VATICAN CITY (ND) — A new encyclical was promulgated by Pope John XXIII at the combined celebration of his 80th birthday and the third anniversary of his coronation. The encyclical, he said, will mark the 15th century of the death of Pope Leo the Great on Nov. 11, and will center upon his relation to the Church's history.

The Pope also used the occasion to make what he called an "anguished appeal" for world peace. As he read on, it was clear that he was becoming fatigued from the effort.

The Pope's plea for peace was made in these words:

"This is an entirely peaceful meeting...here everything is in peace, serenity, confidence.

"What a fine example to the world which is always troubled, always restless, always under the threat of some fresh catastrophe. You are giving here, gentlemen, a lesson of true and genuine concord, a sample of what understanding among nations could be."

Pope John issued a second appeal for peace two days later.

SAN JUAN, P. R. (NC) — An estimated 60,000 people, including relatives of Cubans exiled by the Fidel Castro regime, thronged downtown San Juan to attend a Mass offered for Cuban victims of communism.

A torchlight procession through the city’s streets preceded the religious service, during which a speaker warned that “at present there are only two ways — one leading to Rome, the other to Moscow.”

Presiding over the All Soul’s night demonstration for victims of communism were Archbishop James F. Davis of San Juan and Bishop James E. Mckenna C.S.S.R., of Ponce.

The Mass was jointly sponsored by Cuban and Puerto Rican Catholic organizations. Sixteen close relatives of executed anti-Castro leaders attended the Mass. Among the group, which flew here from Miami for the ceremony, were several women dressed in black.

MESSAGE FROM BISHOP

Exiled Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Bona of Havana, now in Rome, sent the rally a message which was read before the Mass.

The Bishop said he was with the demonstrators in spirit, “offering prayers for all who sacrificed their lives for an ideal and for the triumph of Faith on our continent.”

“Only in Christ will we find true justice and love among men, and therefore true peace,” he stated.

He also said he prayed to the Blessed Virgin, “mother of all Cubans,” to obtain for them “the fortitude to be firm in the Faith” and “to give consolation to sufferers.”

He also asked for the Blessed Virgin’s intercession to “fill with love the hearts of those who hate and open men plunged into the darkness of unbelief and materialism to Christ’s light.”

Father Angel Villaronga, O.P.M., stressed in his sermon that the demonstration here was “not a political act” but a religious one.

TYRANNY, OPPRESSION

“God’s name can be erased from the Constitution and schools; crucifixes can be expelled, . . . congas can be danced in churches, as happened in Cuba not long ago; and we can be done without punishment,” he said.

Defending the choice to be made between Christianity and communism, he said: “Moscow is the way to tyranny, oppression, destruction. Rome is the way of the spirit, freedom, happiness, love and fraternity.”

Life Begins At 40
SO DOES AGING!

It is simpler to start a scientific care program before the aging process begins, although most women do not consider the program until lines and wrinkles appear. Lost ground can be regained by consistent home treatment. Stimulation through elimination is the most important step. The outer layer of the skin is composed of dead cells. Their elimination stimulates natural repair and is accomplished through the acceleration of the whole life cycle of the skin. The natural enzyme of the papaya removes the outer cells of the skin. This sets off the repair process and results in an improvement in sagging muscles, blood supply, general texture and welfare of the skin.

The corrective action of the papaya enzyme helps in the elimination of scars, open pores, lines, sagging skin and muscles, blackheads, whiteheads and acne. These and many other skin conditions benefit from Dermapeal and consistent home treatment.

Bottling is a mild shock to a good table wine. The Brothers give their wines ample time to recover and improve in the bottle before they are shipped.

Ukrainian Pastor Gives Talk On Byzantine Rite

An address on the Byzantine Rite of the Church was delivered recently by Father Peter Oleksiw, pastor of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Ukrainian Catholic Church, 38 NW 57th Ave., Miami.

Father Oleksiw spoke to members of the Rosary Society of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary Church, Perrine.

After the lecture, the choir of Assumption Church sang three hymns from the Divine Liturgy or Mass. The choir, attired in Ukrainian costumes, sang under the direction of Taras Mak-syimovych.

Comments were made afterwards by Father Thomas M. Anglim, pastor of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary, and Mrs. Robert Roache, president of the Rosary Society.

Sanctuary of Christ the King in Rangoon

SANTIAGO, Chile (NO — Chile's bishops have called for a general strike to protest the government's economic policies and the cost of living. Bishops have announced plans to cordon off villages to prevent left-wing forces from reaching them.

Bishops de Aragao and Jimenez have given the government an ultimatum to cease its actions or face a general strike. They have also called for the resignation of President Joao Goulart and the restoration of democratic rights.

Church is opposed to Brazil's agrarian reform to the nation's top leaders.

Bishop de Aragao, whose diocese is opposed to Brazil's agrarian reform, has called for a general strike and the resignation of President Joao Goulart. He is also taking action to combat the flood of Red propaganda, much of which comes from Cuba. To help him in his new effort and care for his See's Catholics, the Bishop has the help of 15 priests.

COMMUNIST THREAT

Bishop de Aragao has acted during a period of crisis in Latin America's largest and most populous country, which came close to civil war following the resignation of former President Janio Quadros in August and still faces the threat of communism. The former chief of state was resigned when strong opposition developed against his apparent coddling of communists at home and overtures to Red agents.

Alfredo Scherer of Rio de Janeiro, has again called on the government to stop its policies and to allow democratic rights to circulate freely in Brazil. The Bishop has also called for the resignation of President Joao Goulart and the restoration of democratic rights.

PERSON Dying Has Right To Know, Prelate Says

LONDON (NO — It is alto-gether wrong to conceal the approach of death from a dying person, said Archbishop Alfredo Scherer of Rio de Janeiro, in a column published in The Voice.

The Cardinal has given the message to President Goulart — has denied the Archbishop's charges. But the state's Minister of Agriculture, Alberto Hoffmann, re-turned to his position after denying the accusation is true.

At the national level, President Goulart has called for land reform and other reforms in a speech citing the recent social encyclical of Pope John XXIII, "Dum Spiro, Spero."
Texas Pastor Named Bishop Of New 34-County Diocese

WASHINGTON (DC) — Pope John XXIII has established the new Diocese of San Angelo in the western part of Texas and appointed Msgr. Thomas J. Drury, pastor of the Church of Christ the King in Lubbock, Texas, as the first Bishop.

This action of the Holy Father was announced by Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, Apostolic Delegate in the United States.

The new Diocese of San Angelo is made up of 34 counties which formerly were embraced in four Texas Sees. The Diocese of Amarillo contributed 24, the Diocese of Dallas-Fort Worth, five; the Diocese of Austin, three and the Diocese of El Paso, two.

The Diocese of San Angelo embraces an area of 42,000 square miles with a total population of 592,472, of whom 51,421 are Catholics. In its 34 counties there are 20 diocesan priests and 28 priests of religious orders, with the majority of them assigned in the 41 parishes, 36 missions and six chapels. Elementary parochial schools number 9 with 1,768 pupils. There are two high schools with 84 pupils. Catholic hospitals are located in San Angelo and Abilene.

Auxiliary Bishop Is Appointed In Great Falls, Mont.

WASHINGTON (DC) — Pope John XXIII has named Msgr. E. J. Schuster, superintendent of schools in the Diocese of Great Falls, Mont., to be Auxiliary Bishop of Ambleside and Auxiliary to Bishop William Condon of Great Falls.

This action of the Holy Father was announced by Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, Apostolic Delegate in the United States.

Bishop-elect Schuster was born in 1913 in Calio, N. Dak. He attended the St. John Seminary (now Theological College) at the Catholic University of America and was ordained in 1937, in Great Falls, by Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara. He made post-ordination studies at University of Oxford, England, and at St. Louis University.
Does Banning A Filthy Book Curtail Freedom Of Press?

Currently in many sections of the United States a controversy is raging over the question to ban or not to ban a certain book with the curious title "Tropic of Cancer." Written in France a generation ago, this so-called piece of literature has been considered so patently obscene by competent critics generally regarded as thick-skinned that it took a quarter of a century before it was finally dragged one dark night into an American publishing house.

It seems to us most regrettable that the mere vehemence of opposition to keeping it in the garage can with the lid on tight be the same as that which comes from some newspaper editors who by and large seem to have an almost pathetic fear of any curtailing of "Freedom of the press." These editors of family papers apparently would risk pushing our already battered standards of morality to a new low and be willing to expose countless young people to the raw, unrestrained sensuality of this book, merely because they are unwilling to face the necessary principle that freedom of expression, precise as it is, is not an absolute freedom.

We heartily wish that no man-made legal restraints ever had to be initiated. But the fact is that "Liberty has a moral dimension," as the American Bishops put it in their statement on "Censorship" in 1937. Living in society, man's liberty must be exercised "within bounds fixed by the multiple demands of social living," the American Hierarchy emphasized. This means nothing more than that the common good is to be served. This necessarily involves, they pointed out, "a respect for the rights of others, a regard for public order, and a positive defense, . . . to those values which are our common Christian heritage."

In building his sentimental, contradictory argument against banning this book, one editor said we may as well ban lusty parts of Shakespeare and banish Huckleberry Finn because he baning this book, one editor said we may as well ban lusty passages in Shakespeare and frank statements in the Bible and some powerfully realistic parts of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn.

It is interesting to note that all boys are given this instruction, not merely those who have expressed an interest in a vocation. This is done because even the lad who is sure he is not meant to be a priest has to learn that he nevertheless has to play a part in helping to provide priests for the future. Each boy in this category is asked, strictly on a voluntary basis, to carry out this responsibility right now by phlegging a certain number of prayers or sacrifices. His work for vocations now will consist primarily in helping God to bless some of his classmates and many of his schoolmates with the grace of a vocation.

The Vocation Committee would feel much happier and more confident about this fall vocation program if they could reach directly as many parents as they do young boys in their instructions on the priesthood. Sad to say, too, many of our Catholic parents yet need to learn and be convinced of the dignity and singular honor of a vocation in the home. There are still empty places in the seminary because a mother or father interfered with the workings of divine grace in the souls of their sons.

We hope the whole diocese will unite with our young people during these coming weeks in fervent prayer that many who grow in knowledge of the priesthood may recognize and follow the call of Christ to the priesthood.

Tomorrow Is Veterans' Day

Somewhere along the line in this turbulent generation it became fashionable among the sophisticated to sneer at patriotism and to downgrade the traditional accounts of brave Americans who have become almost legendary heroes.

A superintendent of schools in California recently put his finger on the cause of this. "Patriotism feeds on hero characterizations in Sigrid Undset, but in all these no mention is made of the Catholic heroes." He went on to say that the profession of educators in his state is not meant to be a priest has to learn that he nevertheless has to play a part in helping to provide priests for the future. Each boy in this category is asked, strictly on a voluntary basis, to carry out this responsibility right now by phlegging a certain number of prayers or sacrifices. More Vocations Needed

Last week The Voice carried the news story that Bishop Carroll addressed the 32 priests on the Vocation Committee and asked them to speak in all the schools of the diocese on the subject of the Diocesan Priesthood and preparation for it in the seminary.

As a result of this wide coverage, every boy in a Catholic school from the 7th grade through high school will have ample opportunity to learn the "inside story" of a vocation, how to recognize it, what to do about it, why Miami is in so great need of hundreds of diocesan priests. Moreover those priests will be available from time to time to follow up the interested potential candidates with much needed spiritual counsel.

It is interesting to note that all boys are given this instruction, not merely those who have expressed an interest in a vocation. Advocates Of Latin Given Something To Smile About

By FR. JOHN R. SHEERIN

A function of the daily press is to make readers morbid. One day recently I dutifully read the usual saga of catastrophes and disasters and became magnificently m-f in a trance which culminated when I followed up with a few items about t r n 1 l 1 4 9 0 , Zaa Zee Ga- bor, Jimmy Hef- fa, breast cancer in mice and then tapered off with Father Sheerin the obituary-col- umns. By that time I was almost ready to put my head in a cellaphone bag.

Then I came across a spoof. It was a delightful spoof and I decided to reprint the hu- man race. The humorous piece was a short article in the P. E. Press release "Christianity and Crisis" en- titled "Sharing the Sophisti- cate.

We Catholics tend to think Protestants have no sense of humor and I suppose it is true that you have many Negroes, Jews and Catholics among the professional TV gag-men and few white Anglo-Saxons. How- ever, Protestant humor is a subject we can leave for future economic discussion.

F OR SOPHISTICATES

To return to the spoof. The writer of this op-ed piece began his piece with the question: "How can we interest intelligent people in the faith?" He asserted that he had found a way. Having read "Winne Ille Pu," the translation of an Eng- lish classic into Latin, the shock struck him just as reading "Winne Ille Pu" Fu was now a mark of social sophisti- cation, why not a Latin Bible to capture the interest of modern young people. It would be a move to order for the Latin Americans.

Latinists claim that Latin gives an air of mystery to the liturgy so the Sunday sermon likewise, in Latin, could mystify the congregation. In some of our New York parishes it is said that Latin American's feel ill at ease during the English sermons. So here we have a move to order to make-a-move to order for the Latin Americans.

Saint Heretius was advoca- ting the publication of the Bible in Latin for Protestants, a project daring in its sim- plicity. But he did not intend to restrict the idea to his fel- low religionists. He wanted to get the Catholics to co- operate and if for no other reason than to share the cost of the translation.

However, he felt that the most pressing objection to a Latin Bible would come from Pa- roman hierarchy. "I am sure that you have a grumble here. Rome moves slowly, preferring to "wait and see" before rushing along the Latin surgical or promotional fad. The notion of a Latin translation of the Bible is perhaps too daring for us to anticipate Roman sup- port, at least for a number of decades.

I know that a translation of Our English Bible into Latin would exhilarate those who want to retain Latin in our Roman Catholic liturgy. Some of my priest friends who are Latinists have informed me that Latin is God's own language and they are shocked if you don't speak it at all. I don't think it would have spoken Greek or Hebrew.

END OF ARGUMENT

Let me tell you (with tongue in cheek) some of the wonderful ramifications that would develop from this proj- ect. Each family in Latin. The pamphlets on the rack in the rear of the church would be -arranged in a dipping bag - each pamphlet with its interlinear trot in a cell- ophone wrapper.

In some of our New York parishes it is said that Latin American's feel ill at ease during the English sermons. So here we have a move to order to make-a-move to order for the Latin Americans.

Saint Heretius be thanked. In these days of ghost and down a little foolishness makes a lot of sense.
Christ's Pledge: Ask and You Shall Receive
By FATHER JAMES J. WALSH

A few years ago a fallen-away Catholic in answer to the efforts of zealous friends attempted to bring him back to the Church used to puzzle the members of the church with the mark that he had lost his faith because of a certain line in the Bible.

Naturally, whoever heard this surprising statement became curious about that particular line. To think that one could use a text in Holy Scripture to justify turning away from God?

Had he found a statement in the Gospels that had been disapproved by science? Did he come to believe that recent research had given the lie to one of Christ's basic principles? Had he saturated himself with the half truths written by the enemies of the Church?

CRITICALLY ILL

As it turned out the man had no interest in science or research or what the Church's enemies had done. He merely branded as false this promise spoken by Christ: "Amenn, amen I say to you, if you ask the Father anything in My name, He will give it to you... Ask and you shall receive."

Some years ago, the story goes, his five-year-old son became critically ill and hovered between life and death for more than a week. The man, along with his family and neighbors, prayed constantly. Strange as words of sympathy and assurance to a faithless man along with his family were, he was assured by them of further prayers.

However, despite the best of medical care, despite the flood of prayers, the child died. And the father vowed he would never pray again or give God a thought. In his bitterness he said over and over that Our Lord had not kept His promise. Astonishing Assurance.

Others, besides that disturbed man, have taken scandal at His astonishing assurance when He seemed to fail them. So what about his promise? Are we supposed to take it in a figurative sense, and not literally? Could it be possible that Our Lord used such words merely to emphasize an important point concerning the necessity of prayer and expected us to qualify it accordingly?

Christ's words here are so plain and simple that they have to be accepted literally. He meant just what He said. And being God, He cannot be faithless; He cannot fail to do His part — if we do ours.

Therefore, Faith demands that we believe He cannot let a good prayer go unanswered. He cannot fail to bless the humble, confident, resigned person who implores His help.

Why, then did the child die? It would be foolish of course to attempt to read God's mind. Only He can tell us why He called this child home at the age of five instead of 85.

But without being melodramatic, we may guess at one reason. Suppose that God foreknew that this child would grow up physically well, but spiritually sick, and eventually lose his soul. If so, the gift of good health could not be considered a blessing. In this case, in the eternal viewpoint, death was a merciful, favor, a blessing of the greatest magnitude. It was not at all what it seemed to be — a cruel hard blow that contradicted Divine Goodness.

"YOU ASK AMEN"

Or we can look at this from another angle. St. James tells us, "You ask and receive not, because you ask amiss." The apostles meant that Our Lord promised to hear our prayers, but not bad prayers. That is, not prayers made without confidence or humility. And certainly not prayers made with a chip on the shoulder, that is, without the disposition of resignation present to soften the blow of apparent refusal.

Many of the things we ask for in life can be motivated by selfish reasons. Only God knows how grateful we should be that on this or that occasion He finally refused to grant what at the time we considered necessary or at least very beneficial in our lives. Some "favors" would have wrecked us, others would have turned us away from God eventually. In fact, the memory of some things we once pleaded for and did not receive may now give us a cold chill. hindsight reveals we did not know what we were asking for!

How should we deal with this promise of Christ's? We should pray with the greatest confidence that He will indeed grant whatever we ask or something better, if He foresees that it will be good for us. To do this it gives Him credit for being good and just at all times and leaves the decision governing our lives in His hands.

Strange But True
By M. J. MURRAY

Our quest for God in this life may be summed up into two basic movements of the human spirit: 1) to live unto God; and 2) to die unto self. Our perfection as Christians consists in a wholehearted and practical love of God; and sin is the only real obstacle to this perfection.

Father Kilian: The catechism tells us that a sin is a thought, desire, word, deed or omission against the law of God. This cold language unfortunately fails to dramatize the betrayal of God's love that is found in mortal sin. For mortal sin is far more than a transgression of God's law; it is a rejection of God himself. It does much more than gravely damage the soul cast in God's likeness; it actually ejects the Adorable Trinity from its residence in the human heart. It is wholesale disaster for the follower of Christ.

I believe that every sincere Christian instinctively realizes this, even though he may not be able to spell out the theological effects of mortal sin. It is not surprising, therefore, that we priests are often asked the question: "Father, why is it that no matter how much I resolve not to commit serious sin, I keep falling back into the same old sin?"

First, let's take a look at the key word "resolve." What is truly meant by resolve? Is it a half-hearted hope to do better? It is not a wishy-washy intention to do God's will. It's a firm determination! Note these two words: firm and determination. A firm determination is a determined resolve that is resolute to use every possible means to achieve victory. Hence the victory is to be won by total warfare against that enemy we call sin.

The first weapon is prayer. Not just morning and night prayers, or rosaries and novenas. But prayer at all times — with or without words — at all times and in all our needs. Our Lord warns us to pray without ceasing and to pray lest we fall into temptation. Under this headling may be included the thought of the

BISHOP CARROLL BLESSES NEW BUILDINGS

Mission, 2 Convents, School Dedicated

The solicitude of Holy Mother Church for the spiritual welfare of migrant workers who spend only a few months each year in South Florida was expressed by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll following the dedication of the new St. Ann chapel at Naranja last Sunday.

The Bishop expressed the hope that the chapel, which has been erected on Bauer Dr., approximately one-half mile west of Tallahasse Rd., will be the source of abundant graces through the reception of the Sacraments and assistance at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass for the countless number of farm workers in the area.

In his sermon during the Pontifical Low Mass celebrated in the chapel at 11 a.m., Father Anthony Navarrete, assistant director of the Spanish-Speaking Apostolate of the Miami Diocese told the congregation that "in the most humble and smallest of churches you can find what you find in Cathedrals. The most beautiful thing in the world is Jesus Christ," he said, "and the most wonderful thing in the world is His sacrifice."" Father Navarrete and Father Claude Brubaker, pastor of the Sacred Heart parish, Homestead, from which St. Ann chapel is attended, were chaplains to Bishop Carroll during dedication ceremonies. Father Neil J. Flemming was master of ceremonies.

Built with the financial aid of the Church Extension Society, St. Ann chapel accommodates more than 200 persons and provisions have been made by architect Thomas J. Madden, Jr., of Miami to expand the building when necessary to accommodate 300. A large statue of St. Ann patroness of the mission church, has been placed in a niche above the front entrance.

Missile Expert Von Braun Speaks At Barry Nov. 16

"Why We Must Master Outer Space" will be discussed by a noted space scientist and missile expert at the Barry College Auditorium Thursday, Nov. 16.

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Huntsville, Ala., will be the guest lecturer on the second program of the Barry Culture Series which begins at 8:15 p.m.

The recipient of many professional and scholastic honors for his leading role in rocketry and space research activity, Dr. Von Braun is director of the Saturn missile program and has directed development of the 20-feet-tall rocket identified as forerunners of the V2 were developed.

In 1959 Dr. Von Braun came to the U.S. late in 1942 under contract to the U.S. Army. He directed high altitude firings of captured V2 rockets at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., and later became project director of a guided missile development unit at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

In 1968 the group was transferred to Huntsville, Ala., where the Jupiter ICBM was developed at the Marshall Center which is in charge of developing and launching the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's space vehicles, and conducting related research.

In 1969 Dr. Von Braun received the Distinguished Federal Civilian Service Award from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Brother Dominic Gnamer of the Brothers of the Good Shepherd renewed religious vows of poverty, chastity and obedience at ceremonies held on Monday in St. Patrick Church, Miami Beach.

He is one of five Brothers who staff Camillus House, a shelter for destitute men located at 728 NE First Ave., Miami.

A native of Wirsitz, Germany, Von Braun received the B.A. degree in 1932 and a doctorate in physics in 1934 by the German Society for Space Travel.

From 1932 to 1937 he was employed by the Ordnance Department of the German government and was chief of a small rocket development station near Berlin where the liquid-fuel rockets identified as forerunners of the V2 were developed.

In the closing months of World War II he led more than 100 of his fellow scientists to the West and surrendered to the Allied powers.

Planned Parenthood
Group Opens Clinic

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (NC) — The Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut has opened a birth control clinic here in a direct challenge to Connecticut's 82-year-old birth control law.

The league said it also plans to open clinics in Hartford and Norwich, contrary to the 1978 state law which prohibits the use of contraceptives and bars doctors from giving birth control advice.

The U. S. Supreme Court refused last June 19 to rule on the constitutionality of the law. Associate Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., commented then that the "true controversy" raised by the law centers upon "the opening of birth control clinics on a large scale."

Brother Dominic has completed one year in religion. He made his novitiate at the Oeder's motherhouse in Albuquerque, N. Mex., and served at the Blessed Martin de Porres Home in Columbus, Ohio, where the Brothers care for 28 victims of cerebral palsy.

Brother David Keane, B.G.S., is superior of Camillus House. Others on the staff are Brother Kenny Mayeur, Brother Paul Johnson and Brother Candidate William Dunn.

Pope Appeals For World Peace

Reminding the commission that many people are worried about present world conditions, he said that he had earlier invited "nationsmen to face up to their tremendous responsibilities." The Pontiff said he had asked that "truth and justice affirm themselves and that many people are worried about the values of each nation and every man."

At the anniversary celebration he asked the representatives of many lands: "Pray to God that men and nations, overcoming the questions of material interests which divide them, may know how to raise themselves ever more to those supreme values of the spirit which bring them closer and which alone can lead them toward solid and lasting peace."

"We are joining this angelic appeal with a fatherly heart and we beseech the Almighty with great fervor that He may enlighten the minds, protect your nations and all of the human race, uniting them ever more in accord and peace."

Pope John also spoke on the coronation anniversary, his 80th year, and the work of St. Charles Borromeo, whose feastday it was.

He noted that the celebration was only a few days away from death of Leo the Great, and added:

"The proportions of the greatness of this truly lofty Pope, one of the great Pontiffs who sat on the apostolic throne, are so great that they are apt to dismay any of his successors... We have thought of paying him homage through a special document, an encyclical of imminent publication which will illustrate with devout admiration his distinguished merits and his personal characteristics in relation to the history of the Holy Church."

The Pope cited quotations from five addresses that Pope Leo delivered at his own coronation anniversary celebrations. He said:

"My tongue and my spirit bless His Holy Name." So began St. Leo on the feast of his first anniversary; similarly his far removed successor returns to these words 15 centuries later."

The Pontiff said that he blushes at the realization of the responsibility God entrusted to him when he was elected, but that he bowos to the Divine Will and accepts with humility the homage shown to the office of the popacy by the official delegations from all around the world. He continued:

"When We think of the great mission confided upon Us to care for the universal flock of Christ, We are overwhelmed with anxiety at the thought of the great responsibilities We have assumed. But it is also permissible to rejoice in this gift. It was the Blessed Lord who imposed this grave burden upon Us, and it is He who must help Us bear it conscientiously and with dignity."

"O truly this commemoration of the third anniversary of the apostolic and pastoral task which the goodness of the Lord entrusted to Us at the second hour of Our Life is enough for our personal encouragement and joy, and it will remain as a testimony and as a memory of your most pious and fateful devotion for the successor of St. Peter," he continued.

"The condition of the godly wishes expressed on the completion of my 80th year," he went on, "are well put and clear: age is bestowed that one may gain devotion... Longevity is venerable in itself, worthy of respect in all ages, but it is above all a great gift of God."

Pope Stresses Importance Of Diplomats In Vatican

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope John XXIII has told a group of diplomats that current events have made the collaboration of their governments with the Holy See more important than ever before.

The diplomat, all assigned to the Holy See, were received together with their families by the Pope in the Consistorial Hall. The audience was given on Nov. 3 on the eve of ceremonies combining celebration of the Pope's 80th birthday and the third anniversary of his coronation.

Earlier, the Pope had received in audience the youth of Italian Catholic Action and members of the College of Cardinals.

Pope John spoke in French in addressing the diplomats, headed by Irish Ambassador Leo Thomas McCauley, their dean.

He told them that he regards their presence in the Vatican as "a task performed in the name of their countries in common with the Holy See to assure the real good of their respective countries."

In the light of current events, he added, "this collaboration appears to us more important than ever before."

CONSTRUCTION STARTS ON $2 MILLION BUILDINGS

New Student Union, Dorm For Barry

Construction has begun on a modern dormitory and student union building which will be erected at a cost of $2 million on the Barry College campus, Miami Shores. According to Sister Mary Alice, O.P., executive vice-president of the women's college which is now in its 21st year of operation by the Adrian Dominican Sisters, the dormitory will house 150 students and will be located at N. Miami Ave. and 211th St.

Student and faculty dining rooms, meeting rooms, offices, student recreational areas, a snack bar, post office and terrace for dining will be included in the Student Union building on N. Miami Ave. Barry & Roy of Chicago are the architects for the new project which is expected to be completed by September in 1962.

Founders' Day will be observed at the college Thursday, Nov. 15 when Msgr. William Barry, P.A., one of the three founders of the college will sing a High Mass of Thanksgiving at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium. The Cor Jesu Choir under the direction of Sister Marie Rosaria, O.P. will sing.

A brunch for college guests, alumni and students will be followed by an academic program at noon. Margo O'Connor, student body president, will preside as tributes to the founders are presented by Margaret Ruth and Barbara Scully. A choral selection will be sung by the Tara Singers under the direction of Sister Maura, O.P.

The only Catholic women's college south of Washington, D.C. was founded in 1946 by the late Bishop Patrick Barry, 19th Bishop of St. Augustine; his sister, Mother Mary Gerald, O.P., now mother general of the Adrian Dominican Sisters and Monsignor Barry.

The campus is located between NE 111th and 115th Streets and N. Miami Ave. and NE Second Ave. in Miami Shores.

When the fine arts college first opened there were 30 students from Florida and half a dozen other states represented on the charter enrollment.

Today about 800 students from all sections of the United States and 13 foreign nations enjoy the benefits of this center of Catholic learning. Included are 300 full-time and 200 part-time students.

The Society of the Sacred Heart was founded by Madeleine Sophie Barat, the daughter of a Bergundian peasant who was canonized in 1935.

ESTABLISHED SCHOOLS

Led by Blessed Philippine Duchesne, one of the early companions of the foundress, members of the society came to St. Louis, Mo. in 1818 and rapidly established convents and schools in New Orleans, New York and other parts of the United States.

Schools conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart include boarding schools, day schools, parish schools and colleges. In the United States and 13 foreign nations, the society has five viceracies located in Albany, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and Washington. Two novitiates, one at Albany, N.Y. and one El Cajon, Cal., train members of the Society in the U.S.

According to Mother Barry the school will be conducted in the traditions of the founder who envisioned and carried out, in the light of the Heart of Jesus, "the ideal of an educational program serious in its principles, strength in its studies and rich in a spirit of love and life."

Dates for registration of students, entrance examinations and opening will be announced in future issues of The Voice.

Saint Joseph's Oratory

Montreal, Canada

Among the world's most prominent shrines, St. Joseph's Oratory of Mount Royal welcomes three or four million visitors annually and compares favorably with Lourdes and Fatima.

Within the shrine is the tomb of Brother Andre, C.S.C., whose tireless and fervent efforts resulted in this glorious edifice which evidences his profound love and devotion to St. Joseph. Brother Andre's heart is kept in the museum there which bears his name.

Towering high above the Island of Montreal, this Shrine stands 300 feet above sea level on the northwestern slope of the mountain. Its cupola, somewhat in the way the domes of Montmartre and St. Peter's, respectively, identify Paris and Rome, has become a landmark of Canada's metropolis.

The 26-foot high illuminated cross capping the cupola stands 300 feet above the roof of the crypt-church, 52 feet high in itself. The dome proper, measuring 125 feet in diameter and constructed of reinforced concrete just seven inches thick, is a scant 16 feet less than the world's largest. St. Peter's in Rome. The observation post atop the dome is the highest in Montreal and can accommodate thirty persons.

The inauguration of the crypt-church took place in 1917 and the construction of the huge basilica followed by only a few years, in 1924.

Boosting gigantic dimensions, the basilica is 541 feet in length and 210 feet across its wings. The sanctuary itself offers a splendid view during services since it is 70 feet in width and 100 feet in depth. The apse seats a choir of 150 persons.

The capacity of this Shrine, according to official standards, is 12,700 pilgrims. It is open year around and is considered a "must" during a stay in Montreal, even for repeat visitors.

St. Joseph's Oratory is built in its entirety of silver granite from the Eastern Townships. Although begun in the Renaissance style of major Italian basilicas, it was completed in accord with the specifications of contemporary architecture, with due consideration given to the Canadian climate and the advantages of modern materials.

A Cuban youth critically ill recover, thanks to the untiring efforts of a Dominican Sister in Miami.

In response to an appeal for help from Vladimir Gomez of Holsin in Oriente Province from Cuban refugees in Los Angeles, Msgr. Patrick J. Roche, director of the archdiocesan Family Life Bureau, contacted Miami's Centre Hispano Catolic, seeking undulant fever serum and a d chlorethacyclam, and antibiotic.

After many hours of checking wholesale drug companies here, Sister William, O. P., superior of the Dominican Sisters of St. Catherine de Ricci who staff Miami's diocesan Spanish center, located and purchased the serum and kept it under constant refrigeration until arrangements could be made to transport it to Havana.

In less than 24 hours after the call from Magr. Roche, the serum was carried aboard a Pan American Airways Clipper en route to Havana by a Cuban mother who was returning to the island after visiting some of her family who are in exile here.

Honduran Bishop Flies Back To Storm-Battered Diocese

By MARJORIE L. FILLYAW

The Bishop of Belize left Miami last Friday for his hurricane-ravaged diocese as first shipments of medicine and clothing from Catholic Relief Services arrived here en route to British Honduras.

Bishop Robert L. Hodapp,
S.J., who has spent 20 years in the capital city was absent from his See when the 200-mile-per-hour winds of Hurricane Hattie devastated Belize
Tuesday, Oct. 31. He pas-ed briefly in Miami after returning from his native city of Mankato, Minn., where he had attended at funeral serdices for his mother.

Concerned for the welfare of his priests, religious and the St.
der his spiritual care, the Bishop who was consecrated three years ago, learned from Hugh McLoone, CRS-NCWC representative in Miami that 1,000 pounds of drugs and 5,000 pounds of clothing were among the first relief supplies shipped from Miami International Airport for the victims of one of this year’s greatest disasters. Known dead soared above 300.

REPORTS OF DEATH

Recollecting that after Hurricane Janet struck the northern part of the British Honduras in 1955 his diocese spent a period of two years rebuilding and reform-ishing churches and schools, Bishop Hodapp pointed out that the Belize Diocese which con-ists of 8,600 square miles now has 80 government-aided primary schools with more than 11,000 children enrolled; three high schools and one agricultural school.

In addition there are three parish churches in the city of Belize and six in the outlying areas. At the present time there are 36 Jesuit priests from the Society of Jesus’
Missouri Province, three dis-cesan priests, Jesuit Brothers; and nuns of the Sisters of Mercy and the Sisters of the Holy Family from New Orleans serving in the diocese.

As ham radio operators in Miami picked up eye-witness reports of death and destruction in Belize from Father Philip Pick,
S.J., a native of West Bend, Wis., Bishop Hodapp, who was anxiously perusing newspaper reports and pictures of the storm, said that Father Pick had also broadcast as a ham radio operator during Hurricane Janet.

Sought Refuge

Father Pick reported that hundreds who had sought refuge in St. John College in Belize were safe although the building itself had been damaged. He advised that there were no known casualties among the priests and religious in the diocese and added that at that time “bodies are still being dug from the debris and people who are still alive, bnomous and hungry, are becoming hard to control. Thou-

A LARGE CRUCIFIX still stands before the St. Catherine Convent and School where hundreds were given refuge from the disastrous winds and water by the Sisters of Mercy of Providence, R.I., one of two religious orders of women represented in the Diocese of Belize. According to latest reports from the city, the nuns are still providing shelter for and feeding many victims.

op Robert L. Hodapp, S.J., center, and Father are being shipped to victims in Belize.

Oppressed Cubans Look To Free, Democratic Future

The author of the following article—the last in a series of three—is a former correspondent of Noticias Catolicas in Santiago, Cuba, who was persecuted by the government for his news work and leadership of Catholic youth groups. After being granted asylum in a foreign embassy in Havana, he reached the U.S. in September.

FATHER JORGE BEZ-CHABE
N.C.W. News Service

The Faith will survive in Cuba and the country's future is hopeful despite the persecution of the Church and the people by the brutal regime of Premier Fidel Castro.

A close to the future was provided by the Castro regime's panic and violence in the face of the recent mass demonstration of Cuban Catholics.

On Sept. 10 a vast crowd gathered in front of the Church of Our Lady of Charity in downtown Havana. The people wanted to hold the traditional procession in honor of their nation's patroness. But the Castro government feared that such a demonstration would be extremely dangerous to itself.

In Santiago, Cuba, where was persecuted—Noticias Catolicas, the nation's patroness. But the Castro government feared that such a demonstration would be extremely dangerous to itself and sent milliamen to fire on the crowd with machineguns.

Then, without any provocation, it deported the church's pastor, Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Bana Mavial of Havana, and 131 priests and Brothers to Spain.

Unprovoked violence is often a sign of weakness, thus Castro's reaction in the September demonstration is evidence that his communist regime is held together by fear of the religious faith, traditions and ideals of the Cuban people. His government is now being kept in power only by the campaign of propaganda and terror waged by Red agents.

Although there is hope for Cuba, there are also some disturbing questions facing that island nation. Where is the national purpose instilled in the people by revolutionaries like Jose Marti, who led the 19th century struggle for independence? What is going to happen to the thousands of young people who have been brainwashed by communist propagandists?

TRADITION PERSISTS

The answers are that Marti's teachings will prevail and that not all young people have been deceived. There is a time-tested tradition and the Cuban people are determined to teach Workers, students, peasants and political leaders that they will resist with the Soviet Union, Batista's successor, President Grau San Martin and Fidel Castro, had restricted communist activities.

Thus until Castro came to power the Reds counted for but little in Cuban life. When the nation's influential men and organizations pooled their resources to fight against the Batista dictatorship from 1933 to 1959, no communists were asked to join in.

The Reds were again absent at Caracas, Venezuela, in July, 1958, when all 10 groups involved in the armed revolt for freedom signed a pact setting forth their common aims and the post-revolution program. The signers, besides Castro's 26th of July Movement and the Student Directorate, included the two most active underground groups and the traditional parties and the underground movements.

Six months later the Batista forces were defeated, but not with the help of the communist party. Only weeks before Batista's downfall, the Reds were opposing and subjugating the 30th of July Movement formed to back up Castro's guerrillas.

In February, 1959, the influential magazine, Bohemia, which was the voice of those who signed the Caracas pact, expressed alarm that "some leading figures of the revolution seem to be cooperating in the infiltration and deceit of the external enemies of democracia." It added this warning: "The way of Cuba is not the way of Bula. The Cuban Revolution does not answer to Marx, but to Marti."

Today the cream of this leadership among workers, students and political groups is fighting Castro's Red regime in the underground and in exile.

It is true that Cuban youth is being drifted off from this anti-communist tradition by being indoctrinated in Marxist tenets and tactics but this indoctrination is failing on many counts. In the first place, it is being carried out in a disorderly and impatient manner, as if the communist bosses were in a race for time. Under the guise of "education" and "literate" campaigns, Castro and his agents are trying to erase almost a century of striving for independence and four centuries of Christian tradition.

Most of this indoctrination effort is based on emotion, not on reason. While it can produce fanaticism and whip up rallies, it can hardly take root in convictions.

Young Cubans at first like to wear uniforms, carry guns and become teachers among illiterate farm workers. Yet they have no real knowledge of patriotism or its sense of criticism. What is better, they believe in the best ideals of the betrayal.

Cuban youth will show in due time that it knows how to shake off the present nightmare of lies and betrayal. The military and even the secret police are heavily penetrated by anti-Castro youths.

One of the greatest weaknesses of the Castro regime is the effect on the people of its economic failures and extravagances. The land reform program has been a colossal bombshell of them. Hungry is growing in this first communist republic of Latin America and thousands of Cuban homes have felt its impact.

A wide range of vital foods and goods are lacking today. People know that the Castro laws hitting the sources of production are responsible for conditions today. In 1960 alone, Castro spent some $409 million on the so-called land reform.

The people also know that arms buying from the U.S.S.R. and other Iron Curtain countries has depleted the f w hard currency resources Cuba still had. The vast expense of the propaganda effort on behalf of Soviet communism—the funds spent on broadcasts, the printing of millions of copies of pro-Soviet literature, the support of agents, the lavish exchange of students and leaders—and also deeply impressed hungry Cubans.

In 1961, a group of Cuban university students conducted surveys to determine the religious beliefs of the people in Cuba so that the apathetic could know more than its activities.

The students went out in teams to ask Cubans about God, religion and the human soul.

RELIGIOUS TRADITION

Among 600 selected students at Havana University, 75 per cent said they believed in God according to Catholic teaching; 27 cent believed in something like God; and only 2.5 cent said they were atheists.

The national survey conducted among hundreds of communities in rural and urban areas, found the 96.5 per cent of the people believe in God, 86.5 per cent believed in an immortal soul.

Cubans with religious convictions deeply devoted to them are to our Lady of Charity, look to their tradition of freedom and human dignity, and above all to spiritual values and faith, as the key to their salvation in the present storm.

"You Are My Voice..."
— POPE PIUS XI

BISHOP CARROLL and your priests echo the thoughts and desires of Pope John XXIII in urging as strongly as possible that each Catholic family, worthy of that name, welcome our diocesan newspaper each week.

Every day the Church experiences an increasing barrage of ridicule, contempt and persecution from our enemies. It is difficult to resist being influenced by the lies and distortions told about us. Perhaps even more disastrous is the amount of self-imposed ignorance. The Voice undertakes, at the direction of our Bishop, to dispel the errors that bombard us; at the same time it takes a most active part in the campaign of thinking people to prevent the conquest of our country by the communists in our midst. The great shortage of priests in our diocese makes it impossible for your priests to spend as much time with each family as they would like. The Voice is their substitute, visiting you each week to teach and counsel, to comfort and to guide you. We sincerely hope that each family will voluntarily subscribe to The Voice for another year.

DCCW Unit Aids Poor, Hungry Of Many Lands

This is the 12th in a series of articles explaining the aims and objectives of the standing committees which comprise the Miami Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Motivation for active participation in the work of the committee on Foreign Relief is not complicated. Since it is the natural instinct of women everywhere to respond to the cry of need in food and clothing, the response is immediate in the National Council of Catholic Women when the American Bishops ask for cooperation in aiding the world's victims of war and hardship, those living in under-developed nations.

Funds are raised and put into the hands of Catholic Relief Services—National Catholic Welfare Conference, which is the Bishops' Overseas Relief. The agency uses the funds to buy food, medical supplies and equipment for dispensing collected by diocesan councils affiliated with the NCCW and sent to areas for distribution.

Just this week such supplies were rushed to the hurricane-stricken area of Belize in British Honduras where the 30-mile-per-hour winds of Hurricane Hattie left in their wake misery, hunger, heartbreak and despair. In addition to drugs, some 5,000 pounds of clothing passed through Miami International Airport en route to the Diocese of Belize which ministers to the spiritual welfare of some 53,000 Catholics.

“We haven’t even scratched the surface of the Committee on Foreign Relief,” Mrs. Vincent Vahs of St. James parish, North Miami, diocesan chairman of the committee said. “If each member of our council contributed three cents we would be able to supply almost 9,000 meals. Where could you get a better bargain than a dinner for three cents?”

Pointing out that there is something of interest in the work of the committee for every member of every affiliate, Mrs. Vahs is urging members to make inquiries about the complete program of the Foreign Relief Committee.

In addition to food raising and clothing collections, Catholic women throughout the U.S. are making contribution dresses, preparing layettes and sending infant apparel to the Holy Father’s Storehouse from which it will be distributed as needed to afflicted areas all over the world.

Through the Madonna Plan, one of the special projects of the committee, assistance is given to orphaned and child clinics established throughout the world.

It's not at all unlikely that stew is mankind's oldest dish, going back some 300,000 years to the time when a primitive man first learned to use fire in preparing his food.

While pottery wasn't invented until around 9,000 B.C., archaeologists say early man contrived a simple substitute: small depressions dug in the ground were lined with animal skins, there were filled with water, meats and edible vegetation. Then he dropped

How do you correct five unhappy years of marriage? My husband complains that I don't keep house right, don't cook right, dress right, talk right, etc. When I do something he doesn't like, he uses foul language, spits in my face, or punishes me in other ways — all in front of the children. We've separated six times — then I'm wonderful and he wants me back, but it doesn't last. What should I do? This treatment has gone on since the third week of our marriage.

BY FATHER JOHN L. THOMAS, S.J.

I used to believe that such situations could be found only in fiction but since learned they are far from rare and may be on the increase in our society. As in your case, Rose, the pattern tends to be set very early in marriage. As a matter of fact, some couples never manage to establish normal marital relationships, inasmuch as suspicion, rejection, or misunderstanding may appear even during their honeymoon, and the resulting tension and distrust provide no healthy climate for developing a sense of unity and mutual concern.

Because the problem generally goes back to the beginning of marriage, it may be worthwhile to take a closer look at some of the factors related to its origin. When the average couple enter marriage, we may reasonably presume that they feel they are in love and can lead a successful married life together.

Some are so quickly disillusioned once they are married! During courtship they apparently found little to criticize in each other, they readily acceded to each other's wishes, and they enjoyed sharing each other's thoughts and feelings. Why do they fail to develop along similar lines in marriage?

Involves Additional Factors

One obvious answer is that they did not reveal, and consequently did not get to know, their real selves during courtship. Most people are on their best behavior when they date, for they seek to please. Then too, lovers are not noted for their clear vision.

Such lack of realism during courtship may account for many difficulties early in marriage, but unhappy situations like your own usually involve additional factors. In many cases, the harsh, critical, contemptuous treatment accorded spouse or children is owing primarily to dissatisfaction with the state of marriage itself.

That is to say, some partners resent the limitations on personal freedom necessarily involved in marriage or parenthood and blindly proceed to transfer their resentment to their spouses or children. They are really rejecting the demands made upon them by the situation of being married, yet rather than face up to their own selfishness in rejecting obligations they have freely assumed, they vent their hidden guilt and frustration on their families.

Following a somewhat similar pattern, some people enter marriage with either no awareness of or intention to accepting the personal adjustments necessarily involved. They assume as a matter of course that others must adapt themselves to their dispositions and are highly indignant if they fail or refuse to do so.

From your brief though graphic description of your marital situation, Rose, it is impossible to discover what the real underlying causes of your difficulties may be.

Situation Must Be Changed

At any rate, it is quite clear that the situation must be changed, for the actions you describe are utterly beneath the dignity of Christian spouses and should not be tolerated. Have you sought the help of your pastor or of a competent marriage counselor?

Experience shows that temporary separations without counseling seldom produce lasting results. Reconciliations based upon even well-meaning promises prove to be mere wishful thinking unless both partners recognize the real source of their problems and agree upon some definite, practical steps for dealing with it.

Hence you need outside help. If your husband refuses to see your pastor or to consult another counselor, he is obviously in bad faith, for your marital situation is intolerable and no matter who may be primarily at fault, you are both obliged to do all that you reasonably can to find a workable solution.

Five unsuccessful years should make it clear that something is radically wrong with your relationships. If your husband refuses to cooperate in seeking competent help, you may as well plan for a permanent separation. You are not now living as Christian spouses, so why continue the disgraceful performance?

Gables Columbian Squires

Cited Among Best In U.S.

CORAL GABLES — For the second consecutive year, the Columbian Squires Circle of Our Lady of Good Counsel has been rated as one of the best Circles in the country.

The youth group is composed of boys between 13 and 18 who carry out a year-round program of spiritual, social, athletic and civic-cultural activities under the sponsorship of the Coral Gables Council of the Knights of Columbus.

More than 724 Circles were evaluated before 25 winning units were announced by Supreme Knight Luke E. Hart, of New Haven, Conn. A trophy presented to the winning Circle was forwarded to the Circle by Catholic Gables and conferred by Jack Adamson, Florida state deputy.

Leonard A. Burt, Jr., chief squire, accepted the award for the Circle. Present were John F. Tracy, Sr., state chairman of the K.C. youth movement and director of a campaign to establish more youth Circles throughout the State.

Activities for which the winning Circle was cited included the donations of refreshments dispensed, valued at more than $500, to Epiphany parish hall and the Coral Gables K.C. council hall.

Besides raising funds for the parish, squires also promoted the Muscular Dystrophy Drive, the Columbus Day observance, the country fair of South Miami Hospital, a campaign to Keep Christ in Christmas, and Catholic Press month. They also sponsored parties for orphans. Members regularly direct Sunday traffic at Epiphany Church. The Circle has also helped to set up new units of the youth organization in various K.C. councils of the diocese.

PROBLEMS OF MODERN YOUTH

Worried Adults In 4000 B.C.

CLEVELAND (NC) — So you think today's teenagers are the worst ever?

You'd have had a hard time convincing the Egyptian priest who in the year 4000 B.C. wrote: "Our earth is degenerate. Young people no longer obey their elders."

In citing the Egyptian's In- nances, Sister Rose Angela, Sister of Our Lady of Good Counsel, told a gathering of adults that a study of the Bible's Book of Genesis is sure to inspire them to find ways to reduce the number of juvenile delinquents today.

Mr. John J. Brady, vice president of Holyoke, Mass., who this year received his 50th Jubilee, announced that the Circle of Our Lady of Good Counsel is growing in strength and is preparing to move to a new building.

Algunos Pensamientos sobre el Purgatorio

La doctrina católica sobre el Purgatorio es una verdad de fe. El Concilio de Trento, en 1545, declaró que la Iglesia Católica tiene autoridad para predicar la existencia del Purgatorio, que no está en el infierno. El Purgatorio es una especie de meditación entre la muerte y el cielo, donde los pecadores sufren un purgatorio para expiar sus pecados.

El Purgatorio es el lugar donde los pecadores son purificados mediante los actos y pensamientos de piedad. El Purgatorio es el lugar donde las almas se preparan para el cielo, ya que allí reciben la gracia suficiente para eliminar sus pecados.

Es importante recordar que el Purgatorio es un lugar de purificación, y no un castigo. Los que están en el Purgatorio son allí para purificar sus pecados y prepararse para el cielo. Es una parte esencial del camino hacia el cielo en la fe católica.

Además, es importante recordar que el Purgatorio no es un castigo, sino un lugar de purificación. Los que están allí son allí para purificar sus pecados y prepararse para el cielo. Es una parte esencial del camino hacia el cielo en la fe católica.

There are three ways of dealing with underdeveloped countries. The American Foreign Policy generally believes in working from the top down — from government officials to the overthrow of governments. Our missionaries work from the outside to the inside; they feed the hungry and then elevate their souls to self-determination of their natural destinies.

There are also several philosophies of giving to the underdeveloped people of the world. The American policy is economic aid; the Soviet policy is economic aid with psychological indoctrination in order to produce world imperialism. What a change would come over the world if all the States were to send aid to underdeveloped countries? Aid was given through Catholic and Protestant missionaries instead of through politicians. These missionaries live with the people, speak their language, share their poverty, love them unto death and bring to them the only real antidote there is to communism — a Christ-like heart that would die for virtue rather than be a slave to the anti-Christ of communism.

When the Soviets infiltrate a country and establish a Communist regime by force, the United States is then bound to protest or act to maintain the status quo. This immediately puts us on the side of reaction. The missionaries, on the contrary, believe in educating native clergy and a native elite to eventually reform government according to principles of justice and order.

The more we study Communist techniques, the more we see the value of The Society for the Propagation of the Faith. Krushchev is like a man with a hose who is sprinkling a garden. He shows troubled water on the streets of Korea, then on the flower gardens of Formosa, then on the dry land of Jordan, driving the Western world crazy with his diversions tactics. The Society for the Propagation of the Faith has a world plan, too — to serve all peoples all over the world. But by sending all alms to a central source — the Holy Father — it eliminates di Catholic pamphlets, books, magazines, newspapers and radio and television programs are helpful in spreading the Faith, but nothing beats personal contact. Upon his arrival in the United States Father O'Brien first Christians chiefly relied to extend Christ's kingdom.

"We live on a farm," related Mr. Shogren. "About 16 miles from Blackduck. One day we were surprised to find a Catholic priest knocking on our door. For years we had been so engrossed with the work of the farm that we had neither the time nor the inclination to attend any church. We wondered what this priest wanted.

"I'm Father Leonard Weber, the pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church in Blackduck," he said. "My assistant, Father Nosgen, and I are taking a religious census of all the people living in the 1,000 square miles comprising our parish. We're interested in knowing not only our own parishioners but the non-Catholics as well. That was the visit that led to our acceptance of his offer to come one night a week to explain the Catholic religion.

"We couldn't help but admire the sincerity of a man who was willing to drive 32 miles..."
LEGION OF DECEY

PICTURES WITH FAMILY APPEAL STILL TOPS

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

"The persistence of most film producers in passing up familiar families to concentrate on "spectaculars" and "show pieces" is one of the blunders that is holding down movie attendance.

This has been said before in this column. It is worth repeating now because it comes from an authoritative film trade editor. Don Carle Gillette of the leading trade daily, "The Hollywood Reporter."

Gillette tells us: "A picture with family appeal has a potential audience of over 125,000,000, while an 'adult' film is limited to less than half that number."

"It would pay the Hollywood studios to make at least twice as many family films as adult ones. Instead they do just the opposite," adds Don Carle. Like his friend Don Quixote, he is tilting at the windmills, but he shows good sense as well as discipline.

Walt Disney," he says, "is the only film-maker consistently catering to the whole family and the policy has been successful. That 'A Disney Film' now is about all a theater needs to advertise in order to draw parents and their kids."

FOR THE PUBLIC

Much was made recently, in another Hollywood trade paper, of an official Legion of Decency statement that Hollywood is in business to sell the people what they want. This seemed to echo an old, threadbare theme that "the public wants what it wants!

Mr. Thomas F. Little, executive secretary of the Legion, addressing the Chicago Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, was quoted as holding the American people responsible for the recent upsurge in sexy and violent pictures which "differ only in intensity from those made 30 years ago."

Having recently enjoyed a dicey discussion with the Messignor, I am satisfied that the remarks were misinterpreted to apply to all of the American people. The recent wave of sexy and violent films has drawn enough people to the theaters so, in most instances, show a profit.

But ex-film critics in urban and rural areas have not been anywhere near those at key theaters in metropolitan centers. Certain sensational movies that played well "down town" have flopped in many suburban theaters.

On a nationwide scale film profits have not been as high as they used to be, or ought to be. The prestige of the movie industry has fallen and is still falling, particularly in the smaller cities and country towns.

Meanwhile, according to my mailing, the inflationists growl that Legion of Decency policy is keyed more closely to the tastes and demands and seductions of those in the large cities than in the small towns, with the result that America is falling into a moral vacuum.

One Movie Praised, Another Condemned

NEW YORK. (N.C.) - The National Legion of Decency recommended one film for family patronage and changed the classification of another from class B "morally objectionable in part" to Class C "morally objectionable.

The production "Midsummer Night's Dream" distributed by Showcorporation was recommended by the Legion to the patrons of the entire family as superior entertainment."

The classification of "Prime Time," distributed by Essajay Films, Inc., was changed from class B to class C. The Legion gave the following explanation:

"This film, formerly classified 'B' because of suggestive costumes and sequences; sadism, is now being exhibited to the public in a new version. This new version substantially improves the original moral aspect of the film by the introduction of borderline pornography and for this reason warrants a condemned (C) rating.

In condemning this film the Legion notes that the distributor has violated his pledge word that only the original version would be exhibited in the United States."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

By: Geither D. Peden, Jr.

"EVERY MAN HAS THREE CHARACTERS — THAT WHICH HE EXHIBITS, THAT WHICH HE HAS, AND THAT WHICH HE THINKS HE HAS...

Alphonse Karr

To a great extent, this saying is true. Often our outside actions and spoken beliefs are largely dictated by the limits of convention. We say and do certain things simply because to do otherwise might be contrary to accepted standards of behavior. Then, again, we might depart from those accepted standards, all the while rationalizing our actions as being worthy and honorable in a particular instance.

At any rate, character can be a rather mercurial thing, changeable, vacillating, and sometimes unpredictable, as better the view of a person who looks upon character as a dynamic, something to be changed to fit the dictates of the moment.

This is another matter, but when loved one is lost, put your reliance in a complete and comprehensive service so as is available at C. D. PEDERSEN FUNERAL HOMES, Catholic Funeral Home, 3231 Bird Road, Ambulance Service, Phone CA 6181.
