Christmas Greetings

To The Clergy, Religious and Faithful:

I extend to you my cordial greetings and prayerful good wishes on this joyous Feast of Christmas.

Each year, as we commemorate this ever moving and comforting feast, we must recall to our minds very vividly the goodness of God, His love for all mankind, His nearness to us, the example of His life and the purpose of our own. It is good for us to reflect intently and deeply upon those truths that should shape our view of life and the pattern of our living. In our times nations and peoples are tormented and the world about us is in ferment, simply because those saving truths are so generally forgotten or ignored.

This world is God's world. Yet clearly it is not as He would have it. There is a tense, uneasy truce among nations. Ideas and ideals that are not those of Christ commonly dominate modern habits of thinking and behavior, with the result that the foundations of family life are corroding, and social and individual well-being are imperiled. All too often, it is the kingdom of earth that is sought, rather than the Kingdom of God.

The Christmas Season is a most appropriate time for men to try to penetrate, with the eyes of faith, the full meaning of the events commemorated and to resolve — in the measure in which they can — to make His mission and His teachings effective in their own lives and in the world in which they move. In doing so they will become restorers and promoters of His Kingdom — true instruments of His peace — while at the same time insuring themselves of that peace which He has promised to men of good will.

It is that blessing which I pray and wish for you all, of whatever station or condition, but with particular affection for the sick, the poor, the homeless, the refugee, and those who are in distress of any sort at this Holy Season.

Devotedly yours in Christ

BISHOP OF MIAMI
VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Pope John XXIII has set new records for the fourth time in his reign with the naming of four new cardinals.

He raised membership in the Sacred College to all time high of 66, of whom he has created 60, and again increased the number of U.S. Princes of the Church to a record total of six.

He has given Venecuela its first cardinal, the arts country has so honored in two years, thus continuing to stress the Church's universality in naming the cardinals.

U. S. CARDINAL

The cardinals designate include: Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, the sixth U.S. cardinal and the fifth named by Pope John. One of the American cardinals named by the Pope — John Cardinal O' Brien of Philadelphia — died in August.

Two other cardinals-designate are from Latin America, bringing the total number of cardinals in that area to 11 and the number of Spanish-speaking Princes of the Church to 12, the second largest language group in the Sacred College.

The Latin Americans are Archbishop Jose Humberto Quintero of Bogota, Colombia, and Archbishop Luis Concha Cordoba of Bogota, Colombia.

New U.S. Cardinal Known As Champion Of Civil Rights

NEW YORK (CNS) — Cardinal — Designate Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter, 61, is nationally known for his successful 1961 fight to desegregate St. Louis Catholic schools; his unusual plan to relieve the priest-shortage in Latin America; his insistence on an active role for lay people at Mass, and his analyses of the layman's role in the modern Church.

The slight prelate, one of six children of Nicholas and Bertha Luette Ritter of New Albany, Ind., where Mr. Ritter was a baker, has been the fourth spiritual leader of St. Louis' 152,000 Catholics for 14 years. He has been a bishop for 27 years.

He was elevated to the hierarchy in 1933, when he was consecrated Titular Bishop of Hippius and Auxiliary of the Indianapois diocese, for which he was appointed in May, 1917.

FIRST ARCHBISHOP

He became the Bishop in 1934 and when the See was raised to the status of an archdiocese in 1944, he became its first Archbishop. He was transferred to St. Louis in 1946.

In 1947, seven years before the U.S. Supreme Court's order for desegregation in public schools, Archbishop Ritter called for integration in St. Louis Catholic schools.

A small band of Catholic laymen, organized to oppose his program and announced they would begin legal action to prevent it.

The Archbishop remained firm, warning members of the organization in a pastoral letter that they were subject to excommunication if they undertook legal action.

As a result, the organization disbanded. The integration program proceeded, and the Archbishop was praised in secular and religious publications for his determination. He later hailed the Supreme Court's decision as "inspirational."

The shortage of priests to serve the Church in Latin America has been a constant concern of the Archbishop. In 1955, he took concrete action.

He appealed for volunteers from among his own priests and sent three of those who responded to La Paz, Bolivia, where they founded and staffed a mission, being supported by the Missouri archdiocese.

The Archbishop himself went down to Bolivia in 1956 to check on the progress of the mission the first ever established and supported by a U.S. See in a foreign country.

The Archbishop attended a parochial school in New Albany, Ind., in 1906 entered St. Meinrad, Ind., Seminary, conducted by Benedictines. Following his ordination, he served four months as an Indianapolis pastor, then was transferred to the cathedral, where he became rector. He became coadjutor general of the Indianapolis diocese in 1923. That same year, he became a bishop.

He also studied at the Institute of Christian Archeology of Rome, and since 1924 has been professor archeology at the Pontifical Lateran University.
Castro Calls Prelate 'Judas' As Attacks On Church Mount

N.C.W.C. NEWS SERVICE

Premier Castro last Saturday called Havana's Cardinal Archbishop a "Judas."

He charged in a 3½-hour speech that Manuel Cardinal Artime y Balancon supported the "bloody dictator," Fulgencio Batista, whom Castro overthrew two years ago.

Castro was replying to an open letter to him from Cuba's Bishops, declaring that his government promotes communist doctrines and is stepping up its drive against the Church. The 80-year-old Cardinal signed the letter, which was read on Dec. 4 in all Cuban churches.

TRADE PACT SIGNED
The day Castro spoke, Dec. 17, his government signed a $60-million trade pact with the Union.

Castro charged that Cardinal Artime was at the beck and call of Batista's residence.

"The Cardinal didn't write pastorals then" Castro said.

"He went there to give the kiss of Judas to the bloody dictator."

The bearded premier asserted that the Cuban Bishops discriminate against "real Christian priests" and favor " facetious priests who don't care about what happens to people."

Mr. Castro referred to a charge in the Bishops' letter that their previous complaint about government programs has brought the government's wrath upon the Church.

He said: "We do believe that to be anticommunist is to be counterrevolutionary." He added that anything that divides the Cuban people is counterrevolutionary anti-Catholicism, he said.

The Premier also attacked judges who have resigned in protest against their interference with the courts, and have fled the country. He declared that "good judges and priests would be spared in a purge", he said everyone is demanding.

The Premier's attack on Cardinal Artime brought a prompt response from Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Boza Mansvial of Havana, who is also rector of the Catholic University of Villanueva.

Bishop Boza Mansvial termed the attack "brutal and uncalled for." He said he did not know if the Church would even answer it.

NO COMMENT ON CHARGES
Later, a spokesman for the Cardinal said there was no comment on Castro's charges.

The government-controlled newspaper El Mundo said that Catholic authorities had forbidden a pro-revolutionary priest, Father German Lence, to appear on a television program.

The paper said Father Lence was to have spoken on "A Good Christian and the Revolution."

"Father Lence has spoken at pro-Castro rallies," the paper stated. He publicly called a Mass of Thanksgiving after Castro's release from illness last summer.

According to Tracy S. Voorhees, personal representative of President Eisenhower, re-location of Cuban refugees in southern Florida will be done through "religious and private" re-location agencies.

He pointed out that "Miami is absolutely congested with the refugees and therefore a very substantial number of them have to be resettled."

He named the National Catholic Welfare Conference as one of the agencies "expert at resettlement problems" and added that the agencies "will determine where the refugees will be relocated as they did for the Hungarian refugees."

Miss Minerva Mores arrived in Miami Monday from the New York Headquarters of Catholic Relief Services in New York. A veteran of nine years' experience in working with refugees in Austria and Yugoslavia, Miss Mores will interview Cuban refugees relative to relocation.

Centro Hispano Catolico is also represented at the Cuban Refugee Center. Miss Lacy Torres, a social worker, is assisted by Mrs. Ibis Guinness in providing emergency financial assistance for housing to refugees.

"The first two days of the office was open," Miss Torres reported. "68 persons were interviewed, all have the same story: they are without jobs, without food and need clothing."

Some families, she pointed out, are trying to make arrangements to bring their children from Cuba.

With Christmas holidays approaching, the ANMVEA (American Veterans of American War II and Korea) have inaugurated a nationwide "Christmas for Cubans" fund.

According to Harold Russell, national commander who came to Havana last week, according to the purpose of the fundraising campaign is twofold: to provide for the material needs of the refugees and to create a good climate of understanding among people in cities where refugees will be relocated.

"Today in Miami," the band- less war hero declared, "democracy is on trial. Refugees from Cuba have fled the growing tyranny of Premier Fidel Castro's government, and have demonstrated their belief and faith in American democracy by seeking refuge here."

Facilities at Centro Hispano Catolico were expanded this week with the opening of a second nursery to care for children of working mothers. More than 30 children between the ages of two and six are already enrolled in the kindergarten conducted in the basement of the Centro. A qualified teacher is assisted daily by members of Section Cubana, an auxiliary of Spanish-speaking women.

The boys and girls are served lunch in the school cafeteria. Some 20 more children are cared for in the nursery on the first floor of Centro under the direction of Sister Rosario, O.P.

Dr. Edward J. Lauth, director of the Miami Clinic at Centro, announced that laboratory facilities will be completed within a short time there and that the clinic will be open every day as soon as arrangements for physicians and nurses are completed.

Migr. John J. Fitzpatrick, a member of Miami's Cuban Refugee Committee, emphasized this week that all of the money granted by the federal government is being used for transportation and relocation of the refugees. "The resettlement and talk about federal monies being given directly to the refugees is unfounded and unfortunate," he said.

"Many persons may be anxious to help these refugees," Monsignor Fitzpatrick said. "But they must know that the federal government is under the mistaken notion that the federal funds will take care of this, and that private sources are sorely needed, if the Cuban Hispano Centro is to continue to care for desperate cases."

In a special report to President Eisenhower, Mr. Voorhees termed the situation in South Florida a "critical" one and urged people in all sections of the U.S. to help.

"This is both a challenge and an opportunity to do the kind of thing our country stands for," he said. "Many of these refugees are unquestionably among the finest citizens of Cuba, but they are suffering widespread immediate hardship. Although the exiles have spread to other Florida cities and as far as New York, New Orleans and Los Angeles, the most acute crisis is in Miami."

"The time has come for the American people to realize the problem and the need for action, as they did in the case of the Hungarian refugees. Our people have not yet realized this new situation and the opportunity it gives to prove in action the true humanitarian spirit of America," he said.

Catholic Relief Services Opens Miami Office To Aid Refugees

The world-wide Catholic Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference this week opened offices in the Cuban Refugee Emergency Center in downtown Miami as the Church, the federal government and private organizations accelerate their programs of assistance to refugees from the regime of Fidel Castro.

Christmas Food For Refugees

No refugees will go hungry in Miami on Christmas.

Certified checks "for purchase of food only" will be given in hardships cases to all who are registered with the Cuban Refugee Emergency Center from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today at its offices, 223 NW Third Ave., Miami.

The amount will range from $1.50 for single persons to $6 for families.

Funds will come from a contribution of $5,000 made jointly by the First National Bank of Miami and the Texaco Oil Company.

Mores will interview Cuban refugees relative to relocation.

Belgian Royal Couple Takes Vows As Cardinal Officiates

BRUSSELS (NC) — Joseph Cardinal Van Roey officiated in St. Gudule church here at the first marriage of a reigning Belgian king.

The Archbishop of Malines gave King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola a special nuptial blessing in the name of Pope John XXIII. The special blessing was announced in a papal letter read by Archbishop Efrem Fossi, Apostolic Nuncio to Belgium. Another nuptial blessing was given by Cardinal Siri, Archbishop of Genoa, Italy, and Pope John's delegate to the wedding.

According to the new marriage ritual for Belgium, King Baudouin himself escorted his Spanish bride to the altar. During the nuptial mass, celebrated by Auxiliary Bishop Leo Suenens of Malines, the King and Queen received Communion.

The church wedding followed the civil marriage ceremony required by Belgian law.

The new Queen of the Belgians is a profoundly religious woman of 21 who founded and operated a charity for the poor in the shantytowns on the fringes of the city.

The former Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, she is the daughter of the late Count Gonzalo de Mora, Aragon, she is the daughter of the late Count Gonzalo de Mora, who received the title from Pope Leo XIII.

Peace on Earth
good will to men

Nigh on two thousand years ago, Christ the Prince of Peace was born. The greatest gift from God to man is ours forever. It's our Christian custom to celebrate this festival by the giving of gifts to those we love. Christmas is a day for giving... a time of joy for us all. Even though we are unable to give material things to all those we love, we can give a more priceless gift, the gift of love to our fellow man, something of ourselves. A smile, a helpful word, the warm hand of friendship. For love divided multiplies. We pray we may show more good will to man so that there may be peace in our world.

Polish Priest Ex-Prisoner Of Reds Arrives In U.S.

CHICAGO (N) — A Polish priest who spent four years in a communist prison is looking forward this year to "a most happy and holy Christmas in Chicago."

"Thank God I'm alive!" Msgr. Paul Ilinski exclaimed upon his arrival here, "It's a miracle how I finally came to the United States."

Prime mover in the campaign that brought the Polish churchman here was Father Stanley Rokicki, pastor of St. Boniface church.

TEMPORARY PASSPORT

Father Rokicki began his efforts on behalf of Msgr. Ilinski after the Monsignor managed to slip out of Poland by means of a temporary passport to Italy. He contacted Chicago's Back of the Yards Council, the House majority leader, to intercede with the State Department. Others who spoke up on Msgr. Ilinski's behalf were Sen. Everett Dirksen and Rep. Edward Derwinski, both of Illinois.

A permanent visa was obtained enabling Msgr. Ilinski to come to Chicago, where he will live with Father Rokicki.

The Monsignor said it is "much better that I do not talk about my ordeal under the communists or about what's going on in Poland today."

VISITED U.S.

"All I may say is that conditions there between the Church and State are not improving," he added.

At the outbreak of World War II, Church authorities had signed him to find homes for Polish refugees, especially priests. He engaged in his work until 1945, when he was sent to the U.S. to study Catholic youth programs.

Msgr. Ilinski's stay in this country was cut short by the Polish communist regime, which refused to extend his one-year visa. In 1949 Msgr. Ilinski was arrested by the communists and charged of being a spy for the Vatican and the United States. He was sentenced to 10 years in jail. In 1954, however, he was granted a new trial and was acquitted when the court acknowledged that the charges against him were false.

Retreat House Blessed

DETROIT (N) — A million-dollar retreat house for laymen was dedicated by Archbishop John F. Dearden. The rambling St. Paul of the Cross Retreat House, operated by Passionist Fathers has 96 single private rooms, each with a bath.

Other features include a spacious assembly room, a court yard and a library. The chapel, a separate building, has 11 altars. Ten more altars are in the subchapel.

30 Priests Aid Rescuers At N.Y. Air Crash

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (N) — More than 30 priests were among the hundreds of official rescue workers and volunteers who fought the holocaust here after the airliner collision which killed 136 persons.

The first priest to arrive was Father Raymond J. Morgan, who was walking outside St. Augustine's church a block away. He estimated 30 priests arrived soon after.

Father Morgan saw the crippled United Airlines DC-8 jet crash. It had collided with a Trans-World Airlines constellation which fell on Miller Army Field in Staten Island. The disaster was the worst in aviation history.

The possibility of even greater disaster was barely averted when the jet plummeted to earth, missing by only a few feet the towering steeples of St. Augustine's church, one of Brooklyn's oldest.

Next door to the church, 850 students of the normal total of 1,095 at St. Augustine's parochial school had braved early morning snow to attend classes. Close by is St. Augustine's diocesan high school for boys, with a student body of 750.

Brother Brendan of the high school's staff said it appeared to him that the United plane made a deliberate effort to avoid the steeples.

BLANKETED by snow of the first storm of the year, the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, D.C., is shown above. A Christmas midnight Mass to be offered there will be televised nationally. In Miami, WPST will carry the program on Channel 10. Celebrant of the Mass will be Bishop John J. Cumber, M.M., Superior General of the Maryknoll Fathers.

We are deeply grateful to many friends throughout the Diocese for their generous donations which have helped us to serve over 36,000 free meals at Camillus House since September 1, 1960.

We wish all of you a blessed and joyful Christmas Season.

The Brothers of The Good Shepherd
No Room for Gloom

A man who had just heard his first detailed sermon on the Ten Commandments was heard to remark somewhat scholastically: “It's a good thing no one keeps them all. There would be no joy left in life.”

More than a few people have the unspoken conviction that the greater the fidelity to the Commandments, the thicker the gloom in one's life. All the jokes that deal with sin, picture sin as a loss.

The Victorian caricature of virtue still carries weight and people are surprised to learn that saints have a sense of humor.

St. Therese of Lisieux was considered the Wittiest member of her community. It may sound irreverent to classify St. Philip Neri among the wittiest members of his community. It may sound irreverent to classify St. Philip Neri among the wittiest members of his community.

Few people would think of the Virgin Mother as humorless, but St. Therese once wrote, “The Virgin Mother gave birth to Our Saviour nearly 20 centuries ago. This is Christmas as a historical event. But every moment of every day Christ is in fact reborn in the hearts of those who come to believe in Him and welcome Him.”

This is Christmas in its immortal meaning. It is the reason why its vigor and spirit increase rather than decline with the passing of time. This alone explains why the celebration of the birth of Our Lord is ever fresh and joyful, as if each is the first.

By JOHN VANNAGAN

The Church, as we have seen, continues in its corporate existence the mission of its Divine Founder to promote the glory of God and to effect the salvation of men through their sanctification. Christ wills to have the heart of every one of His Mystical Body in carrying out this work.

As individual members we too share in this divine task, all professing the same faith and sharing the same sacred rites, anticipating in the same Sacrifice: observing the same laws under the guidance of the Vicar of Christ.

To assist us in this endeavor, God has given us signs of the inward grace He bestows on us. They sustain us from birth to death by an uninterrupted series of graces.

We are reborn by Baptism from the death of sin to the life of faith, and by living members of the Church and gain the right to partake of the fruits of the Church's activity and strength are the fruit of Confirmation, fitting us to defend our Faith and our Church.

Ever at hand throughout life, the sacrament of Penance thaws the frozen sin of sin and brings us back to spiritual health.

And among these vital means to sanctity is the Holy Eucharist, the Living Bread that nourishes the soul, and binds us yet more firmly to our Head. When death approachcs, the Church offers us with the Last Anointing as the means we make ready for our journey to God.

The social fabric of the Church is continued and maintained through the Sacraments of Matrimony and Holy Orders. Marriage provides for the external and sanctifying ties of the family, members in the Church, and moverve safeguards the correct religious education of the children.

Finally, Holy Orders consecrates to the perpetual service of the Blessed Sacrament and the sacred ministers. It is they who offer the unending Sacrifice; they are the stewards of the Bread of Angels and the food of doctrine, who guide them in the way of the Commandments and the counsels of holiness.

Still other kinds of unity, companionship to our life of sanctity, are illuminated by the light of Christ; by Hope we yearn for Him and His eternal kingdom; by Charity we abide in His love and live in the love of our neighbor.

Because we possess this tremendous store of spiritual energy we are disposed to act in accord with the mind and will of Christ. Our thoughts, our words, and our actions are joined with His. We strive to see things as Christ would see them, to speak as He would speak, to act as He would act. We would not act, in a word, becoming "other Christs." By Faith Christ is known, by Hope He is loved, by Love He is possessed.

It is this silent, divine influence radiating from Christ in His Church that reveals its remarkable likeness everywhere. For it accounts for the identical self-sacrifice and generosity of countless members, manifest in home and

Christmas Belongs To Children Of All Ages

By FATHER JAMES J. WALSH

It is true to say that Christmas belongs to children, only if we agree that we are all children of all ages. After all, whoever knows and accepts the meaning of Christmas becomes a child for this is no less than an invitation from Our Lord: "Unless you become younger than children, you cannot enter into the Kingdom of heaven." At an old man, bowed with the weight of years and experience, looks intently at the infant in the crib. The years seem to fall off, as he gazes wide-eyed at the God who became a baby. The wonder of wonders — God on earth, God as the child of a Virgin, God come to earth, Game sitting on the hand of God which he lovingly held and never let go! — Game sitting on the hand of God, which he lovingly held and never let go!

Agnus Dei, child of God, who now, as the gentle Word, has become a baby, Game sitting on the hand of God which he lovingly held and never let go!

Agnus Dei, child of God, who now, as the gentle Word, has become a baby, Game sitting on the hand of God which he lovingly held and never let go!

Agnus Dei, child of God, who now, as the gentle Word, has become a baby, Game sitting on the hand of God which he lovingly held and never let go!

Lessons Learned From The Infant King

By FR. KILIAN McGOWAN, C.P.

We are all children; we are from the very first childhood of the race. Our childhood is the conscious experience of the Incarnation and Redemption. Its infusion into our hearts and lives by the Church and the sacraments and the final fulfillment in Heaven.

In the Crib and the Cross the saints discovered well-springs of the knowledge of God that never dry up. St. Francis, founder of the order of the Christmas crib, could spend hours of silent love there. St. Thomas wrote that he learned far more from the crucifix than from his vast theological research.

To deepen our knowledge of God, let us go to the crib at Christmas as the old man went to the shepherd — of course, those shepherds — hasteing to Bethlehem to see what was born there, perhaps it may have been an excuse for them to wonder, but there is none for us. We know what those shepherds found! Thousands of unknown answers about God found their answer on a bed of straw.

Gaze upon that Infant Savior held by the Virgin Mother. See the tiny hands that contain the very Power of God. How often they will be lifted to bless, to heal the sick and the sightless, to nourish the hungry as well as to bodies. Look into the eyes that already caress you. And in the presence of God, he can see none else but a child.

The thing about Christmas is everlasting and universal. This is why it was decided that the days of Christmas be^
Separated Christians Belong To Church, Cardinal Says

ROME (NC) — The Church cannot sacrifice truth for unity, but Catholics must remember that through Baptism separated Christians somehow belong to the Mystical Body of Christ, according to Augustin Cardinal Bea, S.J.

Cardinal Bea, president of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, made these points in an article in which he discussed various aspects of the recent visit of the Archbishop of Canterbury to the Pope. The Cardinal wrote in Civiltà Cattolica, Jesuit fortnightly published here.

Cardinal Bea said he considered the visit a “unique example of effrontery” of Church and state.

The British Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffrey Fisher, and the Anglican Archbishop Michael Ramsey of York made the papal visit and discussed possible formation of an Anglican-Roman Catholic Joint Commission. The visit is considered significant in negotiations of a potential agreement between the two churches.

The visit is part of an ongoing dialogue aimed at reducing theological and pastoral differences between the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches. The dialogue seeks to improve mutual understanding and foster cooperation inareas such as ecumenism, human rights, and social justice.

In his article, Cardinal Bea emphasized the importance of maintaining the Church’s integrity and the need for dialogue to address the challenges faced by the Church. He highlighted the need for cooperation in areas such as social and economic justice, peace, and human rights.

The dialogue between the two churches is seen as a step towards eventual full communion, which would include the granting of full communion to Anglicans in the Roman Catholic Church and vice versa. However, the process is likely to be long and complex, involving deep theological and organizational changes.

“The regimes founded by communism in Europe and in Asia are conscious of the fact that they cannot suppress the doctrine of the Church by force. They do not believe that they can replace every means to replace ecclesiastical with a framework of laws which, according to local conditions, can be more or less harsh.”

The regimes founded by communism in Europe and in Asia are conscious of the fact that they cannot suppress the doctrine of the Church by force. They do not believe that they can replace every means of life and of pastoral jurisdiction.”

Cathedral Concert Acclaimed

Organ music played by an Italian virtuoso of worldwide reputation was heard by nearly 1,000 people last Sunday evening in St. Mary Cathedral.

Fernando Germani, concert organist and head of the organ department of the State Conservatory of Music in Rome, played for a full hour in the Cathedral, where he was his first recital in America.

Compositions by Bach and Franck highlighted the program which was given under the auspices of Father Coleman F. Carroll who attended the performance. Priests and nuns were in the audience which also included local organists, musicians and choir members. The Blessed Sacrament was removed for the concert which was part of the diocesan observance of the Christmas season.

Mr. Germani's second selection, Noel en Musette, an Italian carol in honor of the Nativity of Our Lord, was introduced by the Cathedral Choir of 80 voices who sang in the original French version. Mr. Germani utilized all the resources of the organ which has 3,000 pipes that vary in size from a 1-foot one blown in the pedal organ to the highest pipes blown in the pedal organ, to the highest pitches blown in the organ.

The most moving pieces of the evening were Bach's Toccata, Adagio and Fugue in C Major and Cesar Franck's Choral, Adagio and Fugue in C Minor, sung in France.

After a brief repetition of quiet melodies, Mr. Germani led into a crescendo which, at the closing, revealed the total power of the organ as well as the musical command which makes Mr. Germani so well-respected in the field of organ music.

The music editor of The Miami Herald, Doris Reno, wrote after the Cathedral concert that Mr. Germani's "reputation is well-deserved for he is a brilliant and sensitive performer on his instrument, equal to the simplest lyric expression and of the grand outpouring that Johann Sebastian Bach and Cesar Franck frequently called for."

The critic observed that "the new Cathedral organ has unusual brilliance and power of the organ as well as the musical command which makes Mr. Germani so well-respected in the field of organ music.

CHRIST'S BIRTH is narrated for first grade pupils in St. Francis Xavier and St. Mary of the Missions School by Sister Columba, O.P., shown with Anthony Furlone and Consy Culmer. Mangers were set up in classrooms throughout the diocese.
Robert Kennedy To Be 16th Catholic To Serve In Cabinet

WASHINGTON (N.C.) — Robert F. Kennedy, 36, will be the 16th Catholic to serve in the Cabinet when he takes office as Attorney General.

He is the first Catholic to be named to a cabinet post by the first Catholic President — his brother, President-elect John F. Kennedy.

A Catholic — James P. Mitchell — is now Secretary of Labor in President Eisenhower's cabinet, where he succeeded another Catholic, the late Martin P. Durkin.

Other appointees to the Kennedy cabinet include the fourth and fifth Jews to serve in the cabinet.

The two men are Arthur J. Goldberg, special counsel of the AFL-CIO, who was named Secretary of Labor, and Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Despite his Irish-sounding name, Robert S. McNamara, President-elect Kennedy's choice for Secretary of Defense, is not a Catholic. Mr. McNamara, president of the Ford Motor Company, is an elder of the Presbyterian church in Ann Arbor, Mich.

There were more Catholic cabinet members under former Pres. Harry S. Truman — four — than any other U.S. President.

From the time of George Washington until 1955, five Catholics served in the cabinets of four different Chief Executives. Between 1933 and 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt named four Catholics to cabinet posts, and three actually served. The first Catholic cabinet member was Beatty Broock Taft, Attorney General and Secretary of the Treasury under Andrew Jackson in the 1830's.

BIBLE of the Kennedy family will be used by President-elect John F. Kennedy to take the oath of office in January. It is the first Douay version to be used in a Presidential inauguration.

This capital is relaxedly quiet, in a way that it is quiet every four years. The 87th Congress has gone. The 88th Congress is waiting in the wings. There is no action on the legislative stage. Top administrative officers are cleaning out their desks. New officials will occupy them come Jan. 20.

This capital is quiet, but only relatively quiet and not still. Government goes on, and those agencies charged with national security and defense are as alert and active as ever. Here briefly is the picture seen from this world capital:

There is actual fighting, including civil war, in many places on earth. There is bloody fighting in other quarters. Nations already subjugated by communism continue to suffer, and still new ones are being forged for the joker in the political pack. And against nations and peoples.

Dominican Republic Move To Deport Nuns Reported

(The Dominican Republic is stepping up its anti-Catholic Church activities.

Such anti-Church actions by the regime dominated by Rafael Leonidas Trujillo have increased in number and intensity since last January. At that time the Bishops of the Dominican Republic issued a pastoral letter protesting a wave of government arrests and declaring that human rights took precedence over state rights.

Latest incidents reported include:

1. Nuns in charge of government hospitals and charitable institutions have been informed that their contracts are to be cancelled and that they are to leave the country.

2. The government has announced that a law will be passed soon which would eliminate all courses of Catholic instruction for Catholic children in the primary and secondary schools.

3. An Italian teaching brother and a Spanish priest have been expelled from the country without explanation to the respective embassies, nor to the Catholic bishops.

PERMITS DEPORTATION

These latest reports come on the heels of a story in the Dominican government controlled newspaper El Caribe to the effect that the government is considering legislation which would permit immediate deportation of any person, or prelates, who acts against "social order and public peace" or who "intervenes in public affairs." Best estimates are that at least 46 priests have been expelled from the country since March, 1960.

The expulsion threat against nuns would affect Sisters, most of whom are dedicated to the care of the sick, the aged, orphans and lepers. Most of the Sisters are of Spanish nationality; a few are Mexican or native sisters. A total of perhaps 190 Sisters would be deported — more than half of them Sisters of Charity. Other nun groups include Spanish Dominicans, Carmelites, Mercedarians, and Handmaids of Mary.

These nun groups are conducting their work under contracts which require three to twelve months notice for termination. However, in view of the government notice, they are disposing of their possessions and have their bags packed in anticipation of imminent departure.

Ecuador Pastoral Cites Red Danger

QUITO, Ecuador (NC) — Cardinal de la Torre, Archbishop of Quito, has declared that Ecuador and the Catholic Faith "are in grave and imminent danger from communism."

His pastoral letter attacking communism came as a reply to a call by former Interior Minister Manuel Arajo Badillo for relations with the Soviet Union. Mr. Arajo, who has resigned from the cabinet, was addressing a crowd protesting against what he called American discrimination against Ecuador.

Cardinal de la Torre said: "What is the meaning of the loud shouts which have deafened the air of Ecuador and Cuba? We need nothing from Russia or from Cuba. Ecuador is enough. Remember, what communism did in Hungary, in Spain during the republican regime, and in China..."

Communism Seen No Cure For Ills Of Latin America

MEXICO CITY (NC) — Latin America is social and spiritually sick but materialistic communism offers no cure, young Catholic leaders from eight nations agreed here.

Delegates to the Third Latin American Regional Conference of Catholic Youth concluded that if Latin America's current crisis is to be overcome, the young people must start a program of Christian action inspired by strong spirituality.

Nigeria Official Praises Church

LAGOS, Nigeria (NC) — A Nigerian government official has praised the Church's educational efforts in this newly independent African nation.

Daniel Chukuma Ugwu, parliamentary secretary of Minister of Education Aja Nwachukwu, spoke at the opening of St. Joseph Teacher Training College here.

Mr. Ugwu said Nigeria's government's own efforts in the field of education had been hampered by the efforts of a number of individuals and bodies.

Papal Count Frank J. Lewis,
Church Philanthropist, Dead

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll of St. Edward Church, Palm Beach, for Frank J. Lewis, 93, noted philanthropist and outstanding Catholic lay leader, this morning sang a Posthumous Requiem Mass in St. Edward Church, Palm Beach, for the late Papal Count, Frank J. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis, a Papal Count, died at his home in Palm Beach Wednesday morning of a coronary thrombosis. The body will be sent to Chicago where funeral services will be held from St. Ambrose Church next Tuesday. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery there.

Mr. Lewis, whose generosity to the Church, national and international, had built many missions and churches, particularly in Florida, and had contributed to hundreds of other philanthropic enterprises.

He was a Knight Commander of the Holy Sepulchre and held many other honors.

Mr. Lewis received the last rites of the Church from Mgr. Jeremiah J. O'Mahoney, pastor of St. Edward Church, of which he was a member.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by six sons: Jerome, of Omaha, Neb.; John, James and Thomas, all of Chicago; Edward and Phillip of West Palm Beach; a daughter, Mrs. J. P. McGroarty, of Chicago, and a brother, W. H. Lewis, of LaGrange, Ill.

On the occasion of his 90th birthday, he received a cabled blessing from the late Pope Pius XII. He also received a greeting from the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch, Archbishop of Chicago, which read:

"Count Lewis in his life has brought to the fore the Christian definition which seriously makes surplus wealth the patrimony of the poor. With rare perception he has sought by his benefactions to help the spiritually needy."

MASS OF THANKSGIVING

On his 90th birthday, Archbishop Joseph F. Hurley, of St. Augustine, offered a Mass of Thanksgiving for Mr. Lewis which was attended by 20 priests in St. Edward Church, Palm Beach.

The Papal Count, his wife, members of his immediate family and friends received Holy Communion at the special Mass.

The cabled blessing from Pope Pius XII and the greeting from the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch, were read at that time.

FAMILY PRESENT

Commemorating the occasion was Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, six sons, a daughter, a daughter-in-law, widow of a seventh son, four other daughters-in-law and five nieces.

Archbishop Hurley felicitated Count Lewis and expressed gratitude to him for his generosity to the mission areas of the Diocese. He said:

"From Callahan in Nassau County to Immokalee in Collier County, and from Quincy in Gadsden County to the Redlands of south Dade Couny, LANTANA, Fla. — It was another school Nativity scene. There was a statue in the crib to represent the Infant Jesus. Surrounding the crib were the shepherds, the wise men, the angels, Mary and Joseph knelt in the hay.

All seemed familiar, yet there was a special difference.

The small, fair-haired angel behind the crib was seated on a non-tilt chair, propped up with cushions so that she wouldn't topple over. The robes worn by the shepherds and the cloaks of the wise men held steel braces. One was in a wheel chair.

The Blessed Mother had been permitted to leave off her thickened glasses for the occasion. The figure of the Baby Jesus, so little, was bloused and dim.

ACTORS HAVE DIFFICULTY

Yes, the Nativity scene was a special one, presented on Dec. 16 at Morning Star School, which is conducted by the Sisters of Life, Miami. The figure of the Baby Jesus, for example, was played by Joseph Marie. She had difficulty maintaining an upright position, but to the parents the pageant spelled progress. Their children are learning to overcome their handicaps and to adapt themselves to the world about them. That is what the Sisters are teaching the pupils to do.

The event ended with a Christmas party for the children. Father Gerard J. Manning, school director, congratulated them all the boys and girls for their parts in the pageant, and Santa Claus made his appearance to present gifts to the pupils.

In the spirit of Christmastide, and with the warmth it signifies, we say to all our many friends — May this Christmas Season and the New Year be rich with blessings for you!

Josberger Funeral
By FR. PATRICK O'CONNOR
Society of St. Columban

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (NO)
— Realities in Bethlehem today help to light up the Gospel rec-cord of the first Christmas.

Bethlehem itself is as real and as definite as Brooklyn or Birmingham or Bologna, and far older than any of them. To find it, nobody needs to search or study or excavate. From Our Lord's time and one thousand years before that, it has been inhabited and known.

Today you can take Bus 22 near the Damascus Gate of Jerusalem, and 45 minutes later you are in the hillside town of Bethlehem. It is a 10-mile ride on a new corksewed road winding among steep, bare hills. The old road, little more than half as long, cannot be used since the par-dition of Palestine, as it runs through Israeli territory. Bethlehem and the Old City of Jerusalem are in Jordan.

From the bus you see a few peasants walking or riding in single file on the trails that run through the stony, white-and-brown hills. Against the evening sky you see a man on foot leading somebody who is seated on a slow-paced donkey. So, and over such a trail, Joseph and Mary must have made their way to Bethlehem.

The stable where they found shelter could not have been anything but a cave or grotto.

ELABORATELY DECORATED

The countryside around Bethlehem had indeed more trees in Our Lord's time than it has now. But the remains of old buildings show that timber was built of stone, as they are today. So the stable in which Our Lord was born was no wooden structure but one of the many caves or grottos in the hillsides. You see them on the way from Jerusalem and in the valley below Bethlehem. They are still used as shelters.

These caves are wide and low,
as a rule, with a slanted "roof"
of shelving rock.

The Grotto of the Nativity below the ancient basilica is, beyond reasonable doubt, the actual place of Our Lord's birth. It is identified by a tradition that can be traced back to the second century, when it was already established.

The grotto is elaborately decorated now, with marble and tapestries, and the air is heavy with the warmth of oil lamps and candles. But it is still a cave in a rocky hillside, and the natural rock can be seen and touched.

OUTSKIRTS OF TOWN

There was no hay in the stables, because the custom of saving hay does not exist in the Holy Land and customs among the peasants change little. If there was anything in the man-gar, it was the straw of wheat or barley.

The Franciscans buy milk
from local farmers in Bethlehem today, though cows are not numerous. A prosperous family might have two or three cows. Donkeys are used currently for journeys around the neighborhood. If there were animals actually in the stable with the Holy Family, they were probably a cow or two and a donkey.

Bethlehem is due south of Jerusalem, and the basilica that covers the Grotto of the Nativi-ity stands on the southern side of modern Bethlehem. It is believed that in Our Lord's time
most of the town was on the northern slope. Hence the stable-cave would have been on the outskirts of the town, on the side
away from Jerusalem.

SHEPHERDS' FIELD

The traditional "Shepherds' Field" lies about a mile and a quarter farther on. A Greek Catholic church stands there. Not far away a beautiful little

Birthplace Of Our Lord

THE CAVE in which Jesus was born is preserved below the Basilica of the Nativity in Bethlehem and attracts visitors all the year round. The dress of the native women seen here dates back to the time of the Crusades and is considered the appropriate garb when visiting the Manger.

The Franciscans buy milk
from local farmers in Bethlehem today, though cows are not numerous. A prosperous family might have two or three cows. Donkeys are used currently for journeys around the neighborhood. If there were animals actually
in the stable with the Holy Family, they were probably a cow or two and a donkey.

Bethlehem is due south of Jerusalem, and the basilica that covers the Grotto of the Nativi-
ity stands on the southern side of modern Bethlehem. It is believed that in Our Lord's time
most of the town was on the northern slope. Hence the stable-
cave would have been on the outskirts of the town, on the side
away from Jerusalem.

Training Course For CCD Workers In Christmas Week

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine will conduct several training courses in CCD work during Christmas week in the classrooms of Barry College, Miami Shores.

Designed to meet the needs of parish CCD units and to prepare other parish units to train school pupils for the teaching of religion to children who attend public school, the courses at Barry are open to all men and women of the diocese.

Father R. E. Philbin, diocesan director of CCD, said, the courses will be taught by Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart. The Sisters conducted the last CCD study session for the diocese and instructed persons representing 20 parishes.

TRAINING NEEDED

Father Philbin said that among the volunteer teachers presently giving instruction to some 16,000 public school pupils throughout the diocese, "there are many who need the type of training that we are offering during Christmas week. Parish executive boards are also urged to take advantage of this opportunity for concentrated study," he said.

Registration forms for the courses are available through parish units of the CCD. The diocese office is located at St. Michael the Archangel Church, NE 4-5042.

Adaptive Way Methods for teaching elementary school pupils will be taught for three hours from 9 a.m. to noon, on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 27 to 30. A second course in Adaptive Way Methods for teaching elementary school pupils will be given on the same days from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Anyone can enroll in either course.

PARENTS INVITED

Parents of elementary school students who attend public school can also attend these courses even if they do not plan to teach in the CCD Schools of Religion at this time. The Adaptive Way Method of teaching religion can be carried over into the home for everyday living.

An advanced course in Adaptive Way Methods will be held for six hours each day, December 27 to 30. This course is open only to CCD teachers who now hold a basic certificate in Adaptive Way Methods awarded this year in the Diocese of Miami, and some other selected CCD teachers.

Courses in the evening, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. are for men and women primarily planning to teach public high school students, and for executive board training.

NEEDED IN FUTURE

New members, or co-chairmen of CCD divisions on parish and diocesan boards will be needed in the future. All parish workers interested in CCD work, especially those who do not feel they can teach, are urged to attend the executive board training sessions on Dec. 26, 27 and 28 at 7 p.m. Diocesan Board Training will be given on December 29 and 30th.

Adaptive Way Methods for teaching high school students in CCD classes of religion will be held every night, Monday through Friday, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Dreaming Of A White Christmas?

Some Thoughts on It's a bright an' balmy evenin' an' I'm settin' here alone. A thinkin' of the difference 'tween here an' way back home. Where I know the Mississippi is jes' solid cakes of ice. An' every kitchen's smellin' full o' raisins, cakes an' spice. An' the Christmas spirit's shinin' out o' every face you meet. An' you feel the frosty crackle o' the ground beneath your feet. Down here I s'pose they'll maybe feel a lot o' Christmas joy. But to me it won't be Christmas like it would in Illinois.

An' then there's pore old Santy Claus: my heart jes' aches fer him. All bundled up in his big coat of red with white fur trim. He looks jes' like the pictures, but he seems so out of place. An' I see him, kinda sneakin'-like, a-moppin' of his face. But still it might not be the heat — (God bless the dear old soul!) As like as not he's thinkin' of his home up by the Pole. An' I bet he'd rather be there makin' things fer girls an' boys. He's lonesomelike, an' homesick, — like I am fer Illinois!

An' there's lots o' Christmas packages done up in red and green. An' they look the same as other Christmas packages I've seen. An' people standin' all in line to mail their presents home. It makes a feller wonder jes' how far these folks has come. An' if they feel as queer about this Christmas here as me; An' wouldn't they 'most every one jes' give their eyes to be Back home in some loved spot a thousand miles or more away. Instead o' sendin' greetin's fer this comin' Christmas day.

There's a star up there a-shinin' an' it looks so big an' bright. It sure must be the Christmas Star — a-shinin' here, tonight! Now somehow, come to think of it, that ain't so queer a-tall. For when the little Christ was born, there in that stable small. There wasn't any snow or ice; er frost upon the ground. An' the sheep was findin' grass to eat on all the hills around. 'Twas nights like this that closed about that little Baby Boy. An' we're nearer here to Bethlehem than back in Illinoy!

The days down here are cool an' sw. But what with Christmas, don't hit me rig T' see folks goin' 'round i' summery an' lig. An' lookin' fer the shady 'long the street, Or settin' in their porches shelter'd from it. The palm trees an' the fi 'd fill yer hea'. But I'd rather see a Christ Back home in I.
Here are sunny an' the nights
it an' sweet;
all that I could ask, an' hard to beat;
Christmas comin' on, it jes' it me right round in clothes all y an' light
in shady side while walkin' in street, porches where they're d from the heat.
in' the flow'rs in bloom
'yer heart with joy
e a Christmas tree, — one in Illinoy.

it don't matter much wherever may be, —
'th, er way down south, er clear ost the sea,
little Christ-child, an' ye to do yer part Christmas spirit, — then it's
'rina in yer heart!

Bishop Swanstrom of New York, head of the U.S. Catholics' worldwide relief organization, was honored at a testimonial dinner sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, that the murals which adorn the walls were "completed just a few years ago by the renowned Italian artist, Professor Guido Greganti, at the request of Archbishop Hurley."

"Because the community at that time was in great need of hospital beds," Msgr. O'Donoghue said, "the best hospital architects available were engaged to design the future medical buildings to accommodate 900 bed-patients." To finance the project, a number of fund campaigns were conducted by parishes throughout the community.

Five years later Archbishop Hurley, through the Atomic Energy Commission, obtained a cobalt therapy unit which is now housed in a special addition to the hospital building. Msgr. O'Donoghue observed that Mercy "has the distinction of being the first hospital in the entire South equipped with such a unit." He said that more than 15,000 treatments have been given with the cobalt process and that 90 per cent of them have been administered without cost.

PLAINVIEW, N.Y. (AP) — "I'd rather shut my doors permanently than let anyone tell me what magazines I can display in my own store."

The defiant words came from Volkerd Vincent, proprietor of the Cape Lunchette to former patrons who have boycotted his store since he installed a Catholic magazine rack.

A few days later, several women customers told Mr. Vincent he didn't have to keep "that kind" of magazine and as long as he did they would refuse to patronize his store.

Since then, a number of Mr. Vincent's regular customers have discontinued their patronage. However, he said he had picked up even more customers seeking Catholic literature.

De Paul Society Aids Poor

The poor in many parishes will receive food and financial assistance again this Christmas from the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The layman's charitable organization which was kept busy this week packing baskets of groceries, buying toys and learning where money in most needed, will call at the homes of the poor to extend personal Christmas greetings and to hand over the Society's contributions.

In each parish that has a St. Vincent de Paul conference, the men will pass out the gifts privately, usually in the evening, or they may work in cooperation with other lay groups that look after the poor at Christmas.

The poor in many parishes are best acquainted with the needy families of that parish, explained Richard R. Roberts, president of the Miami chapter. "Our members within a parish are best acquainted with the needy families of that parish," explained Richard R. Roberts, president of the Miami chapter.

"We let the parish conference handle the program however the men wish." Gift baskets that are distributed usually contain enough for a family dinner on Christmas with some canned goods left over. In some cases the poor are notified ahead of time that the contributions are coming. Frequently, a parish conference will help people who live beyond the parish boundaries if there is no St. Vincent de Paul group in the adjacent parish.

In the Fort Lauderdale area, the eight conferences of the newly founded Fort Lauderdale Particular Council will brighten the season for needy families by distributing approximately 50 baskets of groceries. President William V. Nolan reported that toys and cash grants will also be made.

St. Francis of Assisi Built First Creche

Although the Crib in its present form and its use outside the church is credited to St. Francis of Assisi, the Child in the manger and the story of Bethlehem have been used in church services since the first centuries.

The Nativity scene was performed according to his instructions and as the joyful day approached Franciscan Friars were called from many communities and men and women of the neighborhood prepared candles and torches to brightness the night. The Crib was made ready with a manger on hay between an ass and an ox. St. Francis sang the gospel and preached a delightful sermon to the people who stood around him, speaking on the Nativity and the humble town of Bethlehem.

The animals in the scene, usually an ass and an ox, although not mentioned, in relation to the Nativity, in the Bible, are now traditionally part of the picture. St. Francis, too, was following tradition when he asked that these animals be placed near the manger. As early as the fourth century, they were represented in paintings of the Nativity.

One of the German sects that introduced the Christmas crib popular through his famous celebration at Greccio, Italy on Christmas Eve in 1223, with a Nativity-scene which included live animals.

According to his biographer, Thomas de Celano, St. Francis summoned a certain close friend two weeks before Christmas and told him he wanted to "enact the memory of the infant who was born at Bethlehem." At Greccio.

The Nativity scene was performed according to his instructions and as the joyful day approached Franciscan Friars were called from many communities and men and women of the neighborhood prepared candles and torches to brightness the night. St. Francis, too, was following tradition when he asked that these animals be placed near the manger. As early as the fourth century, they were represented in paintings of the Nativity.

FAMILIAR SIGHT

The custom originated with two passages in the Old Testament which were applied to Christ's birth: the words of Isaiah (1, 3), "The ox knowest not his owner, and the ass his master's crib; but Israel hath not known me and my people hath not understood," and the verse of Habacuc (13,2) in the Itala version, "In the midst of two animals Thou shalt become known."

Since the time of St. Francis, the Christmas crib has continued to be a familiar sight in churches and homes throughout the world. Farm- ers in central Europe spread the winter nights of Advent repairing and enlarging branch- crib, which are sometimes very large and made up of hundreds of figures.

One of the German sects that kept the custom of Christmas cubs even after the Reformation were called Moravians. A small group of Moravian missionaries came to America and founded the town of Bethlehem, Pa., on Christmas Eve, 1741, bringing with them the custom of the crib.

ANCIENT CHRISTIAN CUSTOM

Why We Trim A Christmas Tree

The Christmas Tree, first introduced in America about the year 1700, is completely Christian in origin and began with the combination of two medieval religious symbols.

MYSTERY PLAYS

During the 11th century, religious plays were performed in churches or outside churches in Germany. One of the most popular of these was the Paradise play which represented the creation of man, the sin of Adam and Eve, and their expulsion from Paradise and which closed with the promise of the coming Savior and of His Incarnation.

"A fir tree hung with apples indicated the Garden of Eden. Since it was the only object on the stage, the tree attracted the attention of all, particular-children.

"Because abuses occurred, the "mystery plays," were gradually discontinued in the 14th century. Since the people could no longer view the plays in church, they outside making up trees in their homes once each year, honoring Adam and Eve on their feast day which was Dec. 24.

CHRISTMAS LIGHT

Although the Latin Church has never officially honored Adam and Eve as saints, the Eastern Churches do so and the custom came into Europe from the East.

The Paradise Tree stood not only for the "Tree of Sin," but also for the "Tree of Life" (Genesic, 2, 3) and was therefore besides apples, wafers representing the Holy Eucharist, (Fruit of Life), later replaced by small pieces of pastry.

At Our House Christmas Week--Debit And Credit

B Y MARY Tinley DaL Y
As Christmas approaches, I wonder if ever you have:
- Had the new bike delivered to your house by mistake, rather than the house next door?
- Left a shopping bag of pre-ents on the bus?
- Been sold on, late at night, as you sewed doll clothes?
- Found children delving into presents cached away?
- Had your favorite fruit cakes burn on bottom and sides?
- Found Christmas cookies
(recipe) crumble as you remove them from the pan?
- Sent Aunt Agnes the 10-cent book — then learned that the Christmas Club is no longer doing business?
- Noticed that fuses blow their tops irritatingly often with all those lights?

I'm a convert and my 16-year-old daughter now asks permission to be a nun. I can't force myself to say "yes," yet she can give me logical reasons for becoming a sister, and I feel that these women who make themselves a spectacle by their unnatural ways and dress are wasting their precious lives. Is there any Scriptural foundation for this? My Catholic friends say it is a blessing, but must my daughter be odd and eccentric in order to be a blessing?

By FATHER JOHN L. THOMAS, S.J.

I think nobody will enjoy your comments about nuns more than the sisters themselves. Your letter suggests that you know very few of them personally. They tend to be odd and eccentric as the average run of women — just look around you! Considering the large number of women appearing in shorts, slacks, and various odd outfits, I doubt whether we can reasonably accuse the sisters of making a spectacle of themselves by their "unnatural" dress. Unless one is opposed to all distinctive uniforms, the sisters seem justified in maintaining their traditional garb.

Although some of their uniforms offer room for improvement — many have been or are being considerably modified — I think an unbiased observer would have to admit that the appearance of the average nun compares very well with her sister in secular garb. After all, the nun is out to match neither a cold nor a mate; if she chooses to wear a little extra yardage, that should be up to her.

Of course the real source of your difficulty is your failure to understand the spiritual significance of the sisters' way of life. I can appreciate your problem here because popular ex-

Two Degrees Of Morality

Briefly, there are two degrees of morality set forth in the Gospels. First, there are the precepts, the moral laws burdened on all and offering a relatively wide margin of action for human freedom and choice. Second, in the counsels God invites men to extend and make more perfect their dedication to themselves in His service. Those who heed this invitation aspire to a way of life that is higher than that of the precepts.

Through a life devoted to prayer, sacrifice, and the apostolate they assume a vocation in which they strive to forget themselves in order to dedicate themselves more completely to the service of God and their neighbor. This renunciation of self is not imposed by God — it is offered as a free choice to the individual Christian.

Christ Himself made the distinction between the vocation of the counsels and the precepts when pointing out to the rich young man the ways that lead to salvation, "But if thou enter into life, keep the commandments! ... The young man said: "All these have I kept . . . what is yet wanting to me?" Christ answered: "If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments! ... The young man said: "All these have I kept . . . what is yet wanting to me?"

Not A Negative Escape

In inviting some of the faithful to take the evangelical counsels as a program of life, Christ asks them to direct all their activities toward the pursuit of perfection: the tendency toward material possessions by the vow of poverty, the tendency toward conjugal love and its related enjoyments by the vow of chastity, and the tendency toward selfish independence by the vow of obedience. The religious life is not a more negative escape from the world's involvements, but a positive bid for complete freedom to serve Christ.

Perhaps part of your difficulty stems from a misunderstanding of the meaning of consecrated virginity. The Church honors virginity so highly not because it implies the mere preservation of physical integrity or non-participation in sexual life, but because it is consecrated to God. As the great theologian, St. Thomas Aquinas reminds us, the decision to remain virgin is "made praiseworthy only by its end and purpose, to the extent that it aims to make him who practices it free for things divine."

Anyone who accepts Catholic doctrine on the nature and destiny of man in forced to conclude the "state" of consecrated virginity is higher and more perfect than the "state" of marriage or singlehood lived according to the precepts. For if man is created to serve God, and this service admits of various degrees of completeness, then the state of life that involves the most complete dedication of service is clearly higher and more perfect.

You will never understand the religious life unless you view it in its supernatural context. When considering your daughter's request, reflect on the words of Our Lord, "If thou will be perfect." Surely, women who have the courage to follow his advice are not wasting their precious lives.

Columbus 'High Point School'
In Forensic League Tourney

Christopher Columbus High School was named high point school of the month in the National Catholic Forensic League tournament in oratory and extempore speaking last Saturday at St. Patrick auditorium.

Mgr. William Barry, P.A., also conferred trophy awards to the highest point contestants in each category. In the oratory division, first place was received by Eveready Verquizes of Archbishop Curley High School; second place, Richard Agnire, Christopher Columbus High School and third place, Susan Walsh, St. Patrick High School.

In the extempore division, first place trophy was awarded to Michael Buckley, Central High School, Fort Lauderdale; and an unbroken tie for second place was shared by James Waron of St. Patrick High School and Eric Froman of Archbishop Curley.

Six Catholic high schools participated in the second major event in the newly formed N.C.F.L. of the diocese. They were Immaculata Academy, Notre Dame Academy, Archbishop Curley, Christopher Columbus, St. Patrick and Central Catholic High Schools.

Under the direction of Brother Lawrence, a member of the faculty at Christopher Columbus, future tournaments have been planned in debating, declamations and other forms of public speaking. Laymen, teachers, prominent businessmen and speech majors have offered their services as judges in the contests.

Immaculata Academy will host to the third N.C.F.L. debate tournament on Saturday, Jan. 21.

Dear Doris:
I imagine my problem is worthwhile and a very important person to the only one who matters: Our Blessed Lord. Say the Lords Prayer as you go about your work. He will help you.

Dear Doris:
I'm a junior in high school and have decided to major in mathematics when I go to college. I would like to know what jobs other than teaching are open to girls in this field.

Loretta

Many government agencies, banks, insurance companies and other private enterprises now have job opportunities for college women with math majors. Many of these jobs are on the executive level.

Data processing, the translating of problems into a language that machines can understand; and programming which is working on systems and machines that help companies prepare payrolls, inventories and sales reports are but two of the interesting and well-paying jobs available. Accounting, credit inspection, statistics and auditing are others.

The dean and department advisor in college will be able to discuss the mathematics field with the specific job opportunities with you.

In the meantime read the bulletin "Outlook for Women in Mathematics and Statistics." 10 cents to The Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C. If you write to the General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York, they will send you a free copy of a pamphlet called "Why Study Math."

Dear Doris:
I am 21 years old and have not dated up to now. This has not been because of school but also because I am shy. Am I abnormal or immature because I have not dated?

Frank

No, you are not abnormal or immature. Human beings grow unevenly. We mature physically, mentally, emotionally, at different rates. Some mature faster than others.

Obviously you were busy in college. You didn't make an effort to date or conquer your shyness. It was probably shyness, more than anything. It was fear of rejection or of being rejected.

Shyness can be an obstacle not only socially but also professionally. Regardless of what you do in life you have to meet or deal with people. Why not try to get over it whether you're interested in dating or not?

No one has to be shy. A well known psychologist tells us we are not naturally shy. We learn to be shy — and we can unlearn it. Shy people have two things in common. They are afraid of making mistakes and they don't feel worthwhile.

To the first I can only say there isn't a man alive who hasn't made a mistake. Smart men learn from their mistakes. And I can point out that you are worthwhile. God sent His only begotten Son to redeem you.

Think about this. You are worthwhile and a very important person to the one who

Lobos con Piel de Oveja
Denuncia Cardenal Barbieri

MONTEVIDEO, (NC)—Debemos cuidarnos de los falsos profetas, dice en su pastoral de la Nochebuena el arzobispo de Montevideo, cardenal Antonio María Barbieri. "Debemos guardar de aquello de que Cristo se quejó cuando vio unos lobos con piel de ovejas, que vestidos con el ropaje de los declaratorios afirmaciones de haber liberado la libertad y luego, por el bienestar del necesitado, tienen condicionado el inconfesable poderío de encumbrar y soliviantar a las masas, y dominarlas con la fuerza que tiene poderío para subyugar a los pobres bajo el más inhumano despotismo," escribe el prelado.

El cardenal Barbieri hablaba primero del reino de Cristo "constituido por valores espirituales que ensalzan al hombre para señalar luego la distancia que los separa de ese reino". Menciona por el egoísmo, la soledad y el odio.

Las terrible consecuencias de la doctrina de esta fe, dice la pastoral, "hacen que al hombre de buen corazón suspen- der los rumbos para poner díez a esa obra svalante del mundo materializado, y cernirlos en apósten del Evangelio".

"Sobre estas bases sólidas —podemos armar la defensa de nuestra América, que fundamentalmente es cristiana," agrega.

Debemos rechazar los falsos profetas "los que hemos ido ti- do la dicha de haber nacido en esta tierra uruguaya, (pues) no tenemos necesidad de que estos constructores de pueblos no vengan a ense- ñar qué es y cómo se vive la democracia, en cómo se respue- tan los derechos del hombre y sus legítimas libertades..."

Recomendaciones del Papa Juan a Todos los Periodistas Católicos

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (NC) — Aptitud profesional, generosidad y sentido cristiano del trabajo son las cualidades que Su Santidad el Papa tiene para los periodistas católicos.

El Padre Santo habló a los miembros de la organización "La prensa". Y dijo que constituyen "características del buen periodismo, jones recomendaciones del Papa Juan XXIII quiere para los periodistas católicos.

El periodista, añadió, ha de tener la delicadeza de un médico, la versatilidad de un erudito, la intuition de un jurista y el sentido de responsabilidad que corresponde a un educador.

Sin perjuicio de urgir para ellos una renuncia justa, el Papa advirtió a los periodistas católicos en contra del profesionismo, "mal entendido, pues, dijo, no habrá de esforzar vuestra profación bajo un punto de vista exclusivamente "económico y técnico", sino por el 'de la oración, la caridad y el apostolado'.

...Sobre la generosidad del periodista católico afirmó que supone "coordinación y cooperación fraternas", a la luz de la caridad cristiana, que abarca la unidad entre los periodistas católicos, la defensa de la Iglesia y de la sociedad, y el respeto debido a la autoridad legítima.

El periodista católico ha de guardarse de 'espíritus mundanos... que tratan por todos los medios de despojar a la sociedad de la influencia del Evangelio y de las enseñanzas de la Iglesia... Tales movimientos pretenden defender una libertad ilimitada, pero lo es que se apresuran a negar a la Iglesia toda libertad cuando tratan de proteger el tesoro de la verdad revelada o el patrimonio de integridad moral que tiene encomendado.

Sobre el sentido cristiano del trabajo, dijo el Padre Santo que es "la fragancia de Cristo que da a cada cosa la totalidad apropiada".

¿Qué Significa Navidad Para Ti?

Rev. ANTONIO NAVARRETE

Hay dos palabras que en estos días están pendientes en los labios de millones de hombres: Felices Pascuas. El tiempo y la rutina parecen haber puesto sobre estas palabras un sentido no significado. Las repetimos sin cesar en lo profundo de nuestro ser.

Vengo a daros una nueva y grandísima gama para todo el pueblo —les dijo el Angel a los pastores — y es que hoy ha nacido en la ciudad de David el Salvador, que es el Ungido, el Señor... A partir de entonces se hizo luz en el corazón de los hombres y una oscuridad floreció en sus almas, comenzando a comunicarse con alegría esta buena nueva a través de los siglos. Cuando decimos Felices Pascuas, es como si dijeramos: 'Te recuerdo, amigo, que ha nacido el Salvador, el Ungido y deseas para ti sus bienes de salvación'.

El pueblo escogido de Dios se repetia: "Llovió en cielos y en bre se sentía hundido en un vacío agradecido. Ansiaba un Salvador, un Redentor y lo sentíamos como la tierra resaca ansiando el roce del mar; como el prisionero entre cadenas ansia al liberador que le libere de la mazmorra; como el camino perdido entre las sombras de la noche y la espuelce del bosque ansia la luz del sol y el camino seguro. Por eso, en el pueblo escogido de Dios se repetia: Llevad el cielo y envíad al Justo, el Redentor, al que os ha de salvar'.

El Salvador vino a la tierra, a la tierra maldita y pecadora. Cuántas cuistas, cuántas maldiciones y lágrimas amargas se habían quedado adheridas a ella... Cuando la tierra se vio iluminada con el Cielo que el niño Dios trae en su alma, una suave brisa pasó por los bosques, por las conciencias de los hombres de buena voluntad...

Ante el hombre se abrió un horizonte de luz, de felicidad, de inmortalidad... El hombre puede desde entonces mirar a los cielos y decir con toda verdad: 'Padre nuestro que estás en los Cielos...' !. La participación en la naturaleza divina, la adopción de hijos adoptivos de Dios, es la gran nueva que nos trae el nacimiento del niño Dios.

Cuando en estos días Navideños, te acerques a la gruta del niño Dios, no te acerques con las manos vacías. A Dios no le interesan los dones materiales; dile algo de ti mismo. Dale tus pecados para que El los perdone; déle tu corazón para que El lo llena de su amor; déle su voluntad para que El la tenga de su fuerza; déle su inteligencia para que El la lamine con su verdad; déle tus preocupaciones, tus deseos, tus temores, tus penas, para que El la llene de su paz. Felices Pascuas...

St. Stephen, protomartyr. He was a disciple chosen by the Apostles as the first of seven deacons. Shortly after the Ascension, he was slain for his labors on behalf of the poor. He died in prison. Two of his companions, Martyrs. During the persecutions of the Church ceased.

Tuesday, December 27

St. John, Apostle and Evangelist. The son of Zebedee, he was the youngest of the Apostles and was called to follow Christ during the first year of His preaching in Galilee. He became the beloved disciple, was privileged to be present at the Transfiguration, at the Agony in the Garden and was the only one of the twelve who did not forsake the Saviour during His Crucifixion. He stood at the foot of the cross with the Blessed Virgin. Besides his Gospel, he wrote three Epistles and the Book of the Apocalypse. He died at Ephesus in the year 100.

Wednesday, December 28

Holy Innocents, Martyrs. When the three Wise Men did not return with word of the Saviour whom they had gone to seek, Herod became enraged. Hoping to make certain of the death of the new-born King, Herod ordered that every male child two years old or younger in Bethlehem and its environs should be slain.

Thursday, December 29

St. Thomas of Canterbury, Bishop and Martyr. He was the son of Gilbert Becket and became Lord High Chancellor of England. In 1168 when Archbishop Theobald died, King Henry II insisted upon the consecration of Thomas as Archbishop of Canterbury. Thomas at first refused but eventually yielded and was consecrated. Protecting the right of the Church against encroachments of the state, he was quarreled with J. King Henry II banished to France. Upon his return in December, 1170, he was murdered in the Cathedral.

‘Sick’ Films Don’t Make Season Merry

By William H. Mooreing

It is in keeping with the Christmas spirit to help each other, so I would like to help you.

There is every reason why the labor unions should help their members to spend wisely the money they have helped them to collect.

So when Thomas J. Ley, associate editor of the L.A.T.S.E. Official Bulletin, sends out the Labor Press Association, a circular urging union members not to support their fellow workers employed in the motion picture business, the spirit of the holiday is lost.

What is not so good is the fact that, this Christmas, general film releases include hardly anything to which any honest, self-respecting family man may take his wife and kids for a treat. Mr. Ley doesn’t name any.

He merely says: “People who still away from the movies need to be reminded what they are missing.” Loy circularizes a column from the Minneapolis Tribune. This mentions several pictures.

GRIM’S FAIRY TALE

It is written by George Grin who says, among other things, that “until you’ve sampled an evening at a well-appointed, warm, comfortable movie house, with a good attraction on its big screen, you’ve missed a mighty available treat.” Such as, for instance, he fails to mention.

The grim fact is that many a neighborhood theater would book such “treats” if they were being made in sufficient numbers. A few isolated, road shows at hard-ticket prices, are just fine, though not all of these are suitable for the kids as well as the Mrs. Few suit the family budget.

WAITING FOR TITLES

John T. Dowling, editor of the Commercial Telegrapers’ UNION Journal comes over to the truth when he says the recent decline in movie attendance is in large measure, due to “sick” pictures. Writing back to his union brother, associate editor Ley, Dowling says he’ll be pleased to be of assistance to fellow unionists and gladly recommends to his readers motion pictures that are worth while.

Mr. Dowling undoubtedly is waiting for the titles.

FRIENDS ASKING TOO

I wish that as a nice, helpful Christmas gesture I might give him some. I tried to make this column a happy one about good Christmas movie releases for family people who’d like to take in a show in a theater. I could not find enough playing the neighborhoods anywhere to give anyone a fair selection.

SIX ‘B’ FILMS FAIL TO DRAW BOX OFFICE

LOUIS ANGELES (NO) — Six of seven recent major Hollywood movies rated “B” by the National Legion of Decency were box office flops, according to Erskine Johnson, Los Angeles Mirror columnist. He listed six box office failures as: “The 39 Steps,” “Battle Flame,” “Irma Vep,” “Beleved Infidel,” “Happy Anniversary,” “From the Terrace.” “Piper’s Candy,” and “Desire in the Dust.”

Of the “B” movies, only “Psycho” was a financial success. A film rated “B” by the legion is one which it regards as morally objectionable in part for all.

THE FORTRESS THAT BECAME A SHRINE

Many places there were none at all. So like Mr. Grin who began the whole thing, I end up without mentioning a single movie title. This is embarrassing because my own family and lots of friends will be asking me and the best I can do is recommend pinching the tail off the donkey.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

This is an advertisement for a movie theater in Hollywood. The ad mentions various movies that are not suitable for family audiences and states that the recent decline in movie attendance is due to "sick" pictures. The ad also advises readers to seek out motion pictures that are worth while. The ad ends with a recommendation to friends to wait for the right titles to be released.

Would World Be Different If Christ Was Not Born?

But the Gospel, playing such a glorious light on the Mother of Jesus and on Mary Magdalene, changed the status of women.

She ceased to be a mere object of man’s pleasure and an instrument of procreation. She became the strong woman who had a right to defend her Faith even by her husband.

Jesus went about doing good. He expected his Christians to follow his example and thereby change the world. We are changing the world but we are not doing it with the help of Jesus.

Today the Christian yearning for universal brotherhood has spread a little farther than the actual international brotherhood.

Witness to God

The fact of international brotherhood seems so far off from us as ever; but God for us, as ever; but God forgives us, if among Christian people the will is not there."

Thirdly, Knox cited the present position of women as a milestone of social progress and one that points back to Christmas as its day of origin. Jewish life was the highest type of social life in ancient times but even among Jews, women were considered inferior to men in religious and civil law.
