” Dr. Rasco revealed, “have been sent out by Fidel to other countries including the Dominican Republic, Venezuela and Nicaragua for revolutionary activities. Unforgivable in Fidel is the hatred which he has stirred among the Cuban people through race and class distinction.”

Another target of Fidel’s efforts is Bishop Francisco Perez of Havana, who accompanied Castro at the National University in Havana and president of the alumni of the Jesuit operated Belen School for boys, the principal objective of the Cuban Constitution of 1940, elections within 18 months after the victory and a firm political stand against Communism.

Meet Mrs. Eberle, New DCCW President

Wife of a newspaper executive, mother of four children and militant foe of indecent literature is but a brief description of Mrs. Julian J. Eberle, new president of the Miami Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Elected to the highest office in the Council during the annual convention held last month in Miami, Agnes, who prefers that members address her by her given name, will now answer the call for "Madam President" from more than 9,000 Catholic women in 90 affiliations throughout South Florida.

A native of Green Bay, Wis., she grew up in Milwaukee and majored in speech and drama at Mount Mary College from which she was graduated cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Encouraged by successes with fashion shows which she inaugurated while still in college, she then worked as a fashion coordinator in Milwaukee department stores and was a partner in the founding of a modeling school still in operation there.

In 1952 when Mr. Eberle was named production manager of The Miami News, the couple moved with their family to Coral Gables where Agnes promptly registered them on the parish rolls of Little Flower Church. Possessing more than a casual interest in Catholic women's groups, she made inquiries at the same time about membership in the parish women's club and on the same day was, in her own words, "whisked off" to a meeting of the Little Flower Society by two of its pioneer members.

Agnes and Julian Eberle have three sons and a daughter, Timothy, aged 8 and Terry, who is 11, are both students at St. Theresa parochial school. Thomas, 16, attends Christopher Columbus High School, Kathleen, who is 14 and called Kathy, is enrolled at Immaculata Academy.

As the children reached grammar school age, Agnes became interested in projects of the Home and School Association at St. Theresa School and has served for two terms as president of the organization. Well known to South Dade Deans, she has been chairwoman of the Home and School and Youth Committees on both the deanery and diocesan levels. In addition she is active in the parents' auxiliaries at the high schools where the children are students.

Keenly aware of the responsibility which is hers and in the same spirit of humility with which she accepted the presidency, Agnes Eberle has already begun her role as leader of Miami's Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

St. Catherine's Guild Will Meet June 9

FORT LAUDERDALE — Members of St. Catherine's Guild will meet at 6 p.m., on Thursday, June 9, at the home of Mrs. Joseph A. Hubert, 621 Cordova Road.

Guest speakers will be Mrs. John Pick, Catholic Charities chairman of the Broward County Deenzy of the Miami DCCW and Miss Catherine Lahiff, chairman of the Service Ladies in Blue, from Hollywood.

NEW PRESIDENT of the Miami DCCW is Mrs. Julian J. Eberle of Little Flower parish, Coral Gables, shown at home with her four children, Timothy, Thomas, Kathleen and Terry.

Scouts To Receive Awards June 12

The annual presentation of Ad Altare Dei Medals for outstanding service to the Church by individual Boy Scouts, will be made by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll in St. Mary Cathedral on Sunday, June 12.

Catholic units of Cub Scouts and Explorers will assemble in the school yard at 2:30 p.m. to march to the Cathedral under the direction of Harold F. Gutard, grand marshal.
Pope, Charities Aid Victims Of Disaster

ROME (NC) — The International Conference of Catholic Charities has appealed to its affiliated relief organizations in many countries to help victims of the disaster in Chile.

All national organizations were instructed to send aid directly to the competent agencies in Chile itself, in view of the great distances and the urgency involved.

While the conference sped its appeal from its headquarters here, Pope John XXIII called for prayers for victims of the disaster.

The Pontiff's appeal came at the end of May devotions in the Vatican where Pope John addressed prelates and Vatican officials and recommended to their prayers certain intentions of his own.

Chile's Ambassador to the Holy See reported to the Pope on the disaster.

The Pontiff received Ambassador Fernando Aldunate Errazuriz in an afternoon visit outside the usual audience hours.

houses called the St. Vincent's de Paul Salvage Store to ask the store to accept the community's contributions. C. L. Allbright, store manager, volunteered to receive the material and forward it to the airport.

A spot check of parishes in Dade County revealed that the drive was going over "very well" to "excellent." Two pick-ups were made during the week at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Opa Locka. Parishioners of Our Lady of the Most Holy Rosary, Perrine, gathered "many blankets, heavy outercoats and shoes" that made up the heaviest contribution to the Center's stockpile. In many parishes, people took the supplies directly to fire houses.

The work of the Diocese of Miami was matched by other dioceses of the country where Catholic people cooperated in community projects to aid the Chilean victims.

The U.S. Catholic relief agency sent a wide range of supplies "valued at $25,000. Included were a million tablets for the purification of water. The New York Archdiocese donated $25,000.

Shipment made by the Catholic Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference have so far included: 2,000 blankets, thousands of vitamins, 13 cases of blood plasma substitutes, 300 of clothing, 45 tons of heavy clothing, 61 beds, 116,000 square feet of wallboard and 4,700 pounds of asphalt paper.

Buildings Ruined In Chile

CHURCHES and other institutions suffered great damage in the series of earthquakes, volcanos and tidal waves which ravaged Chile. Steeple (above) is on a church in Concepcion.

On the first floor there will be a chapel seating 180; study hall, classrooms, recreation room, music room, reception room and administrative offices. On the second floor there will be sleeping quarters, an infirmary, library and reading room.

Architect for the addition and the new seminary building is Thomas J. Madden, Jr., F. J. Rooney is contractor.

COLLEGE LEVEL

Those admitted this year will include boys for all four grades of high school, who will study and live in the present building and its new addition, and young men taking their first year of college work, who will be in the new college building of the seminary. Next year the curriculum will include the second year level of college work.

Then, after six years of study in the St. John Vianney Minor Seminary, in the southwest section of Miami, the candidates for the priesthood will enter the new major seminary to be constructed and conducted by the Vincentian Fathers at Boynton Beach.

The new college building at the St. John Vianney Minor Seminary adjoins the present structure in the southeast corner of the seminary property. It will be a two-story structure 190 feet in length and 35 feet in width.

On the first floor there will be a chapel seating 180; study hall, classrooms, recreation room, music room, reception room and administrative offices.

Visitors Learn About Life In A Seminary

A natural curiosity about seminary life was satisfied a few weeks ago for a large number of boys from parishes in Palm Beach County who accepted an invitation to spend a day at St. John Vianney Seminary in Miami.

Accompanied by members of the Palm Beach Serra Club, who with brother Serrans throughout the world, have as their objective the fostering of vocations to the priesthood, the bus-load of boys arrived early in the morning and received an enthusiastic welcome from the Vincentian Fathers who staff the seminary and the seminarians. Assistance at Mass in the seminary chapel marked the beginning of a well planned and full program of activities which include basketball, tennis and indoor games such as ping pong, chess and checkers. An attractive display in the library illustrated various hobbies in which seminarians are interested.

For some of the boys, the visit, which ended late in the afternoon, provided an opportunity to renew former acquaintances; for others it was the beginning of new friendships and for all it created a better understanding of the training and education which is given to young men studying for the priesthood in the Diocese of Miami.
Here is a delightful recipe that when you try, I am sure you will not let it grow out of your life. It makes use of something old, something new... that can be said of 'Frail Honeymoon Cake.' The thing old is honey used for baking, sales, since the time of Genesis. And the other new is instant coffee an easy-to-use product of modern times.

FRUITED HONEY CAKE

Square pan, 8 inch Preheated 285 degree oven 1% cup sugar 1% cup flour 1% cup firmly packed dark brown sugar 1% cup firmly packed dried apricots 1 teaspoon vanilla 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/4 teaspoon salt 2 eggs 1 tablespoon instant coffee 2 cups sifted cake flour

Butter and flour pan: set aside. Cream butter, honey and brown sugar. Add eggs and beat until fluffy. Stir in dried fruit. Stir dry ingredients; add to creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Mix until well blended, stirring and fold in dry ingredients. Stir in vanilla. Pour into prepared pan and bake 60-70 minutes. Remove from oven and cool completely. Top with Honey Glaze.

HONEY GLAZE

1 cup strained honey 2 tablespoons water

Boil honey and water in saucepan 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; refrigerate until cold. Pour over cake. (Cold)

Dunk charbroiled meat in this rich barbecue sauce and you'll have mouthwatering fare. Have you tried this time-saving instant minced onion soup? There's no peeling and chopping when you use this handy moisturizer.

LAWYER CRFMP MEAT SAUCE

1% cup tomato catsup 1 tablespoon dry sauce 1% cup instant minced onions 3 tablespoons finely chopped onion 1 teaspoon dry mustard 1 teaspoon salt 2% teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients. Cook in a pan until meat is cooked. Add hot cooked sauce to sauce, turning it several times to coat well. Serve meat and any remaining sauce. Good with steaks, chops, hamburgers or spare ribs. Makes about 1 cup sauce.

LAZY CHERISH MEAT SAUCE

2 cups liquid (drained from peas), plus water or broth 1% cup dry red or white table wine 1% cup brown sugar 1% cup flour 2 tablespoons instant minced onion 1% cup vinegar

Combine all ingredients. Bring to a boil and simmer uncovered until thickened. Add meat and cook until thickened. Serve over rice or noodles. Good with meat, chops, hamburgers or spare ribs. Makes about 1% cups sauce.

The Voice of SPORTS

By JACK HOUGETTELING

The addition of Ron Bella and Dan O'Brien to the Archbishop Curley High coaching staff will fill a long-felt need, according to Sam Scarnechia, athletic director at the Holy Cross Brothers' school.

With the enrollment for this fall expected to go way over the 150 students now attending the Miami school, the Knights should have one of the best coaching staffs of any of the state high school in the state.

Scarnechia will continue with his duties as basketball head coach, while Norm French, his only aide at the present, will serve as assistant coach and baseball coach.

Bella, 35, a former football and basketball player at St. Edward's U. in Texas and coach at St. Joseph's High in South Bend, Ind., will be the football "B" team coach and head basketball coach.

O'Brien, also 35, played at Xavier University in Cincinnati and will serve as head coach in football and handle the "B" team in basketball.

"We have needed these men for four or five years now and with the combination of our complete staff and greatly increased enrollment we should have some good years ahead," Sam said.

The Knights won't have far to go as they have always been strong in football and went to the sub-group finals this year in both the basketball and baseball state meets.

Of course, the Knights will probably be moving up into other competition as soon as the school is reclassified by the Florida High School Activities Association.

As soon as they pass the 600 enrollment mark in the top three grades, they qualify for Class AA. This means that they will compete with Miami High, Edison and the other local bigwigs in the state tournaments.

The Knights are faced with one problem, though, and that is the need for new athletic facilities.

One of the largest Catholic high school enrollment, a complete staff, and the Curly spirit watch out for the Knights as they head for the top.

SS. Peter & Paul Forfeits; St. Michael's Still Champs

St. Michael's won the Catholic Junior High baseball league championship for the second year in a row last weekend as SS. Peter & Paul forfeited the title game because of a conflict with other activities.

The two schools tied in regular league play with identically 1-0-2 records. In an earlier meeting of the teams St. Michael's won 1-0 behind the pitching of Dave McCammon.

In the only league game played last week, St. Therese beat St. Rose 11-6 to end its season with a 3-0 average, Al Marsico of St. Rose hit the only home run of the game, his third of the season.

El Papa Felicita y Alienta a la Prensa Católica

WASHINGTON —(NC)— El apostolado de la prensa se ha convertido en un vehículo poderoso en el mensaje que dirige a la Iglesia de nuestro país la Santa Sede, informó hoy el Cardenal Arzobispo de Nueva York, Mons. Joseph A. Cardinal Bernardin, en un discurso pronunciado hoy en la Asamblea Nacional de la Prensa Católica.

El Cardenal Bernardin expresó su apoyo al apostolado de la prensa como un medio eficaz para proponer la verdadera historia de la Iglesia en nuestros días, así como para dar a conocer la realidad de sus obras y progresos.

Añadía que la prensa católica tiene la capacidad de convertirse en un instrumento poderoso para difundir la verdad cristiana y prevenir la difusión de falsas noticias.

May A Spy Take His Own Life To Keep Government Secrets?

The American spy incident has had international repercussions. In the midst of charges and countercharges comes the realization that the American flyer carried a suicide kit. Whether this claim that the flyer was a suicide or not is to be made true or false, it demonstrates a very important question — does the United States Government make the authority to equip members of the armed forces or those engaged in intelligence work with self-destructive instruments?

A recent article in The Pilot, a Catholic weekly, urges the state to give a suicide kit to the members of the armed forces. The author attributes the following to the military:

- The immediate goal of any military operation must be to protect society against destruction. Loss of life can never be wished directly as a means of terrorism against the enemy.
- It is impossible, however, to justify direct suicide, as a military measure in itself, for it is not justifiable that the state, which exists for the welfare of its subjects, should have any moral right to the destruction of one’s own life.

In the past six years, the United States Air Force has been involved in the following cases:

1. Pilot loses life in an expedition plane.
2. Pilot is ordered to leave the plane.
3. Pilot is captured by the enemy.
4. Pilot refuses to take part in the military operation.

In each of these cases, the pilot has been offered the choice of suicide or continuing his life. In each case, the pilot has chosen suicide.

Q. Are there any reasons which will justify suicide?
A. It is clear from what has been said that suicide may be justified under certain circumstances. However, there are other factors that must be considered when deciding whether to commit suicide.

The voluntary act of the common good is one of the factors that justify suicide. It is clear that suicide is justified when the common good is threatened.

The immediate goal of any military operation must be to protect society against destruction. Loss of life can never be wished directly as a means of terrorism against the enemy.

In other words, a person is never allowed to take his own life directly. Human life is a gift of God, bestowed directly on each individual who enjoys it. No human being, on his own initiative or by any other human being, or to the spiritual or material soul which animates the body, can definitively deprive himself of the gift of life. The body is the possession of God, to whom it has ownership over human life.

No man is free to dispose of his own life and no one can save God from a man to sacrifice his life by a direct act.

Q. What principles determine the morality of suicide?
A. The principles which determine the morality of suicide are indicated in the natural law and have been given clear expression by moral theologians. The fundamental principle from which theologians proceed to their conclusions is the distinction between direct and indirect suicide. Direct suicide is any act which tends immediately to the taking of one’s life and which is willed as such as a means of gaining some further purpose.

Indirect suicide, on the other hand, is any act which leads to the destruction of one’s own life but which leads also to some other effect. The act which leads to these two effects is not wrong in itself. Suicide results from it as an undesired effect; some other effect, desired for itself, follows from the same cause.

Thus, for example, a person who chooses himself in order to put himself beyond the reach of an enemy who threatens to molest him in a battle and the procedure is committing direct suicide.

On the other hand, a person who uses his personal power to a desert a place in which he will inevitably die of starvation within a short time is committing suicide indirectly.

Direct suicide is always a crime against the natural law and cannot be justified by any reason, however good.

Indirect suicide is wrong as a general rule. A person bound to safeguard his life and to avoid, as far as is reasonably possible, any situation which will involve the danger of death.

Indirect suicide may be morally allowable if the act which follows immediately is not a means of obtaining a further purpose.

This will become clearer when we consider the case of a person who is forced to make a difficult choice between two evils.

In that case, the procedure is committing direct suicide.

The state has not the right, however, to compel an innocent person to perform an immoral act.

Again, it is argued, that direct suicide might be justified as a means of achieving the common good.

Suicide results from the state to possess a power which, when once exercised, could lead to the destruction of the society for which it was organized.

Again, we find that general principles of suicide are justified when the common good is threatened.

This argument is valid in relation to indirect suicide.

The state certainly has the right to correct its subject in order to cooperate in the defense of society against attacks which threaten its existence. Obviously, war may be necessary for this purpose. When individuals die in a just war, their death results from an operation which is unavoidable and which is directed towards the strengthening of society.

ENDLESS CRIME GOAL.

The immediate goal of any military operation must be to protect society against destruction. Loss of life can never be wished directly as a means of terrorism against the enemy.

It is impossible, however, to justify direct suicide, as a military measure in itself, for it is not justifiable that the state, which exists for the welfare of its subjects, should have any moral right to the destruction of one’s own life.

Q. Would the threat of Communist domination justify suicide in cases in which suicide would be advantageous from a military point of view?
A. We take it for granted that Communism, as a theory of society, is to be condemned and that we must mobilize our resources against it. We need to show that Christian Communism is not only a theory of society but a philosophy of life.

When practices such as suicide are recommended as desirable, at least by some, we should remember that they are quite consistent with the Communist philosophy of life, and that our efforts to justify them tend towards a point of view which involves logically the destruction of human freedom.

URGENT REASONS

Suicide, like murder, theft, contraception and adultery, violates the principles of the natural law. The natural law is an integral part of that system of philosophy which recognizes the true nature of man and his relations to society and to God. The subjection of man to God’s Will is suicide is wrong because it is contrary to the requirements of human nature as God has created it.

We cannot allow direct suicide, even for urgent military reasons, unless we are prepared to question the validity of the natural law. Our resistance against Communism is to hold fast to that system of philosophy which forbids not only suicide but also those attacks on human freedom which make man a vassal of the state.

In the long run, it is the way we think that will ensure our freedom. There is no freedom in a society which destroys freedom at its very source.
HOLLYWOOD IN FOCUS

American Legion--On Guard In Hollywood

By William H. Mooring

Because Martin H. McKeonly, National Commander of the American Legion did not choose to tie a firecracker to the tail of Ehrhardt's wavy neon sign, some of the Hollywood reporters failed to get his message. The movie people got it.

Passing through the film capital last week, the Commander calmly repeated that the American Legion will continue its campaign to oppose Communists in American movies by exposing them.

He remarked that a subversive writer "does not have to read a page of Karl Marx into a screenplay" in order to serve atheistic communism and harm this country. Undoubtedly, the Communist plan to enslave men's minds, involves moral as well as political subversion, a fact frequently reiterated in this column ever since it started 17 years ago?

Censor or Boycott?

"Members of the film industry, in the main, are good people who maintain a decent home life," McKeonly said. "The small number of people who behave badly are censured as much by their Hollywood colleagues as by any other group, nor do spiritual leaders remind the acts of a few film people who commit indiscretions."

This newly acknowledged recognition by the American Legion, that the lowering of moral and spiritual standards in popular entertainment leads to soften our society to atheistic communism, followed the Legion Commander's recent consultations with Ralph E. F. Shoemaker, Episcopal Bishop Francis E. Brey, Protestant leader Dr. Paul W. M. Weitz and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre.

Disclaiming any intentions to create a boycott or ban specific films, Commander McKeonly stressed the need for more stringent commandments of the Legion's own ranks. He pledged American Legion support for the decent film products of quality American producers.

Passive Resistance?

These signs of a united public information and passive resistance campaign in which millions of American Legionnaires propose to cooperate with authorities of all Americans of various faiths, should encourage producers of morally good, socially constructive American shows.

They at least ought to caution a Hollywood minority that is now turning out morally dirty and politically destructive ones.

If the American Legion press its declared War of Information against the effects of any and all subversion employed in the studios, no theater pickets will be necessary to cut down the sale of theater tickets.

PATH TO STARDOM

Robert Taylor reminds us how things used to be in Hollywood. First "discovered" in 1934 as a result of a small role with Will Rogers in "Handy Andy," Robert Taylor became, within two years, one of Hollywood's biggest money-making stars. He is still going strong in movies and his own TV series, "Robert Taylor's Detectives" (ABC, Friday evenings), is one of the highest rated and most successful new video series. Already it is set to continue into 1961.

The Taylor career like those of Grable, Garbo, Cooper, Tracy, Muni, Cagney and others who once made movies the peoples' best entertainment, was founded on the theory that an actor, granted he has looks, personality and ability, can create and hold a public following by acting. Not even Fred Astaire could have gotten where he did with the public on song and dance alone.

Today, however, ready-made "stars" of recording and TV are latched on to by Hollywood movie producers. They are given time and opportunity that otherwise might be granted to promising young people of more distinctive and durable talents.

Elvis Presley returns from his Army stint in Germany to star in "GI Blues" as a singing GI in Germany! Tommy Sands made a promising start as "The Singing Idol," but where film-wise, he has gone since then? Fabian did pass with Fabian "Bummed Dog Man" and is now repeating the treatment with Bing Crosby in "High Time."

Senate Lag On Smut Bills 'Dismays' Decency Leader

WASHINGTON (NC) — The founder of a national decent literature movement has expressed "dismay" at the Senate's failure to act on anti-smut bills before it. Charles H. Keating, Jr., chairman of the Citizens for Decent Literature (C.D.L.), told the Senate Postal Operations Subcommittee that the anti-smut bills had enough in the way of hearings, talk and inaction. "What we want from our legislators, administrative and judicial branches of the government is freedom from filth," the Cincinnati attorney, chief legal counsel of the C.D.L., said.

Two House-approved anti-smut bills are now before the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, whose chairman is Sen. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina. One of the bills was enacted by the House in September, the second Senate subcommittee has taken no action on it.

Both bills were sponsored in the House by Rep. Kathrynn E. Graham of Pennsylvania, chairman of the subcommittee before which Mr. Keating testified. Mr. Keating brought to the hearing several cartoons full of objectionable magazines which have been sent to his organization in recent weeks by indignant citizens.

"The average person in our society knows what and where this obscenity is, but the courts ignore him and his contentions and his welfare, catering to a viodous minority," Mr. Keating said.

Senator David Durenberger, Minnesota, is a member of the Senate subcommittee. Accusing the present Senate leadership of failure to act on anti-smut bills, Mr. Durenberger asked: "What we want from our legislators, administrative and judicial branches of the government is freedom from filth..."
