Diocese To Gain 9 New Priests

Nine newly-ordained priests will be assigned this summer to serve in parishes and missions throughout the Diocese of Miami.

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll will ordain the nine young men at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 1, in the Cathedral when the Sacrament of Holy Orders will be conferred on the ordinands for the Diocese of Miami and one for the Archdiocese of Havana.

Two more diocesan priests will be ordained for South Florida during riots in Ireland and in Worthington, Ohio.

Two members of the same class were ordained last December in Rome and Ireland.

During the Sacred rites of ordination in the Cathedral the Sacred Ordinaries will be conferred on Father Arthur R. DeBevere, Father Donald J. Ireland, Father William C. O'Connell, and Father Jake L. Tardy for the Diocese of Miami and on Father Ernesto Garcia-Rubio for the Archdiocese of Havana.

Father Gary R. Sheibl will be ordained for the Pope's diocese of Miami by Archbishop Egido Vagnozzi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, on Saturday, May 25, at the Pontifical College Josephinum in Worthington, Ohio.

Father Kevin MacGabhann of Dublin, will be ordained in June at St. John College, Waterford.

Father Charles Sinn of Fort Lauderdale, who was ordained last December at Christ the King Church in Rome, has been continuing his studies there and will return home next month.

Father Thomas P. Hanly, originally from Woodrow Wilson, who visited Pope Benedict XIV in 1919, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, visited Pope John in 1959.

During his European tour next month the President will visit West Germany and Ireland as well as Italy. Mr. Kennedy is to return to the U.S. June 29.

The two previous U.S. chief executives who have met with a pope while in office are Woodrow Wilson, who visited Pope Benedict XIV in 1919, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who visited Pope John in 1959.

WILL BE THIRD PRESIDENT TO CALL ON A PONTIFF

Kennedy To Visit Pope John

WASHINGTON — Announcement that President Kennedy will visit Pope John XXIII next month has revived interest here in previous meetings between U.S. chief executives and Roman pontiffs.

President Kennedy will become the third president of the U.S. to call on a pope while in office. One other president visited a pope before entering the White House, and three others visited pontiffs after their presidential terms expired.

Confirmation that Mr. Kennedy will meet with Pope John came from White House sources. The meeting will take place during a presidential working visit to Italy, expected to begin June 29.

As the nation's first Roman Catholic president, Mr. Kennedy will be making history by calling on Pope John.

It is not yet known whether the visit will take place at the Vatican or at the Pope's summer residence at Castelgandolfo. Details of the visit are to be worked out by a White House advance party going to Italy May 27.

During his European tour next month the President will visit West Germany and Ireland, as well as Italy, Mr. Kennedy is to return to the U.S. June 29.

The two previous U.S. chief executives who have met with a pope while in office are Woodrow Wilson, who visited Pope Benedict XIV in 1919, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who visited Pope John in 1959.

Teachers Told of Responsibility

Next to parents, teachers have the greatest opportunity to cement in the minds of the young a commitment to the issues of truth, justice, freedom, and charity, members of the new Catholic Teachers' Guild of the Diocese of Miami were told.

More than 500 teachers from public, private and parochial schools assisted at Pontifical Low Mass offered at 10 a.m. by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll in the Cathedral. The sermon was preached by Father Francis X. Confield, professor of English at Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit, and president of the National Catholic Library Association.

During the Communion breakfast which followed at the Downtown Plaza Hotel in downtown Miami, Bishop Carroll told the lay teachers that the primary purpose of the new guild is to make them better Catholics and give them a better understanding of the spiritual.

"The responsibility of educating children is primarily that of the parents," Bishop Carroll said, "and it is the parents' responsibility in fulfilling that responsibility.

"We have at the present time about 50,000 Catholic children in elementary and secondary schools and about 125,000 in public high schools," Bishop Carroll continued, "if we are definitely interested in their schooling."

"At anitsu and you, should be vitally interested in the public schools. We should be anxious to see that they are the

Vatican Council To Speak On Peace, War

By BILL FANNING

NEW YORK (NO) — The Second Vatican Council will speak out on peace and war, Leo Cardinal Suenens, Archbishop of Malines-Brussels, Belgium, has disclosed.

Cardinal Suenens, here to address a meeting of the U.S. committee for the United Nations on the recent papal encyclical Pacem in Terris, said the council will deal with peace and war in a special schema on vital world problems.

This schema will take up such matters as population, hunger, race, the developing nations, the Church and culture, the Church and social and economic affairs, he said in an interview.

PRESS COVERAGE

Cardinal Suenens also said he sees "no reason" why newcomers should not be admitted to at least some sessions of the council.

He said the council Fathers are "now studying how to make it (arrangements for press coverage) better in the next session."

One idea under consideration, he said, is to have one or more bishops meet with advance men daily and discuss what is taking place in the council.

Cardinal Suenens was asked whether Pope John had advocated unilateral disarmament in his peace encyclical, in the event that both sides could not be persuaded to disarm. He replied:

"No. In Pope John's view both must disarm."

QUITE IMPORTANT

The Belgian Cardinal spoke at length of the need for making the Church's message more intelligible to the modern world. He interpreted the division of the council Fathers at the first session over the question of the sources of Revelation in those terms, saying:

"It was largely a question of how to express ourselves. Some stressed the need of unifying principles in all things and of saying exactly what has always been said.

"Some wanted to say things so that all can understand them properly. These are differences over modes of expression and such things can be quite important."

"LAYMANS ROLE

He said it is "always important" that the Church express itself effectively but "today it is more important than ever."

"There are so many misunderstandings," he said, "words change so easily in meaning. And today so many people do not understand religious affairs. . . . Patients of hospitals should not be admitted to the council if they are not well enough to understand what is being talked about."

Cardinal Suenens stressed that laymen must have a more active role in the Church. He said it is "almost a fallacy that the lay person has not only the role of helping the priest materially, but of helping him in his spiritual role, too," he said.

PASSIVE CATHOLICS CALLED CHIEF PROBLEM OF CHURCH

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (NO) — Belgium's Leo Cardinal Suenens declared here that the main problem facing the Church is to make passive Catholics active.

"It is largely a question of how to express ourselves. Some stressed the need of unifying principles in all things and of saying exactly what has always been said. Others wanted to say things so that all can understand them properly. These are differences over modes of expression and such things can be quite important."

"Layman's Role

He said it is "always important" that the Church express itself effectively but "today it is more important than ever."

"There are so many misunderstandings," he said, "words change so easily in meaning. And today so many people do not understand religious affairs. . . . Patients of hospitals should not be admitted to the council if they are not well enough to understand what is being talked about."

Cardinal Suenens stressed that laymen must have a more active role in the Church. He said it is "almost a fallacy that the lay person has not only the role of helping the priest materially, but of helping him in his spiritual role, too," he said.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL GRADS ARE GREETED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (NO) — President Kennedy surprised alumnae of schools of the Religious of the Sacred Heart by unexpectedly appearing to greet them during White House tour.

Noting that his mother, three sisters, and one sister-in-law were Sacred Heart graduates, the President joked that he was used to having girls from the school every day but never as many at one time.

Some 600 delegates to the 14th biennial conference of the Associated Alumnae of the Sacred Heart were tasting the White House.

Among those present were Mrs. Fred Sute Jr. and Mrs. Frances J. Red, both of Miami Beach and members of the Coral Gables Alumni Association, a chapter of the Associated Alumnae of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. Kennedy suddenly walked out of a side door as the women were filing out of the Executive Mansion's State Dining Room. One woman was so surprised that she burst into tears.

The President said he hoped the White House would give the women a greater appreciation of their country's history as he said it had given him.
Msgr. O’Donoghue To Celebrate Jubilee

A Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving in observance of the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood will be sung by Msgr. Patrick J. O’Donoghue, Vicar General of the Diocese of Miami, at noon, next Sunday, May 26, in the Cathedral built under his direction in 1956.

Parishioners and friends from parishes throughout Florida will honor the Irish-born priest who pioneered in the work of the Church in South Florida, during a reception on May 21, in the Cathedral parish auditorium.

Msgr. William Barry, P.A., pastor, St. Patrick parish, Miami Beach, and life-long friend of the jubilarian, will preach the sermon during the jubilee Mass at which more than 1,000 are expected to assist.

BORN IN COUNTY KERRY

Born in County Kerry, Jan. 13, 1913, Monsignor O’Donoghue began his studies for the priesthood at St. Brendan Seminary, Killarney, and St. Kieran Seminary, Kilkenny. Following four years of theological studies at St. John Lateran University in Rome, he was ordained there for the Diocese of St. Augustine on May 15, 1938.

Shortly after his arrival in Florida, the young Father O’Donoghue was appointed assistant pastor at the Church of the Little Flower, Coral Gables, one of the four Catholic parishes which then served the Greater Miami area. The others were Gesu and St. Mary, Miami, and St. Patrick, Miami Beach.

Until 1945 he assisted the late Msgr. Thomas Comber, pastor, in ministering to the spiritual needs of the large number of Catholics served by the Coral Gables parish.

From 1945 to 1948, Father O’Donoghue was pastor of St. Mary parish, Miami, which became the Cathedral parish after erection of the present Cathedral into a cathedral.

In 1948, Father O’Donoghue was appointed pastor of Gesu parish, Arcadia. In 1949 Archbishop Joseph P. Hurley, Bishop of St. Augustine, named him founding-pastor of the then new parish of St. John on St. Paul parish, Arcadia.

In 1953, Father O’Donoghue was appointed pastor of St. Mary parish, Miami, which became the Cathedral parish after the Diocese of Miami was erected. Under his direction the erection of the present Cathedral began.

In 1954, Father O’Donoghue was appointed pastor of the Cathedral parish, auditorium, eight-classroom school, rectory, convent, and school cafeterium.

In 1957, Father O’Donoghue was named a consultor in the Diocese of Miami by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll, Msgr. O’Donoghue, who speaks French, Italian, and Gaelic in addition to Latin and English, served as a consultant in the Diocese of St. Augustine as well as executive director of the Catholic High School building fund. In 1956 he directed the Development Fund campaign for Miami’s Mercy Hospital.

He was invested in the white rochet and purple mantelletta by Archbishop Hurley during ceremonies in St. Mary’s Church on April 14, 1957.

 Silence Cloaks Latest Moves To Free Cardinal Mindszenty

ROME (NC) — No quick solution is likely in the case of Jesuit Cardinal Mindszenty, according to the Austrian cardinal who saw him in Budapest in mid-April and has arrived here to report on their interview to Church authorities.

Fraznakias Cardinal Keorg, Archbishop of Vienna, said newsmen on his arrival there that many factors are involved in Church-State negotiations in Red Hungary concerning the possible departure of the Hungarian Primate from the U.S. legation here.

But Cardinal Keorg, who met the press briefly at the Rome airport, said the negotiations about Cardinal Mindszenty are "the business of the Vatican" and declined to comment on his role in them.

UNIQUAL SECURITY

Asked to give his opinion about the possible future arrival of Cardinal Mindszenty in Rome, he said only: "I do not believe there will be a rapid solution."

Shortly before Cardinal Keorg's arrival, a high Vatican official returned here from Budapest where he conferred with Church and State authorities. The arrival of Mgr. Agostino Casaroli, Secretary for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs in the Papal Secretariat of State, was surrounded at the Rome airport with unusual security measures, which led several news agencies to report mistakenly that Cardinal Mindszenty had arrived here.

Monsignor Casaroli has seen no newsmen and has made no comment on his Budapest activities.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

The arrival of the two prelates in the face of conflicting reports from Hungary has touched off renewed speculation about the terms of the possible departure of the Hungarian primate from the U.S. legation.

But absolute liaison is being maintained by all Vatican officials who have termed the matter "very delicate" and who have been unwilling to risk upsetting any possible understandings by premature comment.

Reports from Budapest said an agreement had been reached that would allow the Cardinal to come to Rome. Partis to the agreement, reports said, were kommunist Hungary, the Holy See and the U.S.

REPORTS DENIED

The following day a Hungarian government source reportedly denied knowledge of such an agreement and a U.S. legation spokesman stated that the legation had not taken part in any negotiations with the Church or Hungarian government authorities.

Other reports reaching here from Vienna and Budapest centered on stories last Cardinal Mindszenty has set certain conditions for his leaving the legation.

The Cardinal is understood here to be strongly opposed to leaving his country before receiving firm assurances from the communist regime that it will relax its stranglehold on the Church.

Speculation on Cardinal Mindszenty's fate has been building up for the past month.

The Cardinal, now 71, entered the American legation in Budapest on November 4, 1956 — a refugee from Soviet forces quelling Hungary's short-lived rebellion against communist government. Anti-Communists had freed the Cardinal only four days earlier from the jail where he was serving a life sentence.

FOUR POSSIBILITIES

There appear to be only four possibilities in the future for Cardinal Mindszenty.

He could be restored to his See and permitted to govern it under the same difficulties and restrictions which hamper the other bishops in the country. The likelihood of this outcome is slight.

Congratulations, Monsignors

People in every section of Florida will rejoice to learn that Msgr. Patrick J. O’Donoghue, the Vicar General of the Diocese of Miami, is about to observe the silver jubilee of his ordination to the holy priesthood.

Wherever they are in the State, they are well aware that in the past 25 years, Monsignor O’Donoghue has been anything but a spectator in the great transformation of the Church in Florida. He has merited the praise of his fellow priests and people alike as one of the Church’s zealous, unfaltering workers in ministering the spiritual and material needs of this unique, vigorous community.

When Monsignor O’Donoghue first arrived in Miami in 1938 the forty-four farms that dotted the town there were 29. He was attending the late Mr. Thomas Comber in pastoral duties in Coral Gables, as a newly ordained priest, vast, seemingly endless South Florida seemed to him like barren fields awaiting the touch of another generation. In the unexpected enormous changes that took place in this area during some of those years, it is his joy to realize now that he had an important and memorable part.

Monsignor O’Donoghue obviously was destined to travel in the fulfillment of his vocation. Studies took him from Ireland to the Lateran University in Rome. Once he was in Florida, appointments turned him from Miami to Arcadia, then further north on the west coast in the responsibility of erecting a new parish in St. Petersburg Beach. Then full circle back to Miami again where he built St. Mary’s Church, later to be designated as the Cathedral Church of the new Diocese of Miami.

In all these years and changes, Monsignor O’Donoghue has served God and the Church well. His parishioners in various parts of Florida and his countless friends will always remember him gratefully for his zealous concern for their interests, for his good-natured approach to their problems for his loyalty and dedication to the Church.

We join with them in offering him hearty congratulations and every blessing of God. Ad MuvAmemos.

To Our Parents, Teachers

Now that school bells are ringing out the final summons for this year, it is about time to give the rank of graduates at all levels of Catholic education, elementary, high school, college.

We congratulate each and every one of you for your years of study and application to duty, we cannot help but wonder where they would be without their dedicated teachers—priests, brothers, sisters, and, in increasingly significant numbers, members of the laity.

Surely it would be difficult to find a more dedicated, self-sacrificing group of people than those who have patiently labored with the young and the slow and the inattentive in order to set them firmly on the path of knowledge or those who have been training the more mature to take their places in the turbulent society of today.

But again such reflection poses a further question, namely, where would our teachers and pupils be had not the Catholic school system been made possible by the extraordinary efforts and sacrifices of Catholic parents?

In the ascending scale of congratulations at the end of this school year, justice demands that we come up with final praise and promotion for the public school system.

This most impressive story of sacrifice can be told only because so many parents have come to realize, as Msgr. George Johnson put it years ago, the purpose of education is “to change people, to make them different than they otherwise would be.”

These Catholic parents want their children to gain knowledge, indeed, but more than that they want them to grow in self control, to mature spiritually, to remember always throughout life that they are children of God.

We offer our congratulations to pupils, teachers and parents. Together they form the Catholic school system, a phenomenon which wins our admiration more with the end of each school year.

The Outdoor Memorial Day 1963 Recalls Church’s Concern For Dead

By Msgr. James F. Nelan

Memorial Day, 1963, recalls for the faithful the solicitude manifested by the Church through the centuries in caring for the last resting place of our beloved. It is a time of remembrance when our prayers.

From the days of the first Roman catacombs, the MSSR. NEALCH Church has carefully paid special reverence to the bodies of the faithful.

As it has served as temples of the Holy Spirit, have been nourished by the Sacred Body and Blood of the Savior, and are declared for reunion with immortal souls for all eternity.

This traditional reverence of the Church always has been a source of force toward re-affirmation to Catholics. The sorrow of their being together by the knowledge that their dead have been buried in grounds consecrated to the service of God, even as the Church itself is consecrated to the service of God.

The Catholic cemetery had its first beginning at the foot of the Cross when Jesus of Arimathea first consigned tomb for the burial of Christ.

When the Apostles left the Upper Room on the first Pentecost Sunday to begin the spread of Christ’s Kingdom, they carried with them well-defined ideas concerning the burial of those who died in the Faith. In the first four centuries after the death of Christ, the Church at Rome provided more than 500 miles of catacombs, underground caves for the burial of the dead.

It is estimated that more than 1,700,000 Christians were buried in these hallowed resting places. The Church has long sought to give them, as we do, that the body, although it is no longer joined to the soul, is still a temple of the Holy Ghost. Because of that belief, they risked their own lives in order to protect the bodies of those who had been martyred so that those relics of the saints might be properly embalmed.

The same care and solicitude for the mortal remains of one of the members of Christ’s Mystical Body is promptly given to Catholic cemeteries today. The cemetery as a repository of the souls which Christ has promised to the end of time.

From earliest times, the cemetery has been called “God’s Acre.” This is to remind us that God’s care of the Cemeteries is a direct expression of the care that God has for the souls which Christ has promised to the end of time.

In cemeteries of the Church lie the bodies of countless numbers of uncanonical saints.

Many are known only to God, but that does not lessen their sanctity nor their place in Heaven nor the honor which we pay them by our visits and our prayers. The body is destined to rise glorified on the Day of Judgment.

Burial is a ceremony which is Catholic surely is the most appropriate concept for these ceremonials which the Church universally accords the dead. Having received the grace of Extreme Unction, the body is ready to rest in the company of other members of the Mystical Body.

Thereafter is remembered in prayers each time another burial takes place in the cemetery. These are recited by the priest officiating at the graveside. The deceased is remembered, too, in the prayers of all visitors in all the years to come.

In the Diocese of Miami, Monsignor Cooper can readily pick out two men who have been one of the greatest concerns, with the result that they are now in arcades. One is the young Lady of Mercy Cemetery, serving the parishes of all Dade County, and located four and one-half miles north of Sunrise Blvd., at 150 South State Road No. 7, Pompano Beach.

In both cemeteries there have been more than 1,300 burials, including seven priests and three nuns. In Our Lady of Mercy Cemetery there have been five entombed in the temporary crypt awaiting construction of the new Our Lady of Mercy Mausoleum.

Outdoor Masses will be offered at both cemeteries on Memorial Day, Thursday, May 24, and at both locations, for the rest assured, the souls of all those buried there.

Outdoor Masses for Good Friday Masses are traditional, as also are those offered each year at Our Lady of Good Friday.

It is a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead. So, too, is it an honor, a privilege and an obligation to bury our dead in a Catholic cemetery.

Pontiff Pray

For Astronaut

MANIC World Service

While the Air Force major was still in orbit (May 18), the Pope said in Rome: "May God follow them (space flights) with prayers of blessing. We want them to be real success. We want they may be a contribution to brotherhood and civilization."

Time and again since the Ecumenical Council began, we have been hearing that one day will be to make ancient Christian truths more clear, more understandable for non-Catholics.

The Decision for the Coming Feast of Pentecost reminds us that one of the most concrete expressions of this truth is Baptism. By MSGR. WALSH

Catholics, we frequently use the phrase, "the state of grace." A confused non-Catholic thus may hear that a person might be in the state of grace or out of it, that he has lost it or regained it, that nothing matters so much as keeping it. One man who heard two Catholics discussing the state of grace wondered if they were talking about good health.

He was far closer to the truth than realized. The soul in the state of grace is assuredly in good health, because grace is actually the life of the soul.

The ‘New Life’

Hence, when we say a soul is in the state of grace, we mean that it is alive, truly alive, with the supernatural life of God. When the soul has lost grace, we mean that it is spiritually dead, that a serious sin has separated it from God and therefore destroyed its life.

This is the "new life" Our Lord was referring to when He spoke of the necessity of Baptism: "Unless a man be born again of water and the Holy Ghost, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3:5). What makes grace different from anything else is the fact that it is a share in the life of God Himself. It is nothing less than a created participation in the Divine Nature, a marvelously gift far beyond any natural talent or power which a human being may lay claim to.

Indeed Christ summed up the purpose of His coming to earth in the few words that indicate the necessity and importance of grace: "I am come that you might have life, and that you might have it abundantly." (John 10:10)

Now He does not mean here surely the life of the body. We already have that. He is calling attention to the peculiar life of the soul. Hence it is not quite to be born again, but to be born of God. In the Son of God became man, died on the cross and rose again for the purpose of enabling human beings to receive sanctifying grace and to preserve it unto death.

The closest that we can come to the face-to-face union with God in Father Trese heaven. Without love, a soul could be in the state of grace, but not in the presence of heaven and still be in hell.

Such a soul could be surrounded by God, by angels and saints, and be totally unaware of their presence. A soul without charity, without spiritual vision, would look like a soul totally lost to God. It is fortunate that God, in baptism, has infused the virtue of charity into our souls, giving us the talent for paying Him. It is not easy to love someone whom we have never seen. It is especially difficult when our love for the unseen God conflicts with our desire for some lesser but visible god.

But the truth is that God really could not love Him at all. On the face of it, it seems a great mystery why our love about God. But I am sure that God, in His honest moments we have to admit that our love, at best, is very imperfect.

The evil spirits of hell have incredible powers, but they are too weak to take away the life of grace. The best they can do is urge me furiously to commit spiritual suicide. Nor are there any enemies on earth capable of causing me to separate myself from God, thereby causing its death. They too can merely encourage me to do the deed myself.

This points up the wonderful protection God has given us for this most precious gift. I am safe from all enemies — except myself. For the only way I can lose the state of grace is by giving in to the delusion of separating myself from God. I can only do this by offending God, and God does not allow us to do that.

It is so clear why mortal sin is so called — deadly.

The coming of the Holy Ghost with His special grace of Pentecost reminds us most impressively of the necessity of safeguarding the treasure of grace. And this is the reason for the year round stress of requests for confession and Holy Communion. These rivers of divine grace cannot be overtaxed. The sacrament of Penance is the guarantee remaining for retaining the supernatural life of Christ to a soul dead through mortal sin. Can a soul exist in the greatest means of increasing the life of grace in the soul and at the same time guarantee of never losing it?

Grace-Christ’s Marvelous Gift To Mankind

TRUTH OF THE MATTER

Earthly existence is a sense in which you are a part of God. It is a sense, each would be the other.

Our One Purpose In Living: To Love God

By FATHER LEO J. TRESE

GOD’S WORLD

There is a good bit of self-interested interest even with our most disinterested loves: our love for spouse, for parent, for friend, for sibling. It may illumine the mystery a bit if we examine what we might call the "definition" of our love for God.

In baptism, the greatest thing which happened to us is that we were made one with Christ; incorporated with Christ is the theological expression. We were united with Christ in a way which our human mind cannot quite fathom.

Christ shared with us His Spirit of love. There is no example adequate to illustrate the nature of our union with God.

The closest that we can come by way of parallel is to imagine the intimacy of union that would exist between two human beings who shared one and the same soul between them. In a sense, each would be the other. Our love for God is the same sense in which you are a part of God. It is not we who love God. It is Christ Who, through us, loves God. The millions of baptized souls, in the state of sanctifying grace, love God like so many prisms.

Through them, the infinite love of Jesus is refracted to the Father in limitless variety. The Holy Spirit, the Spirit of Love, acts in billion different ways in a hundred million ways. And, since divine love is an interchange, the Father's love returns to His Son with just as many variations. In love each of us, God can and does love His Son.

We are, then, God's created instruments of love. We are in the presence of the reservoir of infinite love which forever occupies Father, Son and Holy Spirit in union. We are in possession of our own self, the more effective an agent each of us becomes the more we detach ourselves, not only from mortal sin but also from venial sin, the merely instrumental and not holy.

U.S. Migrant Workers Need More Protection Under Law

By MSGR. GEORGE G. HIGGINS

The Reporter magazine recently took notice of what certain church groups are doing to try to improve the lot of migratory farm workers in the United States.

"Being the constituents of no one in particular, The Reporter, in an editorial note, "is a migratory worker working at its program..." There are migratory workers in the United States. The Reporter magazine, in its program..."

"But except for certain church groups, particularly the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the National Council of Churches, for one or two unions...most of the labor and social welfare industries have done little beyond testifying when called upon."

MAJOR STEP

The Reporter's favorable review to the National Catholic Welfare Conference is appreciated, but those of us at NCWC (and counterparts in other national Catholic organizations) which are most directly involved in the problem of migratory labor know that we have hardly scratched the surface of the migratory labor problem.

Perhaps the most important single step that should be taken right away to improve the lot of migratory farm workers should be for the United States Labor Law 78 under which tens of thousands of Mexican farm workers are brought into the United States every year in co-operation with our own domestic American agricultural workers.

Representatives of all these major religious faiths have asked Congress to allow Public Law 78 to expire on Dec. 31, 1963. They are convinced that the program is extremely harmful to American farm workers and small farm owners.

"ADVERSE EFFECT" Public Law 78 was first enacted in 1913 as a temporary measure to bring Mexican farm workers to American growers. Less than two per cent of American farm workers use the Mexicans, known as braceros. These are often large corporation type farms. In 1962, 227,000 braceros were contracted and reconverted.

The mass importation of foreign workers is one of the major reasons why American farm workers, the poorest work group in the United States, were able to earn an average of only $301 in agriculture during all of 1961 and were only able to obtain 154 days of farm work in the entire year.

Although P.L. 78 seeks to provide against "adverse effect" to domestic farm workers, the importation of braceros has kept down their farm wages and limited their employment opportunities. The existence of the program prevents the labor and social welfare industries from operating as helping farm workers in the bracero using areas.

PROTEST POVERTY

A bracero-seeking grower offers work at perhaps 60 cents an hour in Arkansas. If the wage is inadequate to cover bracero farm workers, he does not have to raise the pay. He simply tells the Federal Government that he cannot get farm labor, and asks for braceros from Mexico. The poverty of northern Mexico is so great that braceros are available at these wages.
Father Charles Ward Gets Doctor Of Theology Degree

Father Charles F. Ward, assistant chancellor of the Diocese of Miami, has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology by the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

The Miami priest recently completed a course of study at the university and in partial fulfillment of requirements for the degree, he presented a dissertation on "Two Recent Theories on the Finality of Extreme Unction." In a précis soon to be released by Catholic University, Father Ward points out that agreement among theologians was significantly complete until recently on the fundamental purposes and over-all effect of Extreme Unction.

"Indeed, few theological concepts have ever been more commonly shared," he wrote, "than that which designates this sacrament as 'the conveyance of the entire Christian life' and 'immediate preparation for glory.' . . . The current century, however, has witnessed the appearance of two new theories on the finality of Extreme Unction, which either radically expand or altogether discard the Scholastic notion of anointing as preparation for eternity.

Hist study, Father Ward says, was undertaken to examine each of these theories, and he continued: "The Total Remission of Temporal Punishment" theory, advanced by Father Joseph Krra, is based on the assumption that Extreme Unction is the divinely appointed annulment of sin. From this it follows that normally — and only in cases of temporal punishment must be cancelled through anointing. And the Council of Trent is alleged to have confirmed this view, by declaring that Extreme Unction remits temporal punishment totally, it is thus also properly called Extreme Unction. For this reason, too, a true immediate preparation for death and eternity are the concepts which link anointing in this broad and basic sense.

But if Extreme Unction is essentially the Sacrament of the Dying, it is likewise — though subordinately — the Sacrament of the Sick. Which is to say that its effect upon the organism as such is by no means limited to instances of total bodily cure.

Father Ward's major professor at Catholic University was Father Emmanuel Durenzo, O.M.I., internationally recognized authority on the Sacrament of Extreme Unction. Father Ward was born in Mobile, Ala., where his mother, Mrs. Helen C. Ward, still resides, along with a brother and two sisters. He attended St. Paul school, Jacksonville, and later St. Bernard Minor Seminary, Culman, Ala.

He was a student at Catholic University of America seven years, receiving a master's degree in philosophy. Father Ward was ordained May 22, 1948, at St. Paul Church, Jacksonville, by Bishop Thomas J. McDonough, now Bishop of Savannah, Ga., but then the Auxiliary Bishop of St. Augustine.

In 1949 he went to Rome for postgraduate work at the Gregorian University, and a dissertation was awarded there a degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Returning to Florida, Father Ward served successively at St. Michael Church, Miami; St. Paul High School, St. Petersburg; St. Francis Xavier Church, Fort Myers; Christ the King Church, Tampa; Corpus Christi Church, Miami; Archbishop Curley High School, St. John Church, Hialeah, and St. Hugh Church, Coconut Grove, where he is now in residence at St. Matthew Church rectory, Miami Beach.

best schools possible, just as we are anxious to see that the Catholic schools are good schools. As citizens, Catholics support the public schools, and as citizens they should be encouraged to be vitally interested in the success of both school systems."

A 'SHINING LIGHT'

Pointing out to the teachers, many of whom teach in public schools, that they have a very important work and grave responsibility," Bishop Carroll advised the men and women that, "you have an obligation to fulfill this responsibility in the best of your ability and to carry out the responsibility entrusted to you.

"If you are to exercise influence that should be, it is very important that you be regarded in the community as a person who is a been entrusted with a very important work and responsibility. If that is your due you must stand up to that in the eyes of those around you. There is a necessity of your being a shining light in the community," Bishop Carroll said.

WORTHY MOTIVES

During the Mass, Father Canfield told the educators from all levels that "since Sputnik, American society has taken a new interest in teachers and education. For the most part, the motives are quite pragmatic. If we don't produce better scientists and technicians than the communists, than we face defeat.

"The defense of family and country, the continued development of our economy, the preparation of young people to take their place in a highly skilled and technological society - these are worthy enough motives. But while we come to grips with the realities of life today, let us not ignore the values that give life its order and purpose, and prepare the spiritual interests of the visible Church. He will not flaunt his faith before the unbelieving. The responsible Catholic will always respect the sacred right of conscience.

"But both public and parochial school teachers will recognize an obligation and an opportunity to promote the very values that our society needs most today," Father Canfield concluded, "he will enliven beyond measure the impressionable mind of the young. And he will thus enrich society for years to come. For what can make for a responsible citizen better than truth, justice, charity and freedom? Is it your vocation as professional teachers, as loyal Americans, and as witnesses to the Gospel to experience and if necessary introduce into the lives of your students these great values?"

Invest To Be Leaders, Cuban Youth Told

Unaccompanied Cuban youths whose parents are still in communist-controlled Fidel Castro’s Cuba were urged by Bishop Oleman F. Carroll Sunday to deepen and strengthen their faith and to acquire the truth and learning which will prepare them to one day assume positions of leadership among their people.

Bishop Carroll spoke to hundreds of Cuban teenagers at Camp Matamoros in South Dade County following the blessing of a new four-classroom school building erected on the diocesan property for the education of the youth who now have the direct care of the Miami Catholic Welfare Bureau.

A dialogue Mass was offered at 4:15 p.m. by Msgr. John J. Fitzpatrick, assistant chancellor and director of the Diocese of Miami’s Spanish-speaking Apostolate, at an outdoor altar erected for the occasion at one end of the new school building. Msgr. Bryan O. Walsh, director of the Catholic Welfare Bureau, told the boys in response and the sermon was preached by Father Eugenio Del Barrio.

Pointing out to the young men that both their parents in Cuba and the faithful in the Diocese of Miami had made sacrifices to save them from life in a communist regime and to provide a haven for refugees with the necessary facilities in this country, Bishop Carroll reminded the boys that their former associates had been sent by the Castro regime to Russia while others are forced to go togovernment initiated atheistic schools in Cuba.

“American priests,” Bishop Carroll added, “have given of their time, their zeal, and their devotion to try to provide for you all these things which are necessary if you are to receive a continuation of a Catholic education. Real love and real charity prompt so many to be of assistance,” Bishop Carroll said, declaring that when “remembrance of the Mystical Body is suffering, that suffering is felt by all.

“Your sentiments should be primarily those of gratitude to Almighty God who in His goodness spared you the lot that some of your friends in Cuba were not spared,” the Bishop continued. “Some are in Russia today; some are forced to attend godless schools.

“No, you have much to thank God for, much is expected of you, every one of you,” Bishop Carroll said. “You are the ones put out of the under the heel of the tyrant. You now have the opportunity to deepen and strengthen your faith to acquire those truths and that learning which in time will make you ready for positions of leadership among your people. You have an unusual and challenging opportunity. By your example and if you return to Cuba, you can show what it is to be a conscientious and intelligent member of Christ’s Church. Thank God and show your gratitude by being a real apostle in the future.

During his sermon, Father Del Busto told the congrega- tion which included Christian and Marist Brothers and Sis- ters of St. Philip Neri who supervise the activities of the Catholic Church that both their parents and their country because of persecution is something that “is very touch- ing because of the cruel contrast between the evil of some men and the kindness of others.”

“No one as you, my dear young people, have experienced this,” the Cuban born priest said. “When you de- cided to leave your country, you only knew that the Catho- lic Church would not abandon you and that there was a Bishop waiting in the ne- cessity to take care of you and protect you. Because we know that several thousand Cuban youths have come through this camp, we are well able to evaluate the needs of the Diocese of Miami and of the Catholic Welfare Bureau.

“We Cubans have found in Bishop Oleman F. Carroll the pastor, who besides satisfying our spiritual and material needs, has been the strong friend and constant de- fender and the best friend of the Cuban cause,” Father Del Busto declared, expressing the gratitude of the boys and their families not only to Bishop Carroll but also to Monsignor Fitzpatrick and Monsignor Walsh.
UNACCOMPANIED Cuban teenagers listen as Bishop Carroll speaks to them at Camp Matecumbe Sunday following ceremonies of blessing for a new school building for their use.

CAMP MATECUMBE located in the Everglades in South Dade County is maintained by the Miami Catholic Welfare Bureau which has already aided more than 14,000 Cuban children.

SPANISH-SPEAKING priests who formerly taught in Cuba assisted Bishop Coleman F. Carroll during dedication ceremonies at Camp Matecumbe where more than 200 Cuban youths reside.

Adults Will Be Confirmed June 2 In The Cathedral

Adults in the Diocese of Miami who have not yet been confirmed may receive the Sacrament of Confirmation during 3 p.m. ceremonies Sunday, June 2 in the Cathedral.

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll will confer the Sacrament on any resident Catholic above high school age and who has the written permission of his pastor for himself and a sponsor. Candidates may choose their own sponsors and pastors will notify the Cathedral rectory a few days in advance of the ceremonies as to the names of those to be confirmed and also forward any other information necessary to receive the Sacrament.

Since it is one of the most important of the seven Sacraments, the Sacrament of Confirmation should be received by all Catholics.

Through Confirmation the Holy Ghost comes in a special way to the soul enabling Christians to profess their faith strongly and perfectly as adult soldiers of Christ.

Those wishing to be confirmed may obtain complete details from their respective pastors.

Dear Mr. Sciaro,

Realizing that in most cases the only time you hear from a customer is when they have a complaint to make, I have decided to reverse this trend and write you a letter of commendation.

In December of 1960 your company cleaned and painted the exterior of my residence. While I could have had the job done at a lower price, I am a firm believer that one gets what he pays for and if you want quality, you must be willing to pay for it. At that time the job was done to complete satisfaction, even to the cleaning of the walls, shrubs, building, etc.

Last October, I noticed a few mildew and fungus spots on the lower edge of the roof. A call to your office resulted in the prompt attention by your company and the condition being taken care of in a few days.

As a result of this prompt attention by your company, I recommissioned you to paint and stucco a friend of mine in Fort Lauderdale. They have both had the results done by your company and I am very satisfied with the results.

Last week, much to my surprise, one of your trucks with four men drove up to my house and informed me that they were going to check over the condition of my roof. They appeared to me to be serious about the condition of my roof. They explained that some of the tiles were discolored and requested that they be replaced. They also asked if they should replace any other areas on the roof. They completed the work in a very neat manner, using the original materials.

This last visit and check-up, entirely unsolicited by me, greatly appreciated the attention given to my property.

In this day and age of constant competition, it is indeed rare to find a company such as yours that realizes the importance of a satisfied customer.

Please feel free to use this letter in any way you deem necessary. Thanking you once more, I remain,

Sincerely,

John C. Deickmann

PARISH GROUPS URGED TO RECEIVE CORPORATE COMMUNION

CYO's To Observe Youth Adoration Day June 2

Parish CYO's in the Diocese are being urged to take part in the observance of National Youth Adoration Day on Pentecost Sunday, June 2.

Father Walter J. Dockrell, director of youth activities for the Diocese suggested that CYO units observe the day by spending a half-hour of adoration before the Blessed Sacrament in addition to corporate Communion.

Father Dockrell said the spiritual intentions for Youth Adoration Day are three-fold:
1. That the Eucumenical Council will successfully interpret the Divine Will,
2. That there will be an increase of priestly and religious vocations, and
3. That more of our youth will receive Holy Communion daily and thus bring them closer to Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament.

Observance of Youth Adoration Day is sponsored by the National Catholic Organization with the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Msgr. Frederick J. Stavro, director of the NCWC Youth Department, said that "in this time of unusual stress upon youth's moral resources, it is especially fitting that Youth Adoration Day's intentions concern so specifically the spiritual foundations of our young Catholics."

Lee found his way into the Church, said Father Richard J. Swift, S. J., pastor of Presentation of St. James parish, to which Lee attends, by reading Catholic books.

Lee became convinced, said Father Swift, that the Catholic religion was "best for him."

Lee's father and mother both are members of the Methodist Church. Mr. Brown is a barber and Mrs. Brown is a secretary at Myers High. The Browns reside at 14609 Tyler St.

A younger brother of Lee's, Columbus, also is taking in-service. Father Swift said Columbus is a 10th grade student. The Browns have two other children, Barbara, in the 11th grade, and Kevin, age five.

Lee has hopes of attending a Catholic university this fall. His attendance would depend on whether or not he received a scholarship.

Lee won his Silver Knight award for being judged top science student in the regional science category. The 17-year-old's interest in science stems from as early as the sixth grade, when he got his first science kit.

"Ever since I can remember," said Mrs. Brown, "Lee has always wanted something he could tinker with."

Lee has won several awards in science fairs with his work on a nerve cell project. This year his project entry entitled "Neuron Divergencies of Pisces (fish)" won an "excellent" rating in the regional science fair.

His entry last year, "Do Nerve Cells Multiply?" received an honorable mention. In 1962, Lee, with the same exhibit, took the grand prize at the Florida A. & M. University Science Fair. He also was judged the best in the biology category at the fair.

By reason of his winning the Florida A. & M. top prize, Lee represented the State of Florida at the National Science Fair International at Seattle.

Lee is also active in extra-curricular activities at Mays. He is president of the Honor Society, the Junior Humanities Association and the Science Clubs of America at Mays. In addition Lee plays the bass in the school orchestra.

Newman Has 1st Grid Drills

By RALPH BUCHANAN

WEST PALM BEACH — Cardinal Newman's Twin-Coast Champ gridiron squad has completed its spring workouts. The Crusaders, who have captured the Twin-Coast Title two years running, without a defeat, finished the early workouts May 17.

Coaches Sam Budnyc, Don Hazelton and Tony Moss put the squad through its paces for two weeks. Hoping to keep up last year's 8-2 record with another fine showing next year, new talent made its bid to fill the shoes of the graduates.

Since the practice field is a new addition to school facilities, practice was held on campus for the first time.

The next action slated for the Crusaders will be resumption of drills beginning about Aug. 15.

A years-old tradition, which began at St. Ann's and has remained at Cardinal Newman, was continued this year when the Sophomore Class gave the Seniors the annual breakfast recently.

The day began with Holy Mass offered by Father L. Cann, supervising principal at Newman, at Sacred Heart Church in Lake Worth. After Mass and a short sermon Father Cann blessed the Senior Class rings.

More Dash to the Dish

Chicken Dishes Economical... Tasty, Too

When it comes to serving a large group with a maximum of delectable food and a minimum of cost, chicken just naturally springs to mind. That’s because everyone loves chicken — and the bird is so economical.

According to the National Broiler Council, today’s chicken comes to the market at the age of nine weeks, and this youthful bird assures the homemaker of always receiving tender, succulent meat.

This is the broiler-fryer wing into a wide variety of dishes that suit the cost-conscious hostess to the hilt. One of the best is Chicken in Orange Sauce. The sauce is composed of orange juice, slivers of orange peel, orange sections, and cinnamon, ginger, and dry mustard for tanginess. This gourmet combination is truly superb — and nary a guest will suspect that Chicken in Orange Sauce is a thrift dish!

Thanks to all its special virtues.

Chicken in Orange Sauce

- In serving pieces
- 2½ teaspoons salt, divided
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 6 tablespoons sugar

Sprinkle chicken with ½ teaspoon salt, brown. In a buttered skillet, add flour, sugar and remaining 1 teaspoon salt to drippings in skillet; stir to a smooth paste. Grate orange rind. Add to chicken. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Add chicken; cover; simmer over low heat until chicken is almost tender, about 30 minutes. While chicken is cooking, peel orange in circular motion removing the rind. Cut with scissors into thin slivers. Cover with water and bring to a boil; simmer 10 minutes; drain and discard water. Cut membrane from orange; cut out sections. Sprinkle orange rind over chicken; add orange sections; cover; cook 10 minutes longer. Remove chicken to serving platter; spoon sauce over chicken. YIELD: 12 servings.

He Rates Me After His Family

By FATHER JOHN L. THOMAS, S.J.

You've asked several very different questions, Millie, but I think you have only one major problem. You like Bill and so... really want to associate with him as frequently as possible. He claims he likes you, too, and has shown it by not dating other girls for over a year. On the other hand, he doesn't date you as often as you feel he should because he insists that you must spend a good deal of time at home with his parents and other members of his family.

Considering his age, isn't his sense of loyalty and attachment to his family somewhat exaggerated or unbalanced? This is possible, for it is not unknown that some individuals are adequately weaned from their parents very late in life; if ever. Nevertheless, Millie, I don't believe that this is Bill's problem, and I rather suspect that you know it isn't either, though both of you are using the pretext of family loyalties to avoid having to face the real issue.

What's the main source of your difficulties? You pointed it out almost in passing, though the fact that you mentioned it suggests that you are not wholly aware of its far-reaching significance. "Bill has three more years of graduate work, so there's no thought of immediate marriage." This simple statement of fact tells us all about we have to know concerning your problem. Assuming that you are a normal couple and that you have already discovered that you like each other very much, the phrase, "no thought of immediate marriage," presents a dilemma that you are trying not to face squarely.

Analyze Attitudes Objectively

Why continue to deceive yourselves? If you follow your natural inclinations and begin to see more of each other, there will be "thought of immediate marriage," for a normal young couple of your age cannot enjoy frequent and intimate association for long without experiencing that insistent emotional involvement (love) which craves permanence in marriage. If you wish to maintain a workable friendship, that is, a relationship that will not place you under excessive tension and stress, you must regulate your dating and other contacts accordingly.

It is relatively easy to accept these assertions in theory, or as they apply to other couples, and yet to ignore their personal implications in practice. That's why I have warned you about self-deception. Don't argue that since you both accept the fact that there can be no thought of marriage for the next three years, there is no danger that you will become deeply involved through more frequent dating. You can't have it both ways, and I think that you know it.

If you analyze your attitudes a little more objectively, Millie, you will probably find that you don't accept this "no thought of immediate marriage" as a guiding principle in your relationships. Although you may not wish to admit it to yourself perhaps, for such an admission would imply rejection of the plans you and Bill have agreed upon, you are really quite willing to take a chance on an earlier marriage.

Must Make A Choice

Considered in this light, Bill's approach appears much more logical. I feel that knowingly or unknowingly he is using his sense of family loyalty as a convenient means of avoiding deeper involvement. He is in a position to think realistically of immediate marriage, yet he likes you and probably senses that he cannot run the risk of seeing you too often if he wishes to complete his graduate studies before marriage. Under the circumstances he finds it difficult to provide a good excuse for not spending time with you and prudently concludes that his obligations to parents offer as good an escape as any other.

What should you do? You have two possibilities. You may decide that a delay of three years is too difficult or too much of a gamble. This would mean that you break up the relationship and start dating others. This is a reasonable solution and should involve no bitterness — you simply face the fact that as a couple you cannot think realistically about marriage for a long time to come, so that promoting further involvement at present is meaningless.

You may decide to continue dating. This means that you honestly accept all the implications of a three-year delay. Stop insisting on more frequent association, for Bill will either tire of arguing with you and break off the affair himself, or he will give in, and then you will have to come to terms with premature emotional involvement. Don't deceive yourself, immediate marriage will not be a solution. Bill will not later forgive you for interfering with his adequate preparation for life. More important, he is not ready for marriage until he has completed his studies, as all too many couples who married prematurely are discovering too late. (Father Thomas will be unable to answer personal letters.)
In a recent magazine article, Father Nicholas Maratul, former Director of the Catholic Truth Society of Hong Kong, vividly pictures some mission hardships. She writes: "At St. John's, I was confronted with a Church service which stretched from the days of the World War..."
Many Film Characters 'Unreal, Misfits'

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — "Show me a well-adjusted happily married couple and I will show you a perfect home," goes the popular saying.

Last week a psychologist here in the West, in a dozen different headlines with this gimmick line, let us not bother with his name. Consider his information on the gimmick-minded Hollywood set.

Many "creative film writers" collect and file this type of trash as if it were genuine, ill-cast, dramatic philosophy.

One of the deadbeat delusions among film people, here and abroad, is that good people are dull; that characters off-kilter or utterly evil, have theatrical color; that honest, plain-living people are of no dramatic consequence or interest unless (instance "To Kill a Mockingbird") they are caught in social conflicts greater than themselves, when they become symbols.

TALENT

We see what fate for false's sake is bringing us in the movies. For instance, Archie Bunker, caught in the drug fiend's net, made a glossy, social drama called "In the Cool of the Day." extend do's novelty, made a script which, during the era of the Hollywood peddler, might have landed any writer in the studio cooler. This man cost millions of dollars to fall from the sky.

The top cast is creamy with rich talent. Robert Stevens, the director, used to make his character in his films; his films; he made a man of his role.

But then, according to the expert, there would have been two, well-adjusted, happily married couples: four dull people. So instead, we have a dull picture.

We would be more inclined to accept Pat Boone's explanation to you (about how he came to make "The Main Attraction") if he had not already given TV interviews and promised to ballyhoo the picture in various grass roots cities. Thus an influential public leader in Cleveland, Ohio, reacts to my recent interview with Pat Boone. Many others say the same.

A public promotion tour of the order of the contract. A public producer Roy Skirk he would fulfill it only if the pictures were revised to gain a G rating as a Seal.

Alterations now have been made and a Seal granted. The Legion of Decency is to be requested to see thecut version with a view to reconsidering its moral objections, although chances of favorable re-classification appear slim.

Pat's business manager, reacting to suggestions, may seek release from the ballet tour.

If all else fails, Pat Boone still holds the ace card. He could go on tour and tell his audience what he told me, "I am unhappy about the film; would not have made it had I known how it would turn out. I have been asked by advice young people not to see it until they've received their parents' permission."

He told me the film is not good enough for his own children. In this case it is not good enough for other people's children.

And if he were to tell this to the public, the ballet tour would end right there.

Consagración a la Virgen

Con motivo de la observancia del mes de mayo como mes de la Virgen María, el Padre Avelino González O.F.M., capellán del Centro Histórico Cultural, compuso una Consagración a la Virgen que fue cantada en la Capilla de este centro en una sencilla ceremonia. Por lo que de especial tiene esta suplica para los fieles de habla hispana y de esta región como una llamada para que en este mes de Mayo se intensifique el amor a María ofrecémos con contrición el texto de esa Consagración a la Virgen, para que pueda ser usado por nuestros lectores.

Virgen Santísima, Madre de Dios y Madre nuestra; Postrados ante vuestra venerada imagen, venimos a render a vuestro divino Hijo y contristado vuestro maternal don de todas nuestras culpas.

Por eso recurrimos a Vos que sois Madre de Misericordia, que a través de Vuestro pensamiento y nuestro corazón hacia Dios.

La verdad del asunto — concluye — por dificil que sea de entender, es que las masas no se identifican a sí mismas con la Iglesia. No asistimos a la Iglesia con nuestras vidas inmediatas y sus problemas diarios.
