DRIVE EXPECTED TO ORBIT BEYOND TARGET

Catholics in the 16 counties of South Florida, the drive gives every promise of going quickly into orbit and soaring beyond its target goal of $1 million.

More than 7,000 volunteer workers will provide the rocket power.

Beginning next Monday, they will start making their door-to-door rounds which within a week will embrace the home of every wage-earner in the Diocese. Of necessity, most of the calls from Monday through Saturday will be during the evening hours.

BISHOP PROPOSED AS MEDIATOR

Aid Offered To End Bus Tieup

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll has offered to serve as mediator, or in any other capacity, in any efforts which might be proposed to bring about a peaceful settlement of Dade County’s bus controversy.

The suggestion that Bishop Carroll “use his good offices” to bring together the Metro Commissioners and officers of the bus drivers’ union in an attempt to end the transportation dispute quickly was made by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

Speaking at a rally sponsored by the drivers at Bayfront Park Tuesday night, Mr. Meany declared:

“...I suggest — I publicly urge one of Miami’s most distinguished citizens, Bishop Coleman Francis Carroll, to use his good offices to bring these parties together and get the talks going again.

“With a man of Bishop Carroll’s reputation and integrity acting as an impartial chairman, the citizens of this county could be sure that all parties would receive fair and honest treatment — and discussions on ending this impasse could go forward.”

He proposed that a group of responsible citizens, including leading members of the clergy in Miami of all faiths, establish themselves as a fact-finding committee to study the arts, and weigh the statements of both sides...

regrettable situation and even-

Mr. Meany contended that the sale of the bus properties by Mr. Pawley to the city was a huge loss and called for a referendum vote on the sale and county operation of the buses.

He proposed a four-point plan to settle the dispute. It would include a return to the status quo before the Metro commission voted to purchase the bus lines: arbitration of all economic issues involved, with binding arbitration; the referendum vote by taxpayers on the purchase and county operation, and solving all of the legal questions through the courts.

Regarding the sale of the bus properties by Mr. Pawley to the city for $7,705,000, Mr. Meany said:

"There are experts, including those the union retained, who say that price is too high — by about $3 million."

"Mr. Pawley is to be paid in bonds — by obligations of the county for 15 years of litigation involved."

He charged also that Mr. Pawley still maintains actual control of the bus properties by the right to hire and fire the trustees, the day-to-day management and the committing en-gineers who will have the right to set fares and decide what routes will be served without any public hearing.

Employes, Mr. Meany de-clared, would have no rights whatever, including the right to protest, adding that "this is the most fantastic, unpre-cedented private utility that I have ever heard of and a bold and cynical plan to give Mr. Pawley all of the gravy and none of the risks."

The union, Mr. Meany said has "been subjected to gross and conscienonsion union for 21 years and that during that time, "despite the protests of gradua-tions, there have been only four serious strikes in the history of this local."

What the union wants, he as-serted, is the right to engage in collective bargaining on wages, hours and conditions of employment with Mr. Pawley, "the owner of these companies, the man who will control the transportation system for 15 years under this proposed scheme."

Mr. Pawley and the county government, he insisted, "are out to destroy this union."

"These are the facts," he said, "which led the union to strike three some weeks ago."

"This case has been in the courts for over two months — despite what you have read in the newspapers — that these weeks have the right to strike against Mr. Pawley as they have done. Judge Eaton has ruled that the en-terprise can engage in collectiv-ebargaining with this union because substantial control is retained by Pawley. The judge said Mr. Pawley retains substantial operating and financial control. If he doesn't, he is a fool and Mr. Pawley is so fool, the judge added."

The National Labor Relations Board is considering the union's charges of unfair labor prac-tices against the company, the county and the Transit Author-ity. Mr. Meany continued and stated:

"It must be clear to you that this is a complicated, complex legal situation. There will be de-lays while this matter is litiga-tion. I think anyone who knows anything about the courts will admit that there is at least a couple of years of litigation in-volved here."

"Certainly no one can wait for this seemingly endless legal tangle to be unwound. Freedom fore that day is reached."

St. John's U. Plans $10 Million Expansion

JAMAICA, N.Y. (NC) — St. John's University will construct within the next two years three new buildings and an athletic stadium at a cost of 10 million dollars.

Father Edward J. Burke, C.M., president, said the Vincentian school is now largest Catholic university in the Middle Atlantic States and the second largest in the nation, with almost 11,000 students. The University of Detroit is the largest, with about 13,000.

Bishop Calls For Prayers For Diocesan Vocations

To the Priests, Religious and Faithful:

As you know from past years, the observance of March as Vocation Month has profound significance in the Diocese of Miami. All of our residents are aware that the increase in our Catholic population has continued to be so unusual that our need for priests and sisters remains a major problem.

Your prayers and sacrifices on behalf of vocations these past few years have obviously borne fruit. And it is with joy that I tell you we are about to reach two milestones in our vocation crusade - St. John Vianney Minor Seminary will graduate its first class in June; and St. Vincent Major Seminary will open its door to its first class in September.

Thus you can see that a tradition of vocations is slowly being established and for this we have reason to be deeply grateful to God. Moreover we are confident that on March 17 your prayers will bring it about that a larger group than before of our young men will take the entrance examination for the minor seminary.

Let the evidence of God's goodness to us serve as a stimulus this Vocation Month. May it encourage thousands of our lay people to attend daily Mass and receive Holy Communion for the cause of vocations during March. Let everyone say fervently the prayer for vocations to be recited after every Mass during the month. Most especially do I urge parents to recite together with our children every day and to say these Hail Marys with them that God may honor them with the highest honor of calling a son or daughter to the service of Christ.

Your bishop and priests will be united with you in earnest prayer this month, as we seek Divine assistance in solving our vocation problem.

Imparting to you my paternal blessing, I remain Devotedly Yours in Christ and St. Anastasia High School, Fort Pierce.

Southwest Deanery — St. Francis Xavier School, Fort Myers.

Key West Area — Mary Immaculate School, Key West.

Broward Deanery — St. Thomas Aquinas High School, Fort Lauderdale.

North Dade and South Dade Deaneries — Archbishop Carroll High School, Miami.

Only eighth and ninth grade students are eligible to take this written examination. Older applicants will be interviewed separately. All boys who are interested have been urged to go immediately with their parents to see their pastor and to have the preliminary form filled out.

First opened in September, 1959, the Diocesan minor seminary's phenomenal growth has been called "the miracle of St. John Vianney." The initial enrollment of 60 young men has increased to 170 at the present time. To take care of the expanding student body, an addition was built to the original building in 1960 and a separate college building in 1961, along with a new refectory and science building and a faculty residence.

In order to provide accommodations for the new students this year, still another dormitory with a large chapel will be constructed and opened by next September. Funds for this further expansion will be provided by the Diocesan Development Fund Campaign which got formally under way next week.

To help in the education of all these seminarians, the first event in this year's Vocation Month observance will be the Burse Dinner of the Sierra Club of Miami to be held at Key Biscayne Hotel on Sunday, March 4.

On Monday, March 5, the Broward County Serra Club, the third to be chartered in the Diocese, will have a dinner at which the formal charter from Serra International will be presented.

The annual Serra Essay Contest, sponsored by all four Serra Clubs of the Diocese — Miami, Palm Beach, Broward and Indian River — will be conducted in all Diocesan schools during March, with 12 prizes to be awarded.

Also during the month, printed material, prayer cards for students and families as well as posters will be distributed in all Diocesan schools. The clubs also will continue to show films to classes of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine and conduct various other activities.

Rome Students Start Course In Interreligious Relations

ROME (NC) — Thirty students have begun a course in interreligious and interfaith relations at Pro Deo University here under joint Catholic and Jewish auspices.

The Chair of Intergroup Relations was founded as a part of the Catholic-sponsored university's Institute of Sociology with a $30,000 endowment made by the American Jewish Committee.

The idea for the course grew out of an audience which university officials arranged in 1967 for the American Jewish Committee with Pope Pius XII. It was referred to the American Council for International Promotion of Democracy under God, an international movement of which Pro Deo University is a part. The idea was approved and became a reality in January of this year with the American Jewish Committee endowment.

Cardinal Criticizes Italian Efforts To Seek Leftist Aid

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, Secretary of the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office, has sharply criticized current efforts to form an Italian government with the support of extremist leftists.

The Cardinal's statement, published by the ASSI News Agency, broke the silence of the Italian Hierarchy had observed regarding the so-called "opening to the left." The decision to seek the "opening" was made at the close of the national convention of the Catholic-oriented Christian Democratic party, which has governed Italy alone or in coalition since 1948.

The following day, Premier Amintore Fanfani resigned and announced he would seek to form a coalition government with the small Social Democratic and Republican parties that would have the support in Parliament of the leftist Socialist party, a former ally of the Communist party.

Cardinal Ottaviani said:

"The teaching of the Church is fundamental and consistent. It rejects every kind of demagoguical solution to social questions, and therefore also rejects any form of Marxism and materialism degrading to the human person and human dignity. The defense of Christian values is fundamental and indispensable to all Catholics who are engaged in this work, particularly when they are figures of Catholic life."

"Today, for example, improvist Christians are shamefully betraying, among other things, freedom of education (in Italy). They do this for their own interests and personal gain. But the Church will not passively bear this new wave of materialism which is being led against Italy. It is the — in a right and duty to prevent it."

Rome newspapers interpret the statement as being aimed primarily at Fanfani for his negotiations for Socialist party support. Fanfani announced that agreement had been reached on the formation of a new cabinet and its policy. He said:

"I believe that the new government may be given the support of the socialists."

Fanfani's statement has been interpreted as indicating that the question of state aid to private schools, which are mainly Catholic schools in Italy, will not be included in the education plan before Parliament.
Get Out Of Birch Society, Priest's Advice To Catholics

CLEVELAND (NC) — Catholics who belong to the John Birch Society should get out of it and start reading Pope John XXIII’s encyclical Mater et Magistra instead of the Birch “Blue Book.”

This advice was offered by Msgr. Francis W. Carney, president of the National Catholic paralysis Commission, who said the Birch Society, by its principles and practices, “is in open opposition to Catholic social philosophy.”

Msgr. Carney, director of the Institute of Social Education at St. John College here, said: "The philosophy of government which the society espouses, viewing government as a necessary evil, is wholly antagonistic to Catholic social philosophy.

"In principle, Mr. Robert Welch would find himself in conflict with every major recommendation of Pope John XXIII in Mater et Magistra."

Msgr. Carney made his denunciation of the controversial right-wing group after hearing Mr. Welch said at the meeting that he “guessed” that Catholics make up 40 percent of the society’s membership.

"Msgr. Carney said the estimate is indicative of "an appalling ignorance of many Catholics of the social teaching of the Catholic Church."

He said that "in practice, the recommendations and programs of the society for the defeat of communism are inconsistent with the recommendations of the social encyclicals of the popes since 1891."

Msgr. Carney said of Welch: "His loose use of words, his general indictments of persons and organizations, his immoderate and irresponsible language do not equip him to lead a 20th-century crusade against communism."

"What is not kind is not Christian," Msgr. Carney said, "The John Birch Society is not kind."

Msgr. Carney urged that Catholic parish groups be conspicuous in open opposition to the Birch Society.

"He pointed out that Pope John twice has appealed for more study clubs devoted to the study of the encyclical rather than with individuals who are promoting the ideas and aims of the John Birch Society."

Welfare Proposals Feared Perils To Private Charities

WASHINGTON (NC) — A spokesman for the U.S. Catholic Church's welfare programs says he is worried that the future of private charity is being limited unduly by welfare proposals before Congress.

In the rush to expand government welfare operations, according to Msgr. Raymond J. Gallagher, the promoters of public welfare legislation risk the very existence of private programs of assistance.

The secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities made these comments in an interview after his testimony before a House Committee that some of the Kennedy administration's public welfare proposals (H.R. 5031) prompt "serious questions."

As NCCC secretary, the Cleveland priest heads an office which coordinates activities of 375 Catholic Charities operations in 45 states and the District of Columbia.

He does not think the last page in the history of America's private agencies will be written tomorrow, but he believes that it may ultimately be produced if two current trends gain strength.

One trend is toward more government help including Federal funds to assist only public welfare agencies. The other is pressure on public operations to expand.

The greatest worry, he said, is expansion of the work of public relief — an area traditionally the responsibility of church-related and other private agencies.

What may lie behind it, he suggested, is a belief that public welfare is superior to private programs.

"This is basically incorrect," he said, "The only ingredient in which there is any superiority is the availability of money."
Parents Are Key To Success In Crusade For Vocations

A great many of the laity in our Diocese no longer think of Vocation Month as a time when priests and sisters will make more intensive effort to interest young people to dedicate themselves to the service of Christ. Rather they regard Vocation Month now as a time when mothers and fathers unite with children and all the other laity in the diocese, especially the sick and handicapped, in offering more fervent prayer and more generous sacrifice to God that He will raise many of our youth to the dignity of priests and religious.

Gradually the view that the work of recruiting our future priests and sisters is solely the responsibility of those already in the vineyard is changing. It has been planned to insure a greater chance of expansion by assuming some of the responsibility.

This procedure has been planned to insure greater chance of expansion by assuming some of the responsibility.

Parish Group Donations

Within the past week, a $1,000 check was presented to the Burse Fund by the Fort Lauderdale Parochial Council of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. In addition, the Catholic Women's Club of St. Patrick's Church, Fort Lauderdale contributed $25. Other gifts included $10 from Miss Mary Adams for the St. Peter and Paul parish Burse and another $10 from an anonymous donor.

A Burse is a sum of money, $25,000, which is invested so that the annual income will help to provide for the training expenses of a seminarion each year. A Burse is made up of large and small donations, from $1 up to many thousands of dollars. Once a particular candidate is ordained, the Burse income is applied to another seminarion until ultimately many priests have been helped to their ordination day by the generosity of the Catholic laity.

Pope Pius XII has stated that whatever help each of us can give to the priestly life is an assistance to the church. He has added that whoever helps even one candidate is or- dained should be thanked for their sacrifice in gratitude for the many blessings you have received from God through the seminarians at the seminary program of the Diocese of Miami.

The DDF Needs You

As announced in The Voice this week, the contact of homes for the Diocesan Development Fund campaign will begin on Monday, February 26 and will continue through the following Sunday. This procedure has been planned to ensure greater chance of reaching the maximum number of people when they are at home.

The response of thousands of volunteers for the important task of presenting the cause of the campaign in the homes has been very satisfying. However, an operation of this nature upon which we cannot possibly exaggerate is how much the faithful feel about the Church. It is in the life period of time, needs a considerable body of workers.

The success of many noteworthy undertakings like the DDF, depends on the individual, even though he may believe his action is not of such importance as that of many such willing, dedicated individuals that spells success.

This is a reminder, then, to thousands of others in the Diocese that you are needed to help out. Sign up with your priests and religious and in out-of-the-way places in the United States, many who have died a heroic death, including sons and daughters for the Church.

TRUTH OF THE MATTER

And what wonderful promises God has made to us.

When the Church is under attack, as in Cuba, when our faith might waver, we remember... and we can be sure that the Church will remain in the world until its end, that not even the forces of hell could conquer it. It has been proving that for two thousand years...

What a wonderful consolation this is. It means that until the world's end, the great truths men deny will always be attainable, mankind will have the means of finding God.

Christ promised that He would gift Himself to us daily in Holy Communion — His own body and blood. This is why the least doubt we can see at the altar rail what appears to be bread and firmly believe it to be the living Christ.

He promised we would not be tempted beyond our strength. What a help this is to everyone. It means we are assured in the weariness and bitterness of life. God's grace is always with us.

I hope to obtain the pardon of my sins... Once we are convinced of God's goodness and renew our faith in His promises, we are willing to be honest about our sins. It is so easy today to deny sin, to attempt to decide what is right and wrong, without checking one's view against the standard Christ insists on.

Therefore we trust God to give us the grace to recognize sin in ourselves and to call sin sin and not to excuse it away. We trust God to give us the grace to hate sin as the only enemy of our hearts and His love. Then we have good reason to look for pardon of sins.

... the help of Thy grace... This is the great hope of the present hour — the assurance, the consoling assurance of God's grace. After all Christ's enemy rings in our ears...

"Without Me, you can do nothing..."

But armed with the virtue of hope and confidence, St. Paul was bold enough to turn the thought around when he insist...

"I can do all things in Him that supports me." There is the secret of grace — it gives the ability to do all things.

This is the grace. Here is the goal. This is what we are living for — this is the great help.

This is the light that draws us through all the trials and unhappy events of life.

'Guideposts' For Wage-Price Behavior

By Mgr. GEORGE G. HIGGINS

The report can be secured from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C., at a cost of $1.25 per copy.

Students of industrial relations will be particularly interested in reading section of the report in which the Council outlines certain "impacts" for non-inflationary wage and price behavior.

The Council starts from the premise that labor and management take account of the national interest in determining wage and price decisions.

These experts in the field of labor-management relations are of the opinion that the American economy is prosperous and that labor and management are working together.

Others maintain that while labor and management should all factors, their wage and price decisions to the reduction of inflation by the government is wasting its time in calling upon them to do so.

In view of these misgivings about the usefulness of the Council's approach to the problem of inflation, it is all the more significant that the Communications Workers of America recently held a conference with Waller W. Heflin, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, to discuss the Administration's wage-price guidelines in the light of conditions in their own industry.

After their unprecedented session ended, CWA president Joseph Beirne and other union officials said that they were impressed by Mr. Heflin's presentation and agreed that they would give the Administration's wage-price guidelines a fair hearing.

Mr. Beirne and his associates in the top leadership of CWA are not going to be congratulated very sincerely on their constructive and statesmanlike approach to collective bargaining. Their willingness to take a more active role in the economy, collective bargaining in advance of their negotiations, is more refreshing.

Let us hope that other unions and employers will profit by their example.

problems that you did not immediately and generously respond to my appeal. For this I thank you.

'Each year brings with it new and pressing needs. The obligation to provide for the proper education of the young people of today, preparing them as the future citizens of tomorrow, is a challenge we cannot refuse.

MAJOR GOALS

Again this year I turn to you with confidence that, as in the past, you will provide for the educational needs of the Catholic youth of this Diocese.

"I urge you to give careful — and prayerful — consideration to this appeal, knowing that you will be as generous as your means will allow.

"I assure you that God will bless you for your sacrifice."

In order to keep pace with the ever increasing demand for Catholic educational facilities in the Diocese, three major goals have been declared "must" for this year's campaign. They are:

- Further expansion of St. John Vianney Minor Seminary to provide a new dormitory and increased chapel facilities for the constantly growing number of young men offering to give their lives to serve as priests in the Diocese of Miami.
- A new high school at Port Myers, which will be the first Catholic high school on the west coast of South Florida.
- Additional high school facilities for girls at Monsignor DeSoto High School in North Dade County, making it co-institutional with the facilities provided there last year for boys only.

In addition, campaign workers expect that the drive will exceed its million dollar goal and make possible this further expansion:

- Additions to both boys' and girls' facilities at Cardinal Gibbons High School, in West Palm Beach.
- Additions to LaSalle High School for boys in South Miami.
- Additions to Immaculata High School for girls, Miami.
- Additions to Notre Dame High School for girls, Miami.

The estimated cost of the entire program is a million and a half dollars.

"The 1962 Development Fund Campaign will be the most successful and the most fruitful ever conducted by the Diocese of Miami."

That is the prediction of Father Lamar J. Genovar, campaign moderator and the Bishop's representative.

"This will be the third Development drive, and never before have I noticed such eagerness and enthusiasm on the part of both the clergy and laity alike. It is apparent in every section of the Diocese, and rightly so, since the campaign will prove to benefit every section, to every parish."

GREATEST NEED

"In the first two campaigns it was necessary to provide urgent necessities for the aged, for dependent children, for all the people in the way of retreat houses and other facilities.

"The greatest need, of course, was for the construction of the St. John Vianney Minor Seminary. Now, in this third campaign, still another addition of a dormitory and larger chapel are still the greatest need. The blessing of God has been upon the Diocese in the granting of more and more vocations each year as ‘the miracles of St. John Vianney’ continue.

"This year: we must start moving ahead in providing more high school facilities for our young people. At the present time, only a small percentage of Catholic grade school graduates can be accepted in our Catholic high schools. We have done much in the past, but we cannot, we dare not relax in our efforts. With the construction of new schools and additions to those already existing, we will have taken another giant step forward in reaching our ultimate goal — better and greater educational opportunities for all our children.”

Three Top Winners Named
In DDF Poster Contest

The 1962 Diocesan Development Fund Campaign has an official poster, but its selection required intensive work and a great amount of serious study on the part of the judges. The many hundreds of posters drawn by pupils of the eighth to 12th grades revealed much talent and considerable originality.

The three prize winners were all eighth-graders. They are:

First place — Daniel Murphy, of St. Theresa School, Coral Gables. He is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, a registered nurse, of St. Theresa School, Coral Gables.

Second place — Thomas Korenes, of Corpus Christi School, Miami. He is the son of Mrs. Barbara Korenes, of 230 West 6th Place, Hialeah. His poster's theme is "Help Your Diocese.

Spokesman Opposes Day Care Centers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities has criticized "un-American" plans to use Federal funds to help states set up day care centers for children of working mothers.

Maggie Raymond J. Gallagher, testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee, provided the first criticism of the day care proposal during the public hearings.

"We believe it is un-American to place large numbers of children under government care in order to free so many mothers of young children to enter the labor market when there are so many able-bodied fa-

Hialeah Junior CYO Plans Hayride, Dance

"- a hayride and dance will be sponsored by the Immaculate Conception parish Junior CYO Saturday, Feb. 24 at the Double H Ranch. A bus will leave the school grounds at 6:15 p.m. and return to the ranch at 11 p.m. Members of all CYO groups throughout the Diocese are invited to attend and may obtain free transportation by calling Annette Rikimos at 801-1716.
An estimated 235 persons attended the four classes in Doctrine and Methods which began in Dade and Broward Counties this week as part of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program.

The Doctrine courses are a preparation necessary for all who intend to become CCD teachers. It was decided that some could transfer into the Methods class as they have had enough Doctrine to justify such a move.

Students must attend at least 76 of the 100 hours for each course to get a certificate of completion. The certificate will not be given, even if the student passes the test, unless he has completed the necessary hours.

Because of this, anyone who wishes to start the courses must do so next week and attend all future classes to become certified.

Dade County courses are held Monday nights at Holy Family School, Wednesday nights at Immaculate Conception parish and Thursday nights at St. Brendan parish. Classes are also held Tuesday nights at St. Thomas Aquinas High School, Fort Lauderdale.

All classes begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at 9:30 p.m. The classes are staggered so a class missed in one location can be made up in another. Classes in Doctrine and Methods are taught at the same locations concurrently.

ARCHBISHOP O'BRIEN, MISSION BUILDER, DIES

Archbishop William D. O'Brien, president of the Catholic Church Extension Society of America which has aided in the erection of three mission chapels in the Diocese of Miami, is dead at the age of 83.

A frequent visitor to South Florida, the Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago who devoted 35 years of his life to the work for the home missions of the United States died in Little Company of Mary Hospital, San Pierre, Ind., where he had been a patient for some weeks.

The Archbishop, who observed his golden jubilee in the priesthood in 1953 and who referred to himself as a "teenage octogenarian," was born in Chicago in 1878. He was baptized in the Cathedral of the Holy Name where later he was confirmed, ordained, and then consecrated a bishop.

Salute Pastoral Mass of Requiem will be sung Saturday in the Cathedral by Albert Cardinal Meyer.

In 1907 Archbishop O'Brien began his long period of service for the Catholic Church Extension Society which assists rural and mission areas in the United States and its possessions with the building of churches, chapels, schools, convents and other institutions. As president of the society he was in charge of administering an annual budget of some $2 million for this work and over the years traveled extensively for dedication of mission institutions.

Alone and vigorous as he neared his 82nd birthday in February, 1950, Archbishop O'Brien accompanied Bishop Coleman F. Carroll on an airplane trip to Okeechobee to inspect the site of the new completed Sacred Heart Church, one of the three missions for which the Society granted the sum of $10,000.

His 83rd birthday was observed by the late Archbishop William D. O'Brien last year in Chicago. He is shown opening a few of the many congratulatory messages sent to him on that occasion.

St. Ann Mission in Naranja located in South Dade County and St. William Mission of Sebastian, 17 miles north of Vero Beach were subsequently dedicated by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll.

"The Life of the Blessed Virgin in Pictures," written by the Archbishop in 1890 won for him membership in the Arcadi, a Roman society for such books.

He also served as editor-in-chief of Extension Magazine for many years and in that capacity began the foundation of a million trust fund for the home missions. He ordained more than 400 priests after his elevation to the episcopate in 1934 and as Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago had served under three Archbishops of Chicago — the late George Cardinal Mundelein, the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch and Albert Cardinal Meyer.

A Requiem Mass was offered in St. Paul Church, Lexington, Ky., by Bishop Richard Ackerman.

He is survived by a brother, J. C. McCarty and a sister, Mrs. Olin Gentry, both of Lexington.
Pope Names Ten Cardinals For Record Of 87

Cardinal Muench Dies In Rome

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Cardinal Muench died in Rome at 72, a victim of Parkinson's disease, a progressive paralysis characterized by a shaking palsy, beginning to show in his last years. As the Pope heard of his condition, he sent the cardinal a message assuring him of his blessing and prayers. Pope John visited the cardinal at the hospital and again sent his blessing on the morning of the cardinal's death, caused by a circulatory cardiac collapse.

Cardinal Muench was the third cardinal to die in 1969, bringing membership in the Sacred Congregation of Cardinals to a total of 77. He was named cardinal by Pope Pius XII in 1956 and by Pope John XXIII, and held the position of Prosecretary of the Sacred Congregation of Cardinals.

Pope John Marks Approach Of Second Vatican Council

VATICAN CITY — Pope John XXIII made his annual audience with Rome's lutenist preachers this year a special occasion to mark the approach of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council which will open Oct. 11.

Normally, the Pope receives the preachers in one of the Vatican's basilicas or speaks to them on the sermons they will deliver during Lent. This year, however, the audience was held in St. Peter's basilica and was attended by many persons connected with the council in addition to the preachers. Present were all members and consultants of the council's Central Preparatory Commission, who had begun their third session of meetings, as well as all members of the Vatican Curia, the Vatican administrative staff.

The gathering of so large a number of high Church officials from Rome and many parts of the world was a symbol of the coming council.

Pope John announced the appointment of 25 new cardinals, including two Americans, in November, 1958, he raised the total membership of the Sacred College to 75. It was the first time in nearly 400 years it had been this high. The number of cardinals reached 76 in the time of Pope Gregory XIII (1572-1585), but his edict to this effect remained in force until 1667.

In naming Archbishop Antonietti, Apostolic Nuncio to Portugal, and Archbishop Panico, Apostolic Nuncio to Belgium, the Pope provided for the representation of the Portuguese and Belgian languages.

The number of cardinals from eight countries, including three Italians and seven others.

Thirty-five years ago, when he was a young priest in Milwaukee, Cardinal Muench became a founder of the Apostolate of Suffering, an association whose goal is to promote understanding of the moral value of suffering, and to aid the sick, the invalid and the shut-in to consecrate their suffering to God. He remained spiritual director of the Apostolate of Suffering throughout the years.

A stocky man whose lifelong hobbies were hunting and fishing, Cardinal Muench himself was able to join actively as well. Making the pilgrimage of Suffering in his last years, Parkinson's disease, a progressive paralysis characterized by a shaking palsy, began to show in his last years, died in Rome on Feb. 5. In his last months, Cardinal Muench was more and more confined to the Salvator Mundi Hospital.

The death of the three Princes of the Church leaves the college of Cardinals with a total of 77 members, 22 Italians and 50 non-Italians, including five Americans. Eight cardinals have died since the last consistory to name cardinals in January, 1961.

However, the membership of the College was raised to 87 later in the week, with the naming of 10 new Cardinals by His Holiness Pope John XXIII, including three Italians and seven others.

Two Latin Americans have been named, one from Peru — bringing the number of Princes of the Church are from Latin America — Chile and Peru — bringing the number of cardinals from eight countries, including three Italians and seven others.

The Pope announced that any of the 10 newly named cardinals are among the three named "in pete," that means that he raised three clerics to the rank of cardinal, but was reserving their names for publication at a later date. It has not been announced that any of the 10 newly named cardinals are among the three named "in pete" in 1969.

Of the 92 cardinals now naming, a majority of 60 have been non-Italians, including the first cardinals in Mexico, Venezuela, Brazil, Canada, Portugal, the Philippines and Tanganyika. Cardinal Rugambwa, the first cardinal in Tanganyika, was named to the Sacred College.

Laurean Cardinal Rugambwa, Archbishop of Bukavu — the first Negro Prince of the Church.

Including the cardinals-designate, there are now members from 25 countries in the Sacred College: Italy, 38; France, 6; Spain, 6; U. S. 5; Germany and Brazil, 3. There are two each from Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, Portugal and Belgium.

The following 22 countries have one each: Armenia, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Chile, China, Colombia, Denmark, Ecuador, Egypt, France, Hungary, Indonesia, Japan, Lebanon, Mexico, the Netherlands, Peru, Philippines, Singapore, Switzerland, Tanganyika, Uruguay and Venezuela.

ONLY AMERICAN to serve in the Roman Curia, Abellion Cardinal Muench died in Rome at 72, a victim of Parkinson's Disease. He is shown here greeting Pope John XXIII following Holy Father's Christmas Message of 1960.

Pope John XXIII made his annual audience with Rome's lutenist preachers this year a special occasion to mark the approach of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council which will open Oct. 11.

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Cardinals, other high Church officials, diplomats and lay dignitaries attended the Requiem Mass offered in St. Peter's basilica for Abellion Cardinal Muench, first U. S. Prince of the Church to serve actively on the Vatican administrative stuff.

The Milwaukee-born Cardinal died three days before his 3rd birthday at Salvator Mundi Hospital in Rome, where he had lived since his elevation to the College of Cardinals in December, 1959.

The Mass was celebrated by Carlo Cardinal Candoni, Secretary of the Sacred Congregation of Propagation of the Faith — but immediately after the Requiem Mass, Cardinal Muench's body was flown to Farno, N.D., where he was buried following funeral services in St. Mary's cathedral.

A Pontifical Requiem Mass was also offered in Milwaukee, on Wednesday, Archbishop William E. Cousins was the celebrant of this Mass in St. John's Cathedral, where the body had lain in state on the previous day.

On Thursday the body was in state in the Fargo cathedral.

The Fanga Pontifical Requiem Mass on Friday was offered by Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis, with Archbishop Carl J. Alter of Cincinnati delivering the sermons.

While these at the dying Cardinal's bedside were praying a final Rosary, a telephone call was received from the Vatican to say that Pope John was also reciting the Rosary for him.

At his bedside were Cardinal Muench's three sisters — Teresa Muench, Mrs. Maria Herrick and Mrs. Dorothy Ort, all of Milwaukee — and his secretary, Father Raymond Lessard of the Fanga diocese, who later accompanied the Cardinal's body back to the States.

Cardinal Muench was a victim of Parkinson's disease, a nervous disorder, for several years. Early in February he suffered complications and took a turn for the worse. As soon as the Pope heard of his condition, he sent the Cardinal a message assuring him of his blessing and prayers. Pope John visited the Cardinal at the hospital and again sent his blessing on the morning of the Cardinal's death, caused by a circulatory cardiac collapse.

The Cathedral of Notre Dame (Reims, France)

This cathedral has the three-fold distinction of being the metropolitan church of France, the place of coronation of its kings, and one of the finest specimens of Gothic architecture in the world.

The present edifice was designed in the 13th century, but its foundations date back to the 4th century. In the cathedrals which have succeeded each upon this site nearly all the kings of France have been consecrated, from the time of Clovis in the 6th century. The baptismal font of Clovis, the first Christian king, is still preserved in this edifice.

The two towers crowning the front, each nearly 300 feet high, are models of grace. The grand entrance of the church is universally conceded to be the finest in the world. It is composed of 3 loby-arched portals, each at least 100 feet high, and so deep and spacious that hundreds of people might easily find refuge within them without entering the cathedral.

More than 4,000 figures are sculpted upon the exterior of this cathedral, and many hundreds of these, some of them of colossal size, adorn the principal portals. Above the porch is a magnificent rose window, one of the finest in the world. The rest of the cathedral, both within and without, is worthy of this magnificent front.

Besides the simple fact of its association with royal coronations, this cathedral has many interesting historical reminiscences, such as being the scene of the crowning triumph of the venerable St. Joan of Arc.

Jean Langlais, famous blind French organist, will be heard in concert at St. Mary Cathedral at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 26.

No in The U.S. for his fifth American tour, the artist's Miami appearance is sponsored by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll.

Instructor in organ, composition and counterpoint at the National Institute of Young Blind where he also conducts and directs the chorus, Langlais is a native of Brittany and attended the Paris Conservatory of Music where he worked with Marcel Dupre and studied with Paul Dukas.

His program will include Offertoire Sur Les Grands Jeux by J. F. Dandrieu; Fantaisie in C Major by Cesar Franck; the Westminster Carillon, Louis Vierne; and Sarabandes by Seth Bingham.

Four of the artist's compositions will be heard. They are Chant Hercule, Miniature, At Buffalo Bill's Grave (from American Suite), and Te Deum.

Recognized today as one of the leading composers for the organ, Langlais' many works have been published in France and England. His "American Suite" composed almost entirely during his stay in the United States recalls his personal impressions of this country.

The Cambridge Society has released a recording of Langlais' "Messe Solennelle," or Mass in Ancient Style, together with a work played by Theodore Marlier, "Te Deum" has been recorded four times as has his "Incantation pour un Jeur Saint."

Cairo Will Be First Stop
For 21-Day Diocesan Tour

(This is the first in a series of articles describing the localities to be visited during the 21-day diocesan pilgrimage to Europe and the Holy Land, scheduled to leave New York July 29).

Diocesan pilgrims will travel from New York July 29 and arrive July 30 in the great city of Africa, historically rich Cairo, Egypt.

The visitor will soon find himself in an area that will bring him back to the times of the Pharaohs and the Crusades which were repelled in the 12th century.

Egyptian, and American Universities.

When the pilgrims venture into the surrounding desert, they will leave the new completely behind and go into a world preserved as it was at the time the Delta where traffic from east to west and from north to south converge.

The trip will have little chance of being rained out.

The harvest of the individual travelers for sightseeing and shopping.

Tour to the past will finish in time to return to the hotel in Cairo and dinner. On Aug. 1, the trip will again get under way with a flight to Beirut, Lebanon and another two days of sightseeing.

After Lebanon, pilgrims will go to Damascus, Jerusalem, Tiberias, Galilee, Tel Aviv, Rome, Lourdes and Paris, returning to New York Aug. 18.

The free afternoon, however, will provide the visitors with an average rainfall of slightly more than one inch. No other major city in the world is located in such an arid region. It is on the bank of the Nile River at the head of the Delta that traffic from east to west and from north to south converges.

Weather in Cairo is subtropical and has numerous modern buildings that make it look like any major city in the world. However, the visitor will soon find himself in an area that will bring him back to the times of the Pharaohs and the Crusades which were repelled in the 12th century.

Cairo offers dramatic contrasts between the old and the new. The city is cosmopolitan and has numerous modern buildings that make it look like any major city in the world. However, the visitor will soon find himself in an area that will bring him back to the times of the Pharaohs and the Crusades which were repelled in the 12th century.

TRIP TO DESERT

Organized tours, on the second day in Cairo, will be conducted to the Egyptian Museum in the city and to the pyramids, the Great Sphinx and the Granite Temple in the arid land near the city.

The free afternoon, however, will provide the visitors with an average rainfall of slightly more than one inch. No other major city in the world is located in such an arid region. 'In-Laws Have Taken Over My Home'

By FATHER JOHN L. THOMAS S.J.

I'm seriously thinking of divorce. In 18 years of marriage we have lived alone only two years. At first we lived with Mrs. M. and Mrs. E. B. in Okeechobee, Florida, and with Mrs. M. again, as she has so successfully in the past. Hence you should think over the past arguments and methods she has used and prepare yourself for them. In reality this means that you will succeed only if you have the strong, inner conviction that what you demand is just as reasonable.

Be prepared for a little rough going. This is certainly better than the situation you are in now. It is even more happy to discover that she married a man with a mind of his own.

Fether Thomas will be unable to answer personal letters.

Featured At Dadecompare

Twelve girl scouts from St. Brendan parish were among 1,200 who attended a Dadecounty camporee last weekend but the girls from St. Brendan had a good portion of Miami TV viewers watching their activities.

The girls arrived at the campsite the same time on Friday afternoon as a local TV cameraman and he spent more than an hour photographing them as they prepared their tent for the weekend. They appeared on a newscast Friday night.

There are 17 girls in the troop which is sponsored by St. Brendan Women’s Club. Accompanying them at the campsite was Mrs. Claire Gogel, whose daughter Barbara is a member of the troop. The parish has more than 100 girls in its various Brownie and Intermediate groups.

Father Laurence Conway of St. Brendan Church offered Mass on the camp grounds at Tropical Park Sunday morning.

The campsite was held in conjunction with the golden anniversary of the girl scouts and was highlighted by a special ceremony Saturday night which drew more than 8,000 people to the camp.

Girls engaged in various demonstrations ranging from signal gunning and tent raising to cooking.

Cinerama Will Take A Dramatic Stride

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

They put me in the doghouse for saying that Cinerama had reached a crisis. In October 1958, hailing “South Sea Adventure” as another excellent Cinerama travelog, I asked when they were going to give up spectacular roller-coaster rides and get back to business for a better at serious drama.

Cinerama, which had started in New York, Sept. 30, 1952 and its films dressed as a scene-thrill proposition, must either strike out for dramatic maturity or die. I said, Cinerama officials, then in Oyster Bay, New York, published.

They've since converted the old Los Angeles Forum into a $5,000,000 electronic movie studio and made an initial production deal with MGM.

Although they still are making like spectaculars, MGM and Cinerama have brought big enough experiments to within a few months of public unveiling. In May 1958 MGM started principal filming, in Cinerama, “How the West Was Won.” This describes the dramatic Decennial of three generations of American pioneers and spans the country from the Erie Canal to the Golden Gate. James Stewart, Gregory Peck, John Wayne, Richard Widmark, Carroll Baker, Hope Lange, Debbie Reynolds, George Peppard, Robert Preston, Walter Reade, Henry Fonda and a dozen other name celebrities are in.

The film may not be ready by July 4th, the present target date, but by fall it should be playing 100 theaters, then due to own Cinerama product.

DRAMA BEFORE DIDOES

George Pal also is filming a Cinerama version of “The Wonderful Wizard of the Brothers Grimm,” in which three of the famous fairy tales are framed in a life story of Wilhelm and Jacob Grimm. Laurence Harvey, Claire Bloom, Russ Tamblyn, Yvonne Furneaux, Oscar Homolka, Karl Boehm and Walter Slezak are among the top players, with little Tammy Marling and Brian Russell as the Grim children.

In “The Cobbler and the Legend Of Decency Condemns 2 Movies

NEW YORK (NC) — The National Legion of Decency announced it has evaluated two movies in its Class C (condemned) rating — “During One Night,” a British m t v i e distributed by Astor, and “Temptation,” a French Italian picture distributed by Sullivan.

The objection posted against “During One Night” said: “The theme of this film is completely immoral, and the treatment seriously violates the traditional and Judeo-Christian standard of decency.

The legion objected to “Temptation” because: "Unrelieved concentration upon grossly indecent torture and situations makes this a pornographic film."
