LATINS GATHER IN STADIUM SATURDAY NIGHT

40,000 To Hear Bishop Boza At Religious Rally

More than 40,000 Spanish-speaking Catholics in South Florida are expected to participate in a gigantic religious rally Saturday, Jan. 27 when Bishop Coleman F. Carroll will offer Solemn Pontifical Mass in Miami Raitum at 8 p.m.

Principal speaker at the rally, which is sponsored by the Diocese of Miami and will be auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Beza Mavisdal of Havana, number one religious exile from Cuba who last September was physically deported to Spain by communist forces of Fidel Castro.

The former rector of Villanueva University in Havana and outspoken critic of the Bed regime was physically deported to Spain by communist forces of Fidel Castro. Thousands of Cuban refugees are expected to join with other Latin Americans in the observance which will mark the observance of the rosary and the consecration of the Spanish-speaking peoples to the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

A torch-light procession of Latin-American men will ensue the stadium, 7301 NW 10th Ave., at 7 p.m. Confessions will be heard by 30 Spanish-speaking priests beginning at 7 p.m. on the field. Those attending are requested to be seated in the stadium before the procession begins.

Mass will be celebrated by Bishop Carroll at a beautiful altar erected especially for the occasion in the center of the field. Msgr. Colista Garcia will be deacon. Father Nelson Ferandez, subdeacon and Father Primitivo Santamaria, O. F., and Father Clemente Seoane will be deacons of honor. Msgr. Jose Maria Juristari and Msgr. Manuel Trabadello will be chaplains to Bishop Boza. Masters of ceremonies will be Father Neil Fleming, Father Donald P.X. Connolly and Father Anthony Navarrete.

VATICAN DAILY REFUTES CASTRO ON CUBAN RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Vatican City's daily newspaper has contested the claim of Cuba's self-dubbed Marxist premier that full religious freedom prevails in Cuba.

L'Osservatore Romano quoted Fidel Castro in an interview he gave on Jan. 17 as saying: "Religious functions are celebrated with the greatest freedom. Citizens attend them without fearing anything and priests perform their pastoral ministry freely and in peace."

The Vatican City daily pointed out in reply that all Catholic schools in Cuba have been expropriated; that Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Beza Mavisdal of Havana and 130 priests have been expelled; that no Catholic press publications and that an anti-religious and anti-Catholic campaign is in full progress in the press and over radio and television.

The newspaper emphasized that religious freedom does not consist solely in freedom to attend or celebrate Mass. "For Christians there is also the duty of living in harmony with their Faith, of educating their children in the religion of their fathers, in a word, of giving testimony of their profound convictions in everyday life, both individual and social," it stated.

Catholic school population of the Diocese of Miami is increasing so rapidly that a greatly expanded program of new construction is unable to keep pace, Father Lamor J. Genovar revealed this week.

There are more Catholic boys and girls in Catholic high schools today than ever before, he said, but at the same time there are more Catholic boys and girls in public high schools as well.

Two years ago, the Diocesan census showed that of all Catholic boys and girls in high schools, 74 per cent were in Catholic schools and 26 per cent in public schools. At this time it is estimated that 71 per cent are in Catholic and 27 per cent in public high schools.

Speaking as the coordinator for Bishop Coleman F. Carroll in the 1962 Diocesan Development Fund Campaign, Father Genovar declared:

"This is a crucial year for the educational system of the diocese. At the beginning of each school term, more and more boys and girls are applying for admissions and too many of them, of necessity, still must be turned away."

"On the grade school level, the individual parishes have been doing a tremendous job. At great sacrifice, the people have been providing facilities for the first eight grades in many communities, so that in that particular area, we have been making progress."

"It is in the field of secondary education, however, that we are faced with our greatest problem. It is a problem which cannot be solved easily or quickly. It will require years of sustained effort."

"Most importantly, however, the problem of providing more high school facilities is one which can be resolved."

CITES RED TIES
Cardinal Artega y Betancourt, Archbishop of Havana, has been in ill health for some time. He has been a guest in Argentina for treatment in Havana since April, 1961.
The Peace Committee's report accused the Cuban regime of ties with communism of subversive activities and of violations of human rights.
It said these factors are the principal cause of international tension in the Americas and constitute "political aggressions.”
"Such acts represent attacks upon the peace and security of the Americas..." the report stated.
It charged that "the present government of Cuba has tied itself to the Sino-Soviet bloc" and "has separated itself from the Inter-American system and repudiated agreements and commitments stipulated in other instruments on which the system is based."
In support of its conclusion, the committee cited the following:
— Castro's statement of Dec. 1, 1961, that he is "a Marxist-Leninist."
— The building in Cuba of a single "monolithic party based on the Soviet model."
— The acceptance of the Cuban government of the offer of military aid made by the Soviet Union.
The Peace Committee also charged that Cuba, through radio and printed matter, is conducting an unconventional propaganda campaign aimed "at deforming the governments of the Americas, to the detriment of their hemispheric solidarity..." and even inciting violent subversion of legally constituted regimes.

OAS Peace Unit Denounces
Castro's Ouster Of Priests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Inter-American Peace Committee made pointed reference to the lack of religious freedom in Cuba and the expulsion of priests in its second report on the Fidel Castro regime's tie-in with communism.
The section of the 50-page report dealing with the violation of human rights in Cuba referred specifically to the recent expulsion from the island of Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Boza Maviald of Havana, which, it noted, was directed "to the expulsion of very many Catholic priests." The Inter-American Peace Committee is an autonomous body that works through the Organization of American States. It was given the task of investigating charges made by the Peruvian government that Cuba has engaged in an effort to promote subversive activities and that it has systematically violated the rights of its citizens.
APPROVED UNANIMATELY
The committee’s report was approved unanimously by its five members: El Salvador, Uruguay, Colombia, Venezuela and the U.S. and was submitted to the Foreign Ministers Conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay.
The section of the report dealing with lack of religious freedom in Cuba stated: "Regarding free profession of religious beliefs and the practice of the same, the committee has received testimony..." which revealed the obstacles and restrictions which have been adopted in various forms to impede its propagation.
"In this sense, we may cite, among other things, the report continued, "the interruption of religious services by the military, the occupation of schools and colleges directed by religious men, the expulsion of very many Catholic priests..." among other things," the report added, "the acceptance of the Cuban government of the offer of military aid made by the Soviet Union..."
The Peace Committee also charged that Cuba, through radio and printed matter, is conducting an unconventional propaganda campaign aimed "at deforming the governments of the Americas, to the detriment of their hemispheric solidarity..." and even inciting violent subversion of legally constituted regimes.

Over 12 More Missionaries
Feared Massacred in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (NO) — More than a dozen priests and nuns are feared to have been killed in the last 10 days in wholesale murders of Catholic missionaries in the Congo since New Year’s Day, according to reports reaching here.
If the reports are confirmed, it will mean that more than 20 priests and 5 nuns have been assassinated within less than three weeks in the worst outbreak of anti-Catholic violence since this strife-torn nation became independent a year and a half ago.
A United Nations spokesman here reported that there are no signs of life in the mission at Solwezi, where about a dozen White Fathers and Franciscan Sisters were earlier reported to be under attack by rampaging Congolese troops and fanatic anti-Catholic Africans.

SAME TAKERS
The attackers are believed to be the same as those who massacred 18 Holy Ghost Fathers and a Brother along with an unknown number of African laymen on Jan. 1 in Kangolo, about 95 miles from Solwezi.
A report from Elisabethville, capital of the secessionist Katanga province, states that four missionaries and 11 civilians were killed in Kabanga in north Katanga. The mission in Kabanga is staffed by three Holy Ghost Fathers and four Carmelites, nuns.
Another report said that four Africans were killed and seven Catholic missionaries were attacked at St. Paul’s College in Bagama, eastern Congo, during an intertribal battle. U.N. troops have since reported that the situation in Bagama is calm.
UN AID PLEDGED
Observers here say the troops involved in the attack on Solwezi are the same as those who beat, killed and mutilated the bodies of the Holy Ghost missionaries in Kangolo and who also murdered and mutilated 13 Italian airmen on Nov. 11 in Kivu.

Reds Report Consecration
Of Seven Bishops In China

HONG KONG (NO) — Seven Chinese priests were consecrated bishops in Red China’s capital at Peking Jan. 21 at the conclusion of the second conference of the Communist-controlled “Patriotic Catholic Association,” according to the Chinese Communist news agency.

All were allegedly consecrated in one ceremony at Nantong Church by Archbishop Ignatius P’i’il of Mukden. He was said to have been assisted by six bishops — three of whom had been lawfully consecrated and three unlawfully.
The seven men newly consecrated in opposition to the authority of the Holy See are reportedly for the three archdioceses of Kaifeng, Taiyuan and Puchow, and the three dioceses of Chenting, Shihchau and Pienyang, and for Waiyung, a part of the Hong Kong diocese that is inside mainland China.
Some of these priests had been reported “elected” under Communist direction by bishops three or four years ago. There are grounds for believing that at least some of them had been resisting Communist pressure to accept unlawful consecration until recently.

Pope Will Ask All Priests To Pray For 2nd Council

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope John XXIII has announced that he will issue two decrees: one calling on the world's priests to recite the Divine Office for the success of the council and the other urging increased use of Latin in seminaries.

A REVIVAL

In the early Church the three hierarchical ranks were those of the apostles, or bishops; the presbyters, or priests; and the deacons.

The wide variety of topics considered by the commission during its eight meetings between January 15 and 23 also included improved relations between Catholics and Orthodox Christians, use of the vernacular in the Eastern Rites, modern morality, spiritualism and related errors, the need for early baptism and the real nature of sin.

A commemorative issued by the press office for the coming eucumenical council and the other urging increased use of Latin in seminaries.

Cardinal Alain Masella presided over discussions concerning Holy Orders, and proposals to extend faculties for administering the Sacrament of Confirmation and to relax certain limitations in regard to the Sacrament of Penance.

A REVIVAL

Discussions on Holy Orders included study of a proposal to revive the deaconate as a function independent of the priesthood.

Italy’s Christian Democrats Facing Most Crucial Test

ROME (NC) — Christian Democracy in Italy faces probably its most crucial test since it came to power after the Second World War.

On Jan. 31 the Catholic-oriented party, which is Italy’s dominant party, holds its national congress at Naples. The crucial meeting of the country will be the answer to one of three questions:

— Shall the party align itself with Italian Socialist party?
— Shall the party refuse both alliances and take its chances in a new series of national elections?
— Must the party change its name?

No matter how serious the consequences, one thing is clear. A choice has to be made.

The choice has been forced on the Christian Democrats. While the Christian Democrats have been Italy’s largest party for the past 15 years, they have not held an absolute majority in parliament and therefore have had to rely on rightist or leftist support to stay in power.

The present government, headed by Premier Amintore Fanfani, came to power by forming a coalition government with the support of the Social Democrats headed by Giuseppe Saragat, together with the Liberals and Republicans.

MAJOR QUESTION

In the final statement of the meetings held in November, 1961, the Italian Episcopal Conference exhorted Catholics to remain united and to recall the directives of the hierarchy against any kind of collaboration with Marxists.

In spite of this, Fanfani and other Christian Democrats insist on the opening to the left but only in favor of a Christian Democratic government which would get the external support of the socialists because of its progressive social program. It is argued that an alliance between the Christian Democrats and socialists would widen the breach between the socialists and communists.

Church Bells Reply To A Socialist Taunt

VALLETTA, Malta (NC) — A minor battle of bells versus bottles broke out in suburban Luqa when socialists staged a political meeting opposite a church.

The noisy rally, addressed by Labor Party leader Denis Mintoff, disturbed tourists and attending services.

The church goers began pelting the church bells to drown out the shouts of the socialists. The socialists picked up bottles and stones and hurled them.

Police intervened to prevent further violence.

Soviet Union Stepping Up Suppression Of Religion

The fact sheet states that “indolent administrative measures” have been urged against priests who teach their children to believe in God. “This type of persecution is not limited to the Orthodox faithful but affects also other faiths,” it adds.

“Evidence has mounted recently of the persecution of other religious faiths in the U.S.S.R. — of Catholics, Moslems, Buddhists, and others,” the fact sheet says.

“The upward curve of religious persecution in the Soviet Union,” it concludes, “may stem a small dip in the acceptance Nov. 20, 1961 of the Moscow Patriarchate into the World Council of Churches.”

Social Action Needs Laity, NCCM Told

WASHINGTON (DC) — In the field of social action “the first and primary apostles must be the laymen,” according to Father John F. Cronin, S.S., assistant director of the Social Action Department, NCWC.

To be effective in social action, individuals must have "technical competence" in specialized fields in which the clergy are usually unfamiliar, he said at a special three-day meeting sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Men.

Father Cronin noted that the quality of lay leadership in social action fields is high, but the number of actively participating laymen is not as large as it should be.

"GENERAL TIMIDITY" "The general high level of prosperity in the United States has tended to downgrade interest in social problems," he said.

Father Russell J. Neighbor, associate director of the Coordinating Council of Christian Doctrine National Center, said there is a "general timidity" among laymen about discussing religion.

He said this attitude to some degree inhibits the work of the CCD, as do such other obstacles as "too much dependence on the clergy" for leadership and the frequent failure of Catholic college graduates to assume an active role in lay organizations.

MOST SEVERE TEST Father John C. Knott, director of the NCWC Family Life Bureau, said that wherever there is effective Catholic family life movement, "underneath it is a vital lay leadership" — and wherever there is no such program, it is usually because lay leadership is lacking.

Father Charles W. Lanle, S.J., of the Georgetown University law school, who has served as a consultant to the NCWC Legal Department, said that in the area of law and politics Catholic lay leadership today "is being put to its most severe test."

He said the debate over federal aid to education has demonstrated that the number of Catholic lawyers and politicians with an expert grasp of Church-State issues is "extremely small...not more than two dozen."
EDITORS COMMENT

Which Symbol For OAS — Bishop Boza Or Castro?

There is, on the one hand, Bishop Eduardo Boza Mavialdi, the Pope's envoy, and on the other — the left, of course — Premier Fidel Castro, the oppressor. These two are the symbols which stand forth for all the powers in the world, the symbols of the decisions of foreign ministers, sponsored by the Organization of American States, continues at Punta del Este, in Uruguay. Along the other road there lies freedom, liberty and recognition of the dignity of man, as represented by Boza and the divinely-instituted Church to which he has given his life. Bishop Boza and Fidel Castro to millions of people are symbols of strength, the one for good, the other for evil. Would it not be tragic, therefore, for the Western Hemisphere and eventually for the whole world, if the OAS lacks comparable forces and strength in the political field to deal with the menace of communism Cuba?

If this conference produces nothing more than another quarrel, a decision, and a parade of symbols and if there is so more of a sanction than a cold glance directed at Castro, the OAS will become a symbol of weakness and ineffectiveness. Nothing else is needed. Let us then, on the other hand, be aware of the place where compromise and political blandishments unseat honor and integrity. If this happens, the OAS, many believe, will have dug its own grave. The President Kennedy’s Alliance will be greatly endangered.

Let's hope and pray that the strength and fortitude of the men of Bishop Boza and Fidel Castro will be identified with the officials of this conference and with the results which are being watched by all the world.

Latin In Display Of Faith

The four day religious observance presently in progress in Greater Miami among the Spanish-speaking people is an impressive retort that so much of the present world position in the arsenal of arms against communism is prayer and penance. It is a reminder that in the post generation a reborn generation has reiterated the advice of Our Lady of Fatima to pray and do penance in order to turn back the enemy of God and man. This is the very same advice our Blessed Mother gave to the very weapons which its enemies would laugh at as unrealistic and discount as useless.

Moreover, with thousands of Latin Americans fervently united in these days in prayer, it stands to reason, even from the human viewpoint, they have a much better chance of promoting unity so sorely needed and of achieving that victory of the spirit which can stand together and beg the help of Almighty God in a spirit of humility and dependence, and in keeping with the seriousness of their dedication to the propagation of their faith for sins and neglect of the past, then they can certainly enjoy not only the blessing of Our Lord, but the new strength that is always born of prayer.

With Bishop Boza standing before them tall and strong in possession of an expressed vision, his good Latin friends will be inspired to close ranks in their common objective to serve God and their beloved country. They will find in this public demonstration of faith, a powerful contradiction of the world of communism.

Their meeting is an act of love, constructive in its approach to the problems of the hour, seeking to raise man above his petty selfish interests to promote good all, while giving God the first place due Him. How this contrasts with the meetings of the communist leaders designed to spread hatred and discord and to reject God.

The future looks less dark when we can see so many thousands of our fellow Brazilians and themselves with the banner of prayer and penance to do battle with their enemy and ours. Dios les bendiga!

Interest In Council Growing

Priests and laity in the Diocese have had a singular opportunity this week to obtain authoritative information about the forthcoming Reorganization Council from Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh. Well known throughout the United States and abroad for his scholarship, Bishop Wright is one of 40 members, chosen from all over the United States, of the Committee on the Reorganization of the Ecumenical Council.

Since the announcement of the Council and the anticipated scars concerns not only the clergy but the laity, Bishop Wright in his intensely busy schedule found time to address both groups. He brought home to them the point made ecumenically by our Holy Father that the work of the Council concerns the whole world, religious and non-religious, since what it accomplishes can contribute most effectively to the solution of many modern problems.

There is a growing excitement about the council and upsurge of interest on the part of non-Catholics, as well as Catholics. Various Protestant leaders recently stated they are eagerly following the highly complex preparations and awaiting the gradual unfolding of plans. They can realize that a brighter and more memorable page of history than any written in modern times may well be in the offing for mankind.

Like the villain in the melodrama, the Red must be prepared to steal the spotlight and rush us into stages to frighten and intimidate. Reports of Russian fears about the strength to be gained in the world through increased unity among the non-communist nations is believed. Such unity against God and His truths must certainly result in greater opposition to materialism and all communism stands for. And soon to read that the Russian Orthodox church is being used by the Kremlin as a political tool to prevent unity among nations.

Many of us are better equipped as a result of Bishop Wright's lectures to understand the significance of the Council and the work of its friends and enemies.

What You Can Do To Win Fight Against Communism

By JOSEPH BREIG

Some readers who write to me are sure, sure, that they know all about how to combat communism. They say, "We are in the secret, and I'm not.

They close clippings from various publications in a determined effort to educate me about a Red plot that has been warning against for more than 30 years.

Their proposals boil down to this: snift out suspected communists, suspected dupes, suspect self-communists, suspected co-conspirators, and so on. Because anybody can be suspected, the potential suspects include practically everybody, not excluding the vacuum-headed columnist, Breig.

There are other folks, however, who are not satisfied that they have all the answers, and who inquire, "Why can't I do something in combat communism?"

There are any number of things you can do, including things that anybody can do. You can combat communism by:

- paying a decent wage to the woman who helps with the housework — and treating her right.

- rejetting prejudice in every form.

- giving a generous and loyal day's work in return for a day's pay.

- contributing generously, not stingily, to the mission and other works of religion; to charity and the United Fund and so on.

- getting into a fraternity of Christian Doctrine work, or the St. Vincent de Paul, or study clubs, or any branch of the lay apostolate.

I could go on. But I can put it in a nutshell. The climate of a loving of God and neighbor is fatal to communism. The climate of suspicion and dog-eat-dog is deadly for communism.

Let Christianity rule your life and shine through it, and you will be combating communism. Missionaries don’t spend their time bickering communism, but pleading Christ, and doing Christ - like things. That isn’t to say that communism should not be exposed. It should. But the best way to do that is by showing how right is by showing how right is Church. Christ has the answers — and we can find them in the Gospels.
How Much Do You Know About the Bible?

By FATHER JAMES J. WALSH

With the observance of Catholic Bible Week in the offering, we are reminded that a great many non-Catholics still ask us questions like these: Do Catholics believe in the Bible? Why are they not allowed to read the Old Testament? What do they mean by the saying: "Protestants have the Bible from oblivion!"

And so on.

One advantage of Bible Week is the review it affords us of our basic beliefs about the sacred Scriptures and the reminder that we have an obligation to be able to give the answers to such questions as these.

Here are some of the things we believe about the Bible:

The Bible is a library, rather than a book. It contains 73 books in all, 46 in the Old Testament and 27 in the New.

It started with the contribution of Moses about 1400 years before the birth of Christ. It ended with the final edition in the book of prophecy, the Apocalypse, written by St. John at the end of the first century; but read after the other Apostles were dead.

Putting all this together, we realize it took almost 1,000 years to complete the writing of the inspired book. God used many men in this astonishing project, men of different language and nationality and faith.

The Bible has enough honor without giving it undeserved recognition, such as the claim it is the oldest of all books. It is not. Long before Moses wrote down the Book of Genesis at God's direction for the Assyrians and Egyptians and Babylonians, preceded a similar literature. But no other book of ancient times could give us the primitive history of mankind known only to God alone, as the Bible has done.

The last book of the Old Testament was written about 100 years before Our Lord's coming. The first book of the New Testament was written roughly 10 to 20 years after Christ arose from the dead.

Apparently a great many people will have the false idea that Christ Himself wrote much of the Bible. He did not. But we have any idea that He commanded the Apostles to do so.

In the New Testament, we have 27 books of prophecy, the Apocalypse, are made up of the letters of the Apostles to their converts.

By the end of the first century, there must have been countless manuscripts in circulation on Christ and His Church. Another book follows those in which there is found a history of the early Church. The remaining slim books, excluding the Apocalypse, are made up of the letters of the Apostles to their converts.

We believe the Bible is the oldest of all books.

So a problem arose. Were any of these books inspired by God like the Old Testament? If so, how could they be inspired by God? Who was able to separate the merely religious or pious books from the inspired? Obviously a book itself could not bear witness to its inspiration.

Think of the lasting confusion in this matter, if Christ had not founded a Church to settle such questions. The Church had been given authority by Christ in teaching the truth and sanctifying in His Name. She used that authority in the early centuries when the careful church went over the many Old Testament books and put aside except 39. These she declared inspired and placed them alongside the ancient writings of the Old Testament.

This decision of the Church set once and for all the list or canon of New Testament books. Strongly enough, even the primitive church which denied the authority of the Church in other matters, accept her judgment in the matter of the New Testament as infallible.

What about the authorship of the Bible? When we say the book is inspired, we mean that God himself is the author. Critics speak of Shakespeare as "inspired" in certain of his plays. This is not the same in which the Church uses inspiration.

We believe that God used Moses, David, Matthew, John and all the other men connected with Holy Scripture as instruments, to somewhat the same sense as we would use a secretary, God thus enlightened the mind of the seer or writer and moved his will in such a way that he understood what he was to write down. In making a permanent record of God's thought, he could and did use his own style, language and dictionary.

The above is the man's.

This fact alone makes the Bible the most treasured of all books and gives us assurance it contains no false doctrine. But more about this next week.

Truth of the Matter

by Fr. Kilian McGowan, CP

Any one can practice mental prayer — and they should. Mental prayer is our counterpart as well as religious sisters, for parents as well as priests, for workers, for collar-clers or bibles. Mental prayer is for anyone who is willing to pray and pay the price of a mind and a heart like that of Our Lord, St. Kilian. And don't let the word scare you — it's not as hard as it looks.

Last week, we mentioned that mental prayer is a lifting up of your mind and heart to God in loving conversation. It calls for a few simple acts of your mind and heart. Its chief purpose is to form a framework for personal heart-to-heart conversation with Christ. It is a process that cultivates and safeguards your conversation with God.

In this conversation, you talk to God using the thoughts of your mind and the sentiments of your heart. Putting your missal, your prayer book, or your essay aside, you approach and speak to God with the thoughts and affections of your own soul.

Mental prayer, then, is that prayer in which you reflect on these mysteries — and put forth in its expressions of love, gratitude and sorrow. Sometimes, you'll use words in your conversation, and at other times you'll be wordless. But, through it all, your soul is in contact with your God.

Some find the different terms “mental prayer” and “meditation” rather confusing. Meditation is actually only one part of the prayer of mental prayer. It is the thinking part of this conversation, and is really the build-up for the true prayer. You are meditating, for example, when you prayerfully reflect on some recent商量ings of Christ egressed as described on the Way of the Cross. But when your heart begins expression of God's gratitude, its sorrow for sin, etc. — then you are actually praying!

Thus, you can see that mental prayer is different than vocal prayer, which uses such patterns of prayer as the “Our Father” and the “Hail Mary” — wonderful and highly-indulgent as they are. Naturally, our mind and heart also play a part in a vocal prayer — either they would not be prayer at all. But in vocal prayer we use the formulas of someone else, whereas in mental prayer we use our own words.

If your prayer-life is limited to merely vocal prayer — essential as it is — there is danger your contact with Christ may be superficial. The more intimate contact with the Mind and Heart of Christ — that is the special dividend of mental prayer. Put a problem may never be achieved. But in prayer of the mind and heart, Christ gradually transforms your soul and affections in the likeness of His very own. It's no wonder that it comes an amazing change in the life of the one praying. It's no wonder that those who are afraid to face God — or themselves — never dare to pray in the way of mental prayer.

Next week, a simplified method of mental prayer will be given in this column.

What was Msgr. Higgins' response to the organizing committee's charge to try to enforce collective bargaining? Do Catholics believe in the Bible if the New Testament as infallible? And did your prayer-life include mental prayer? If not the latter, they would be a great loss! This week, a simplified method of mental prayer will be given in this column.

Labor Takes A Hard Look At Inflation

By MSGR. GEORGE G. HIGGINS

President Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Goldberg have caution union leaders to exercise restraint in their wage demands. They stated that labor would fight back if labor and management of national economic processes unless it will enable the two parties to execute the regular wage increases and still make a handout of mental prayer — wonderful and highly-indulgent as they are. Naturally, our mind and heart also play a part in a vocal prayer — either they would not be prayer at all. But in vocal prayer we use the formulas of someone else, whereas in mental prayer we use our own words.

... only through the united and determined efforts of every Catholic on a diocesan-wide basis."

As announced by Bishop Carroll last week, the 1962 Development Fund Campaign will have as its objective the construction of still another building at St. John Vianney Minor Seminary to provide a new dormitory space and a larger chapel; new high schools and additions to high schools and a Newman Center at the Palm Beach Junior College, West Palm Beach.

Taking top priority for construction this year, in addition to the seminary building, will be a new high school in Fort Myers, which will be the first Catholic high school on South Florida's west coast, and a new high school for girls at the Monsignor Pace High School, North Dade County, making it co-institutional.

In addition, it is hoped that an expansion program will include additions to both the boys' and girls' facilities at Cardinal Gibbons High School, Fort Lauderdale; to the LaSalle High School for boys, Southwest Miami; to the Immaculata Academy for girls and to the Notre Dame Academy for girls.

Plans for the new Fort Myers high school already have been prepared and submitted to Bishop Carroll and other diocesan officials. Father Joseph Devaney, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church and dean of the West Coast Deaconry, expects to be able to announce soon a date for construction to be started.

Frank Mackie, of Miami Beach, is the general chairman for this year's Development campaign, and Anthony Abraham, of Coral Gables is general co-chairman. Other leaders in the drive announced this week are:

President Bocks Migrant Proposal
WASHINGTON (CNS) — President Kennedy and his Committee on Migratory Labor have endorsed proposals designed to improve the living and working conditions of migratory workers, long objects of special concern on the part of religious groups.

Mr. Kennedy and the committee gave specific backing to five bills passed last year by the Senate and now pending before the House.

These measures would provide for registration of crew leaders, extend child labor restrictions to migrants' children, give Federal aid to states for education and health services for migrants and their families, and establish a National Advisory Council on Migratory Labor.
A tentative schedule for four 30-hour Doctrine and Methods courses to be taught in Dade and Broward Counties in February was set up at a meeting of the Diocesan Executive Board of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

The courses will be held for CCD teachers. Three will be in Dade County, one in Broward County. They will begin the week of February 12.

Dade County courses will be taught in the schools of Holy Family Church, Immaculate Conception Church and St. Brendan Church. The Broward County course is scheduled for the Fort Lauderdale Central Catholic High School.

Complete class schedules will be listed in next week’s Voice. Doctrine courses will be taught by priests and teachers will lecture the Method courses.

Father R. E. Philbin, Diocesan director of the CCD, said these will be the only Doctrine courses taught in the area until fall. He said all CCD teachers should be certified in doctrine and he has asked parish CCD units to notify members of the courses, especially those who are now teaching and are not certified in either course.

Besides these courses, others are available by way of 12-hour-long tapes in some other areas of the Diocese. Locations and time will also be available in The Voice next week.

Assistance will be coming for the CCD program this summer when two sisters from the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart will be in the diocese for six weeks. Their schedule will be announced later.

Another announcement from the board meeting said two more parishes have completed training for executive board members and have applied for canonical erection, bringing the total churches now so recognized to 59. The parishes are Holy Family, North Miami and St. Jude, Jupiter.

Marriage Courses Starting Feb. 5, 6

A pre-Lenten series of marriage instructions designed to cover preparation for the successful living of marriage begins Feb. 5 and 6 in four locations in the Miami Diocese.

Conducted by priests and physicians and by members of the laity who have made a success of their marriages, the program of instructions will be conducted in the Little Flower parish auditorium, 98 Anastasia Ave., Coral Gables; St. Thomas Aquinas High School, 2961 NW 12th St., Fort Lauderdale; St. Mary Cathedral parish hall, 7006 NW Second Ave., Miami; and St. Juliana parish hall, 4200 S. Dixie Highway, West Palm Beach.

The diocesan program conducted under the direction of Mgr. Robert W. Schieben, director of the Family Life Bureau, is for the benefit of persons contemplating marriage and for those recently married. The program presents the tasks priests in individual parishes who ordinarily give the instructions privately. A certificate is awarded to each person who completes the entire program in order that they may present it when they register for marriage in the home parish. No charge is made for the lectures which are open to members of all parishes.

Since the instructions will be the same at each of the four centers, persons unable to attend an instruction in their locality on a given evening may attend the same instruction when it is given at another center on a different date. All instructions begin at 8 p.m.

Marriage and the Catholic Church, and Love and Happiness in Marriage will be discussed in Coral Gables and Fort Lauderdale on Monday, Feb. 5, and in Miami and West Palm Beach, Tuesday, Feb. 6.

Marriage and Sex, and A Doctor Talks on Marriage, will be the topic in Coral Gables and Fort Lauderdale on Wednesday, Feb. 7 and in Miami and West Palm Beach on Thursday, Feb. 8.

Marriage is a Sacrament, and Married Couples Discuss Marriage will be the subject of instructions in Coral Gables and Fort Lauderdale on Monday, Feb. 12 and in Miami and West Palm Beach, Tuesday, Feb. 13.

Mount Saint Michel (FRANCE)

This edifice demands unusual interest primarily because of its location. Mount Saint Michel is a rocky islet of Northwest France, situated in the Bay of St. Michel and connected to the mainland by a mile-long causeway. A solitary cone of granite, two miles in circumference at the base and 165 feet high, the islet consists of a village of a few houses and shops crowned by a Benedictine abbey and fortress.

One of the most impressive historical monuments in France, its buildings dominate the island and include buttresses, crypts, cloisters, spires and gargoyles. On the tallest spire stands a figure of a Benedictine Holy Name Society, Sunday, Jan. 14.

Benedictine Knights Reactivate Squires

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Columbian Squires of the Knights of Columbus Council 3005 will be reactivated after 10 years with an organizational meeting set for Monday, Jan. 29.

The Squires, a national group, is open to boys from 13 to 18 years old. The council will limit membership to 25. Interested boys can go to the K of C Hall at 335 SW 20th St. For further information.

A father-son dinner is also scheduled by the council Tuesday, Jan. 30 in the K of C Hall at 6 p.m.

Holy Name Men Hear Bishop Wycislo Talk

BOCA RATON — Auxiliary Bishop Aloysius J. Wycislo, of Chicago spoke at a breakfast following the installation of officers of St. Joan of Arc parish Holy Name Society, Sunday, Jan. 14.

The bishop told the 124 men about work of Catholic Relief Services throughout the world, outlining the charitable functions.

Bishop Wycislo also offered Mass prior to the breakfast.
THE CAMERA of Frank Sardinha records a visit to the chapel Saturday when 83 boys from the Palm Beaches spent a day at St. John Vianney Minor Seminary accompanied by Serrans.

A MIXTURE of seminarians and visitors was evident at almost every table as 83 West Palm Beach County boys ate with seminarians and discussed life in Miami’s minor seminary.

SEMINARY ACTIVITIES were displayed in pictures and a group from Delray Beach got a narration to accompany them from seminarian Robert Hazzard, student from Miami.

Post Office Warnings Of Red Propaganda

Bulletins in all 45,000 post office locations in the United States are calling attention to the possibility that Americans might receive unsolicited communist propaganda in the mail. A news release from the Miami Postmaster's office points out that this mail can be returned to post offices as "refused."

The distribution of the posters by the Post Office Department was suggested by a bill (H.R. 1037) reported by the House Un-American Activities Committee and passed by the House in the last session of the Congress. Reported favorably by the Senate Internal Security Committee, this bill now awaits Senate action.

Noting that unsolicited Communist propaganda is being sent persons in this country, the poster says, "This propaganda attempts to promote the objectives of the International Communist Movement. It often comes to unsuspecting American citizens in the form of posters to be respected by your privacy of your mail contacts and returned to your Government and the Postal Service."

Interested Parents of high school boys discuss particulars of curriculum which will be offered at the men's college by the Augustinian Father's of Villanova, Pa., with Father Sullivan who is in Miami preparing for the opening of the college.

'Roots Of Freedom' Theme For Catholic Book Week

VILLANOVA, Pa. (I.C.) - "Roots Of Freedom: Faith and Knowledge" will be the theme of the 23rd annual Catholic Book Week, Feb. 18 to 24. It was announced at Catholic Library Association headquarters.

The annual observance seeks to focus attention on "all good books" and to stimulate reading.

In connection with the week, book kits — including posters, annotated book lists for adults, young adults and children, and book marks — are distributed throughout the country.

Richard Will, executive secretary of the Catholic Library Association, estimated that some 300,000 copies of the reading lists of books recommended for Catholics would be distributed.

The observance is co-sponsored with the library association by the Catholic Press Association, the National Council of Catholic Men, the National Council of Catholic Women, and the National Office for Decent Literature.

Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh is honorary national chairman of this year's week.

CPA To Send New Team For Latin American Study

NEW YORK (N.Y.) — A three-man team of U.S. Catholic journalists will visit Latin America in February to study and make recommendations concerning Catholic programs in the mass media. Sponsored by the Catholic Press Association, the team will work in Venezuela, Nicaragua and Honduras under the direction of the Apostolic Nuncios and local bishops of those countries, who have requested this cooperation. Members of the team are Father Albert J. Nevins, M.M., chairman, who is president of the Catholic Press Association and editor of Maryknoll magazine; Msgr. R. G. Peters, editor of the Pueblo Register, Peoria, III., diocesan newspaper; and Douglas Roche, associate editor of Sign magazine.

The CPA project will be conducted under the auspices of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America, the Latin American Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and the Union Latino-Americana de Prensa Catolica.

Last year CPA study committees investigated in the establishment of several projects of continental importance for mass communications in Latin America. These included the opening or strengthening of continental secretariats for press (in Montevideo), radio (in Rio de Janeiro) and cinema (in Lima); and the creation of a national pilot project for mass communications in Peru, a continental center for training radio station directors in Bogota, and a communications section at the general secretariat of the Latin American Bishops in Bogota.

Another CPA team visited several countries and conducted journalism seminars there. The CPA also sponsored a program of on-the-job training for Latin American journalists, under which 21 journalists were brought to this country to work on U.S. Catholic publications.
School Bus-Ride Dispute Is Raging In 11 States

By JOHN J. DALY, JR.

School buses are facing controversy over whose children are entitled to their protection in at least 11 states.

Episodes in past months range from passage of new legislation in Wisconsin after a heated letter-writing campaign to rallying support for a Missouri law because of the case of a student who was walking to a Catholic school in sub-zero cold.

The controversy is taking place against the backdrop of court interpretations of state constitutions that such rides do not violate the federal constitution.

PRIVATE BUS service was started for pupils of a Catholic school in Norman, Okla., by a non-Catholic woman who was angered when pupils in the county to ride public school buses.

In Maine, Protestant church bodies have held rides to be legal, as long as no public money is spent for it.

In Wisconsin, the legislature requires the state to be neutral in its relations with groups of religious believers and non-believers.

In Ohio, Steubenville City Solicitor LeRoy C. Schell held in an opinion that six children who attend St. Peter's Catholic school might be driven to the public school by the bus they had been riding. He said Ohio law doesn't authorize such transportation.

In North Dakota, Att'y, Gen. Leslie R. Burgum has repeated his opinion that transportation of nonpublic school pupils does not violate state law — as long as no public money is spent for it.

In Wisconsin, the legislature has passed a law providing that parochial and other private school pupils can be transported on public buses to the public school they are entitled to attend. The children must get from that school to their own by other arrangements. The bill passed after a year-long debate and a heated letter-writing campaign.

There are now 16 states in which some nonpublic school pupils ride on tax-paid school buses. They are: California, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oregon and Rhode Island.

Supreme Courts in six states — California, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Connecticut — have ruled that the practice is permitted under their state constitutions.

RIDES OUT

Courts in six other states — Alaska, Delaware, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Washington and New York — have held that the practice is not permitted.

Pennsylvania and Iowa courts have held that the public school codes of the states do not authorize the transportation.

The 1,680 rides are entitled to their protection in at least 11 states.

WHO CAN RIDE ON TAX-PAID BUS SYSTEMS?

Other elements include apparent growing impatience by parents of private school pupils; court interpretations of state constitutions as banning such rides and opposition to transportation from Protestant church bodies.

Recent events include these: In Alaska, the State Supreme Court has turned down 2 to 1, a petition of parents of a Catholic school pupil that she be permitted to ride a tax-paid bus which passes their residence. The court said such transportation benefits the nonpublic school, an act the state cannot legally permit.

In Maryanda, voters in Baltimore county probably will be asked in a November referendum to decide the fate of a law liberalizing the existing statute permitting nonpublic school buses. They act the state is not legally permit.

In Ohio, Steubenville City Solicitor LeRoy C. Schell held in an opinion that six children who attend St. Peter's Catholic school must be left behind by the bus they had been riding. He said Ohio law does not authorize such transportation.

12 pupils were forced to stop riding public school buses. Mrs. W. E. Balle, using the family wagon, has children in public schools.

In North Dakota, Atty. Gen. Leslie R. Burgum has repeated his opinion that transportation of nonpublic school pupils does not violate state law — as long as no public money is spent for it.

In Wisconsin, the legislature has passed a law providing that parochial and other private school pupils can be transported on public buses to the public school they are entitled to attend. The children must get from that school to their own by other arrangements. The bill passed after a year-long debate and a heated letter-writing campaign.

Try Homemade Candy For A Special Treat

By FLORENCE DEVANEY

Here are sweets that owe their goodness to Oregon filberts. These golden nuggets add elegant extras to candy, cookies, cakes, pies and a variety of dishes. They're so good just munching "as is" from the shell, or salted and toasted.

Most always, filberts are sold in the shell, but they are easily shelled. One pound yields about 1 1/4 cups nuts. If desired, the tender brown skin of the nutmeat may be removed by this method: Spread nutmeats in a shallow pan, toast in a slow 275-degree oven for about 30 minutes. While warm, rub nuts with a rough cloth or between your hands to remove the thin skin. This dry blanching produces a rich toasted flavor.

Filbert pralinettes are easy to make and so good. Butterscotch pudding is an interesting ingredient in these delicate, lightful candies.

SHERRIED FILBERT PRALINETTES

1 1/4 cups toasted filbert halves
2 packages butterscotch
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons butter

In heavy saucepan combine the butterscotch pudding, sugars, evaporated milk, sherry and butter. Cook over low heat, stirring until sugars are dissolved. Cook slowly until candy reaches soft-ball stage (234 degrees). Add filbert halves until candy just begins to thicken. Drop quickly from tablespoon onto well greased cookie sheet, spreading at once with spoon to form patties about two inches in diameter. Let stand until firm. Makes 36 patties.

FILBERT CREAM CANDY

1 cup chopped, toasted filberts
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Fold in slightly cooled chocolate. Chill till mixture is firm enough to form into balls then roll into finely chopped filberts. Chill until firm. Makes 32 candies. Candy should be stored in refrigerator.

FILBERT SURPRISE BALLS

(No Cooking Candy)

1/2 cup toasted filberts
1/2 cup shelled filberts
3 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1/4 cup chopped nuts
5 tablespoons grated chocolate
1/4 teaspoon salt

When chocolate should stiffen, stir in 1 to 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening till smooth. Whisk cream, add sugar and flavoring. Fold in slightly cooled chocolate. Chill till mixture is firm enough to form into balls then roll into finely chopped filberts. Chill until firm. Makes 32 candies. Candy should be stored in refrigerator.

FILBERT MOCHA CHIFFON PIE

3 squares semi-sweet chocolate, divided
1/2 cup sherry or rum
3/4 cup sugar, divided
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons instant coffee
2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons margarine

Melt chocolate in double boiler or small bowl over hot water. Reserve 1/2 cup filberts (36 whole nuts). Grind or chop the remaining nuts. Combine butter and granulated chocolate; stir in finely chopped nuts and powdered sugar. Blend. Form into balls with a few grains salt in a saucepan. Cook at boiling temperature for 2 minutes. Remove from heat; add 2 cups toasted filberts; stir until syrup looks cloudy. Turn onto waxed paper and spread out in a thin layer. Sprinkle with salt. Will keep frozen for several months. Store in any air-tight container.

SPICED FILBERTS

Combine 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1 tablespoon cinnamon and a few grains salt in a saucepan. Cook at boiling temperature for 2 minutes. Remove from heat; add 2 cups toasted filberts; stir until syrup looks cloudy. Turn onto waxed paper and sugar nuts.

SALTED FILBERTS

For 2 cups shelled filberts use 1/4 cup cooking oil. Heat in skillet. Add filberts and stir until lightly browned. Remove from pan and drain on paper. Sprinkle with salt. Will keep frozen for several months. Store in any air-tight container.
Major Points Of The 'Population' Issue

What's the best way to explain the Catholic position on the 'population problem'? As a Non-Catholic, I recently had my fourth child and in the course of a check-up my Non-Catholic doctor, who has six children of his own, brought up the whole question. I told him that God made the world and certainly knows how to take care of it. His answer was that God also gave us common sense and that we should use it.

By Father JOHN L. THOMAS, S.J.

An adequate reply to your question, Jane would require more space than I am permitted here, so I shall confine my marks to a few major points that may prove helpful. Perhaps more forcefully than any other issue, the current controversy relating to population problems serves to remind American Catholics that they are a religious minority living in a pluralist society. The term pluralism as used in this context means that the American people can no longer agree upon proper moral conduct and practice because they no longer agree on basic moral principles and values. In other words, there is no general consensus on the meaning of man and his relationship to God.

Under these circumstances, there are several general points that must be kept clearly in mind when explaining the Catholic position on contemporary issues. In the first place, an intelligent judgment or "position" concerning the morality of any practice must be based on the logical application of general moral principles to this specific human act. People who base their considerations upon different moral principles will necessarily reach different conclusions.

Must Know Principles, Facts

Hence disagreements concerning the likeness of various forms of population control must logically be based on differences concerning basic moral principles, and since these are based on our conceptions of the nature, origin, and destiny of man, any worthwhile discussion of disagreement in the moral order must ultimately center on this point. Although this seems obvious, it is all too frequently forgotten in current discussions.

Moreover, inasmuch as an acceptable program of action always represents a conclusion based on the prudent application of relevant moral principles to a set of pertinent social facts, we can discuss the Catholic position on the "population explosion" intelligently only if we know both the principles and the facts. In regard to the latter, Catholic thinkers must rely on the work of specialists in all fields. Unfortunately, there remain serious gaps in our knowledge relating to both basic population data and the nature of the relationship between population trends and socio-economic development.

Moreover, we must distinguish between the speculative, overall problem of world population versus world resources on the one hand, and the specific, practical population-resource problems existing in various countries on the other. In general, the experts agree that world resources are adequate to meet foreseeable future population increases, provided we make use of them.

Focus On Undeveloped Countries

Their major concern focuses on the economically lesser developed countries where the introduction of scientifically advanced health measures not directly related to the economy have induced and promise to maintain increases in population that place a serious strain on presently limited available resources.

In regard to such countries, the Catholic position rejects the use of abortion, sterilization or contraceptive techniques for limiting too rapid population growth as clearly contrary to Christian moral principles. When regulation is necessary, they propose marriage laws, and the observance of absolute or periodic continence during the reproductive years. Of course, this cycle, such solutions are not impractical.

Indeed, the patterns of self-discipline, deferred gratification, and personal dedication that these practices necessarily imply must be judged one of all mankind, so that the exploitation of resources and technological advances are to proceed voluntarily.

Above all, Catholic thinkers stress the development of re- sources. Hence they advocate a multifaceted approach, including emphasis on universal education, social and economic reforms, capital investment that will make the best use of the available labor supply, and needed marketing and trade reforms.

They also insist that the goods of the earth have been created for the use of all mankind, so that the resource-adequate nations now have a special obligation to aid the resource-needy regions through financial and technical assistance so that the latter may sufficiently develop themselves.

The above offers only a bare outline of the assumptions, principles, and facts related to the Catholic position on population. However, it is helpful to be able to keep future discussions with your doctor in proper focus.

YOUTH

Is Asking...?

Her Phone Calls Scared Him Away

Dear Doris:

I am 18 and I like a boy the same age. But I made a big mistake this past summer by running after him. I wrote him letters and called him on the phone. When he found out who I was he wanted nothing to do with me. At school he won't even look at me and he told someone he hates me. This bothers me. Do you think he is immature?

Blue

If you want your phone calls to go unanswered, write him letters and call him on the phone. He won't be interested in you. He wants nothing to do with you. At school he won't even look at you. He told someone he hates you.

If you are serious about him, do not run after him. If you want to get his attention, write him letters and call him on the phone. This will show him that you are interested in him.

The annual awarding of Ad Altare Dei medals to qualifying Catholic Boy Scouts in the Miami Diocese has been automatically scheduled for May 20 and 21, St. Mary's Cathedral, Miami.

In an informal preparatory meeting of members of the Diocesan Committee for Catholic Scouting Tuesday, Jan. 17, it was decided to hold the Courts of Review approximately a month before the presentation.

Father Walter J. Dockerrill, diocesan youth director, said there is still time for scouts to complete the necessary qualifications for obtaining the award. Lists of requirements are available in each troop.

Candidates must show good results in knowledge of their faith. They must also make a visit to St. John Vianney Seminary to learn about training for the priesthood.

Scouts visiting the seminary must wear uniforms and contact Father John E. Young, seminary rector, before the visit and guides can be made available.

There must be at least two scouts per visit.

Funds for the awards will be obtained from the same sources.

YOUTH

Is Asking...?

Her Phone Calls Scared Him Away

Dear Doris:

I am 18 and I like a boy the same age. But I made a big mistake this past summer by running after him. I wrote him letters and called him on the phone. When he found out who I was he wanted nothing to do with me. At school he won't even look at me and he told someone he hates me. This bothers me. Do you think he is immature?

Blue

If you want your phone calls to go unanswered, write him letters and call him on the phone. He won't be interested in you. He wants nothing to do with you. At school he won't even look at you. He told someone he hates you.

If you are serious about him, do not run after him. If you want to get his attention, write him letters and call him on the phone. This will show him that you are interested in him.

Christopher Columbus, which scored its first victory of the season last week with a 44-41 decision over South Dade High will try for revenge tonight as the Explorers face Miami Central at the Central gym.

The Rockets handed Columbus a 55-43 defeat in pre-Christmas play, the first game of the year for the Explorers.

Other games tonight have La-Salle High of Miami traveling to West Palm Beach to meet Cardinal Newman High for the second time, Archbishop Curley High stepping out of the Gold Coast Conference to play at Miami Military Academy, St. Patrick's meeting Golder leader Miami Beach, and Mary Immaculate High at Key West plays at Coral Shores in Tavernier.

Columbus scored its first victory on the strength of a fine second half rally that overcame a 25-16 half-time deficit. The Explorers got 15 points from Tim Korth and 14 from Ken Lombardo.

Korth has now boosted his average to 12.5, tops for the Explorers, after a slow start.

Curley lost a tough decision to Hialeah Saturday night before a near-capacity crowd at the 2,000-seat Jackson gym, 50-49.

The Knights built up a nine-point half-time lead with Carroll Williams and Don Raye scoring well. However, Williams, the Knights top scorer, went cold in the second half and the lead dwindled away under the combination of the Hialeah height (6-8 John Barbieri and 6-5 Bob Mahon; and depth.

However, Don Berry's layout put Curley back in the lead, 49-48, with 40 seconds left to go, but a pair of free throws by Pablo Nieves of the Thorobreds 10 seconds later gave Hialeah its victory.

Newman also lost a tough decision, 67-56 to its big, city-rival Forest Hill. Bucky McCallum won a tense duel for the top spot, 34-31, with 20 seconds left to go.

The sudden death of Clarence Leo Cook, the basketball and baseball coach at St. Stephen's School in West Hollywood, will leave a big gap in Broward County's Catholic athletic programs.

In addition to teaching an eighth grade class at St. Stephen's, he helped organize both the Broward County Catholic senior high league and was founder of the Broward CYO basketball league.

Working at the grade school level doesn't bring the publicity or recognition that high school coaching does, but he was al-

Censorship Confused With Restrictions

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

Movie censorship, the big Hollywood story of 1961, still is the hottest subject on the program. Because moral restraint often is confused with legal restriction, those who oppose unbridled "freedom of the screen," on TV, radio and platforms debates, usually seem, by popular appeal, to lose their case.

On the subject of censorship, skilled debaters can bury all logic with the bone of contention.

Something of the kind happened at a symposium on "Sex and Censorship," called by the Professional Theater Center at DesUn's Hollywood studio last week.

Here briefly, are the outstanding viewpoints:

"A free society is a regulated society. You do not cram, but cultivate creativity by accepting liberal values of ethical, social, and aesthetic principles"— Rev. Peter Cikluk, Loyola University.

"The Movie Code is very American, because it is voluntary. It does not tell the film producer he may not cater to mature tastes. It tells him how to do so without violating generally accepted standards of good taste and morality. This often makes a movie more interesting."— Geoffrey Shurlock, Director of the Movie Code.

"Basic moral values and prevailing mores in various countries must be respected by American TV and movie creators and if their intentions are good, their integrity should be equal to the task."— Robert Wood, NBC "standard" department.

"Censors have not reached the level of intelligence, education and sophistication of creative artists who must be respected by people generally. Commercial censorship, as applied to TV, is particularly abhorrent to the artist, although honest intent among creative people can eliminate much censorship. Good taste is the best yardstick."— Jules Bricken, TV producer.

"We must not put further shackles on something as new and different as movies and TV, although the Film Code, which was intended to prevent the butchering and banning of movies years ago, deserves the respect and invites the ingenuity of creative artists."— Michael Gordon, film directorewriter.

"Whether by code or frankly acknowledged censorship, the creative artist is in our free society not to be made to choose between this or that or on grounds of morality. Film and TV producers should respect the artist and take more risks and let the people decide for themselves what they do or do not wish to see on the screen. Anything short of absolute freedom violates the First Amendment."— Stanley Fleischmann, attorney.

Every speaker on the symposium declared his opposition to censorship, but Moderator Anthony Barr recognized a good and easy side to the platform. No one defined the relationship of good moral and aesthetic principles to the theatrical arts. No one explained why "creative artists" who choose the commercialized media of film and TV through which, profitably to play for public patronage, may set to act their own personal tastes and moral convictions above those of the people they seek to serve.

Mr. Fleischmann got the loudest applause. He had told the movie people what most of them wished to hear: that they should please themselves. The applause of millions — or the absence of it — will decide whether Mr. Fleischmann is right or wrong.

Reflecting the increase of controversial matter in the movies themselves, reader comment on "Ten Best" for 1961, runs to extremes, with bouquets out-numberingbrickbats by six to one.

Sculptor Mestrovic Dies;
His Works On View Here

Ivan Mestrovic, international- ly known sculptor whose works may be seen at two locations in the Miami Diocese died at the age of 78 in South Bend, Ind.

Professor of sculpture at the University of Notre Dame, the Croatian-born artist had suffered two strokes.

His works, which have been exhibited internationally for more than 50 years, include the bronze Pieta located on the grounds of Immaculate Conception Academy overlooking Biscayne Bay in Miami's south- east section and a 20-foot long crucifix which hangs above the altar in Corpus Christi Church.

Born in Vrpolje, Croatia, he became an apprentice stone cutter at the age of 15. A year later he began his formal studies at the Vienna Art Academy. He studied public office and once resided from Parliament after he had been elected. When threatened with arrest at the outbreak of World War I, he fled to Italy.

He was imprisoned in Za- grob, Yugoslavia, during World War II but was released as the result of Vati- can intervention. He became an American citizen in 1949 and is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter and one brother.

Two of his outstanding works adorn the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C., a group over the front door of the edifice and a 16-foot statue of Mary, Queen of the Universe.
