LAY APOSTOLATE TAKES SPOTLIGHT AS DEBATE ON REVELATION ENDS

Unity Of Christendom Chief Goal, Council Affirms

By JAMES C. O'NEILL

VATICAN CITY (NO) — By overwhelming majorities the Ecumenical Council has initially approved the principles that lay the foundation for a more definite and fervent drive for Christian unity.

The council Fathers, in approving changes in the proposed decree on ecumenism, have affirmed that the restoration of unity among all Christians is one of the principal objects of the Second Vatican Council. They also affirmed that the Church as Christ desired it has unity and uniqueness as one of its main characteristics, that separated Christians in their churches and communities have many and precious Christian elements in not a few of which there can be a life of grace leading to salvation, and that the council exhorts Catholics to recognize the signs of our times and engage actively in the ecumenical movement.

With great majorities, the Fathers also passed changes in the ecumenism schema to include an expression of regret for past faults toward other churches and paroles for those who have offended the Church and also authorized the holding of some interfaith prayers and services.

The votes indicated a step toward the beginning of the drive to end divisions among Christians.

The council ended debate on the schema on Revelation this week and introduced a new one on the lay apostolate which emphasizes that laymen are not only in the Church but are the Church.

PRIESTS INVITE

During the meeting it was announced that some specially chosen priests will be admitted to the council during the discussion of the council proposition on the priesthood of Pope Paul VI's request.

Fernando Cardinal Conti of Rome, curia gave a 15-minute introduction to the lay apostolate schema.

Council With Great Speed Weighs Age-Old Problems

VATICAN CITY — As everyone knows, the Council is a fertile ground for raising rumors of all kinds, but the latest is that the third session will end probably a couple of weeks before the anticipated closing in November — is not bringing forth any flat denials. The reason for the hesitation is simple — the pace has been amazingly fast that apparently many of the bishops would not be too surprised if the agenda runs out of items for discussion or vote earlier than expected.

Not everybody is happy about this. Without doubt there is not an ordinary here who is not afraid to get back to the work of his diocese. However, after 96 General Congregations (daily meetings) in the past two years, the bishops are so deeply involved in the work and hopes and spirit of the Council that they are fearful lest anything impairs its force or slows down its momentum.

And some now make no bones about expressing their opinion that its tempo has been so rapid that profoundly important subjects, awaited for many years, even for generations, have come on the floor for discussion and with the well-oiled machinery of (Continued on Page 2)

Bishop Carroll Asks Support Of Community Fund Drives

To the Priests, Religious, and Faithful of the Diocese:

In many communities of our Diocese local citizens are conducting United Fund and Community Chest campaigns to raise funds for charitable and recreational activities.

The Catholic Charities participates in some of these campaigns. The Catholic Welfare Bureau, the St. Vincent Hall and Catholic Home for Children in Dade County, and the Catholic Service Bureau in Broward County each receive an allocation from the proceeds of this year's campaign.

I call upon all our Catholic people to do their part in these campaigns, both by their financial contributions and by giving freely of themselves as volunteers. This is an opportunity for all to do their share for the good of the community.

A Layman Gets Close Look 'Behind Scenes' At Council

(Ralph Renick, famed Miami Television commentator on Channel 4, was the guest of Bishop Coleman F. Carroll on a visit to the Ecumenical Council. In is the first of a series of two articles written for The Voice, he describes what a layman saw in a "look behind the scenes.")

ROME — "Exeunt Omnium" echoed the voice throughout the immense Basilica of St. Peter's.

Archbishop Pericli Felici, Secretary General of the Second Vatican Council was saying in Latin, "Let all of them go.

I turned to leave and reflected on what had been an exhilarating and historic experience for a Catholic layman attending the Council session for nearly an hour.

Here's how it happened:

While in Rome for a week, I telephoned Bishop Carroll at his hotel to check on Council activities. The Bishop, a man who gets to the point without wasting words, said without hesitation:

"Meet me in front of the U.S.O. on Via Della Conciliazione at 8:45. I'll see if I can get you into the Council." (It normally takes several days to get credentials for such a visit.)

As I waited in front of the U.S.O. on Via Della Conciliazione, the street leading into St. Peter's Square in Rome was the scene of a recent reunion for Bishop Coleman F. Carroll, right; Mgr. James J. Walsh, and Ralph Renick of St. James parish, N. Miami, vice president in charge of the news at television station WTVJ.

Article 9 deals with mutual authority and that of the hierarchy to spread the faith of Catholics. It states that the Fathers ask a conversion of the hierarchy to spread the faith of Catholics. There were those who wished to speak on forthcoming schemas were told to submit summaries by certain dates — Divine Revelation by September 30; the Apostolate of the Laity by October 2; and the Promises of the Church in the World Today by Oct. 2. Deadlines were also announced for all ad limina, which will be essay-questions and not discussions — on Oriental Churches, October 18; and the next day, four more bishops, each representing seventy other bishops, would be heard last year's approach incorporated into this year's text.

CONTRARY VIEW

A somewhat contrary view was expressed by the Rev. Cardinal of Antioch, who feared for the welfare of his people, that the bishops could be allowed to make a declaration in favor of the Jews. The Jews would be renewed in the Church. Sympathetic as bishops were to their possibility, most of them would be nevertheless acuate need to speak out against antisemitism.

Meanwhile, as the third day, the bishops again on six issues, including Article 31 of the third chapter of the Church, the proposal to restore a permanent Diaconate in the Church, the presence of the Church in the World. Voting continued on the Church. Bishop John Wright had a revised version of the Church's definition of the Church, and the idea that the Church was also a part of the Church. The bishops, as new booklets were distributed to the bishops no more than six times for discussion on articles of chapter 3 of the schema on the Church, dealing with the various aspects of episcopal power.

On the following Monday (the previous day's presentation being almost as long as the Fathers settled down to the long awaited debate), the first quarter of the interventions were made that day, ten of them by cardinals. They were representative of the U.S. The first two talks set the stage for the prolonged difference of view between Lille, France, thought the text's fault was that it was not strong enough in clearing the Jewish people as a whole of the guilt of the death of Our Lord, and along with most other bishops, he wanted last year's approach incorporated into this year's text.

the moderates, it was clear to hear, coming smoothly, quickly give place to other topics.

The above viewing is expressed in the third paragraph of the above text and, in a very important point of discussion, it is clear that while the Fathers must have been in favor of this approach, the bishops did not share the same opinion. The bishops were given more homework to do that night in preparation for the next day.

The rest of that morning was given over to the revision of the text and to the bishops, as new booklets were distributed in the morning, a little more than two hours after the Council began. It was then understood that the bishops had been caught up in the new title "Divine Revelation" and that the bishops now had a sense of "enlightenment" every day.

The bishops were given more homework to do that day. The text is a form of copies of various "revelations" for Chapters 5 - 6 of the schema on the Church, upon which they would vote in the afternoon.

The result of that morning was taken up with twenty talks on the Jesus question. These were general followed the mood expressed above, namely, that the Jesus question was one of the most important of the future, it is for various reasons. This brought the debate on the Jesus into a close one. The Vaticans Secretariat busy in incorporating into a revised text the suggestions made.

APPOINTED one of eight auditors at the Vatican Council from among religious orders of men is Very Reverend Mult. P. Joseph De Valera, Mother General of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, which forms the convent of the Sacred Heart, the text is acceptable because it provides adequate relationship to Scripture and Tradition and leaves open the controversial question of "the wider scope" of tradition over Scripture. Moreover, he felt it would be important to maintain the text in the Vaticans model for the controversial question in this Council.

These two views, rather than perfectly compromised, expressed the minds of most of the bishops. Behind their opinions is (1) the long and intensely interesting accounts of the rebirth of the Church just this past generation, which used scientific methods of approach never possible in the past centuries; and (2) the strongly believed fear of some because these very methods were forbidden to Scripture scholars from the reign of Pius X. On which eventually approved hearthly by Pius XII and his successors in a different era, some of the old school bishops and their disciples are opposed to them yet.

There will be much more about this in The Voice in weeks to come.

SIXTH CHAPTER

This section continued on the 6th chapter of the schema, Divine Revelation, on the meaning of Revelation, its transmission through human agents chosen by God: the inspiration and interpretation of the Scripture; the Old Testament; the New Testament, Scripture in the life of the Church.

It became obvious early in the interventions that not only bishops who had been troubled in Holy Scripture or Theology were capable of entering into the highly complex problems of scholarship now being raised.

Father Barnabas Abner, C.P., of the Holy Spirit, stated that one hundred years ago Scriptural interpretation was static, but now it is alive and dynamic and revealing its secrets far more than ever before. Father Abbot Butler said, although Tradition has more truth than Scripture, yet it is now under examination, the New Scriptural approach has given us a different view.

Hence in many talks there was a plea to leave controversial questions to the future, to encourage scholars to follow modern research which has a thrown such bright light on the Bible. In recent years and at the development of the post before attempting to settle disputed questions. Many others in dealing especially with the topic spoke of the vital importance of this subject in the minds of Protestants and Orthodox, and the h v. of the subject could be set back if premature decisions were made on these subjects now.

While this intense debate was going on, Monday, the bishops at the same time were casting votes of historic significance on the 1st chapter of the revised schema on Eucharistic (Christian) unity discussed through the year last year. Explanation of the schema was done first. It was stated that the text neither ignores nor attempts to solve the difficulties facing the union.

Stress was placed on the in question to highlight the things that were common rather than what divides us.

BISHOPS' APPROVAL

The above indicates that the vast majority of the bishops' approval of the ideas expressed in this section of the chapter, namely, the promotion of unity as one of the principal aims of the Council, that there is only a single Ecumenical Movement, entered into by various churches, that that a Council is not a static formula but a movement inspired by the Holy Spirit; that Christ founded not more than one Church and willend to be redeemed through the Eucharist.

Papers headline the mention of rifts between Protessants and Catholics in the past the statement "not without fault of people on both sides."

On Tuesday, the debate on Revolution ended. But there was no breather, for Cardinal Cento immediately introduced the schema on the Law, another one of the most important topics in the Council. We hear that at least ninety bishops have already submitted summaries of their talks on the holy.

STANDING AT their desk before resuming their work in St. Peter's, the auditors are the four Moderators of the Vatican Council.

OUTLINES APOSTOLIC ACTIVITY FOR LAITY

Lay Apostolate Schema Summary Given

VATICAN CITY (NC) — The following summary of the schema on the lay apostolate, introduced during the last session of the Council on Oct. 6, has been released here.

The lay apostolate schema aims at fulfilling the necessity of the laity’s apostolic activity, at enunciating principles governing it and providing pastoral directives which can make it more effective.

The schema consists of an introduction and five sections.

1. The laity’s share in the mission of the Church

2. The apostolic tasks which are the duty of each and every one

3. Training for the apostolate

4. In different milieux

5. The secular vocation in its tendency toward Christ

The first section establishes the principle that all members of the Church, whether clerics or laymen, can function actively, each in his own manner, in the mission of the Church, which is to continue the work of Christ on earth. Cooperating in the salvation of all men is the honor and duty of every member of the Church and is accomplished first by prayer and personal holiness.

At the same time, an apostolic spirit must animate the whole of human activity, and it is by its lives that Christians are witnesses to the presence of Christ in the world.

The poor should be the special concern of the apostolate and social conditions should be remedied which will make human life possible and easy.

Training in the apostolate comprises both spiritual and doctrinal elements, as well as a knowledge of the world as far as this is possible. The hope is expressed that aside from parents, teachers, priests and catechists, laymen may be opened to all the members of the Church and to lead them to God. Especially if the bishops do not inspire them to become Catholic without the implant of Catholicism, the laity must promote whatever is beneficial to the Church.

The second section of the schema deals with the principles governing it and stresses the importance of the organized apostolate. Noting the existence of various organized forms of the lay apostolate, the schema recognizes the freedom of the laity to associate themselves with their own spiritual leaders and assume responsibilities imposed in each person.

Section four deals with the laity’s participation in the apostolate proper to the hierarchy, they are to be deputed by the Bishop in ecclesiastical authority.

In cases in which the lay apostolate is to be carried out in an organized way, the principles governing it must be clearly defined. These cannot be explained in a new article (17) dealing with the entire content of the New Testament.

Cardinal Gracias spoke on the lay apostolate and the second general congregation on Oct. 6, and the Cardinal’s group has been charged with discussing the question of the lay apostolate and the principle of organizing the Church’s apostolate in a new article (17) dealing with the entire content of the New Testament.

The schema exhorts pastors, bishops and priests to recognize the place which belongs to the laity and emphasizes the necessity of the overall coordination of apostolic efforts. It even provides for organizing an apostolic movement in Rome to function as an effective organ and research center at the service of the hierarchy and laity.

Lastly, collaboration with the laity in all apostolic tasks a Christian alike, is recommended to stress the value of the common patrimony which is found in the Gospel or in human values.

Pope Paul Receives 70 American Physicians, Stresses Ethics

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope Paul VI held an audience for 70 members of the New England Obstetrical and Gynecological Society and urged them always to remember Christian ethics in defending the life of unborn infants.

Speaking in English, the Pope said: “We are certain that the conquest of your professional function will illuminate and guide your skillful medical art and will enable you, in biologic practice, you will always recall the principles of ethics and the laws that raise their highest and most exigent expression, particularly who is in charge to the life of each human being.”

The Pope quoted Pope Pius XII (in his radio address of Dec. 9, 1953) who said: “The human life, no matter in what condition, is from the first instant of conception to be cared from every direct voluntary attack. This is a fundamental principle of every human law.”

Pope Paul said he is well aware of the complexities and problems connected with these principles, but said “we cherish and put into practice the moral authority of the Church.”

This personal meeting gives rise to thoughts of the delusory, gravity and dignity of your profession, with the care and protection of all life, all its biological foundations, where it merges with that ontological foundation which springs forth from the creating hands of God.

"We render homage to your sacred vocation and the secret work of your good work, bound up as it is, with the care and protection of all life, all its biological foundations, where it merges with that ontological foundation which springs forth from the creating hands of God."

Layman Visits The Council

Peter's Square, I was reminded that Bishop Carroll's brother, the late Monsignor Walter Carroll, had founded the U.S.O. in Rome in 1944. Msgr. Carroll had been with General Mark Clark's forces during the rugged journey up the Italian peninsula battling the entrenched German troops.

When the allied forces entered Rome, General Clark at Msgr. Carroll's request, designated the Villa Della Conciliazione structure for use by the National Catholic Community Service which operates the U.S.O. center.

LONG-STANDING TIES

The Carroll family has long standing ties with the Vatican. Msgr. Carroll worked in the Secretary of State's office for many years with the then Msgr. Montini who rose to the Papacy.

The Bishop's older brother, the late Bishop Howard Carroll for years served as Secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and made many trips to the Vatican representing the Bishops of the United States.

Promptly at 8:45, Bishop Carroll's car pulled alongside the curb. "Hop in," he said, "we'll see if we can get you inside St. Peter's." The plan was for Cardinal Agagianian falling into line and would show the way I noticed bearded Gregario Francois Marty of Rheims, a bonafide admittee to the Council's inner Sanctum of St. Peter's Basilica.

REACH ST. PETER'S

The car pulled to a stop at Santa Maria Porta Pia — the side door of St. Peter's reserved exclusively for the Church hierarchy. "Now, stick close to me," said Bishop Carroll, "the tough part is yet to come."

Other automobiles were pulling hurriedly at the door. Ahead of us was Augustin Cardinal Bea, private confessor to Pope Pius XII and the outstanding figure in the quest of Christian unity. We walked to the entrance way I noticed bearded Gregario Francois Marty of Rheims giving a step behind us.

At each guard station, the heads of the Vatican forces clicked in attention as they recognized Bishop Carroll's purple cassock and the zucchetto on his head.

"Now, stick close to me," said Bishop Carroll. "The tough part is yet to come."

As we walked to the entrance way I noticed bearded Gregario Francois Marty of Rheims, a benedict and member of the Council.

All about were recognizable faces of the men who but a short time ago stood a chance to become the successor to Pope John XXIII.

Also recognizable was the stony face of the Vatican secret service man poised at the entrance door. I was walking beside the Bishop who nodded and smiled at the agent.

I looked straight ahead to assume the confident expression of a man who really belonged there.

I was walking beside and entered St. Peter's.

Cardinal Cushing, I'd like to have you meet my friend from Miami," said Bishop Carroll. I think I managed to blurt out something like "Nice to meet you, Your Eminence." Distinguished and famous faces of the Church were at every side.

"This is Father Placid Jordan, a Benedictine from Germany," said the Bishop. "During World War II he was a prisoner of war in the camp in Poland and not to rise and say, "Will the chairman yield?"

As the Mass continued, the voices of the Sistine choir filled St. Peter's. Protestant and other religious groups were present in the long aula of St. Peter's. Protestant and other religious groups were present in the long aula of St. Peter's.

Vatican II Decisions Give

VATICAN CITY — The question has often been asked by both Catholics and non-Catholics: “If unity among Christians is to come, will it be because Protestants will have made all the doctrinal concessions and made the major efforts and finally come, as it were, with their hat in their hand, ready to be reunited?”

A few years ago, perhaps the majority of people, if they thought of it at all, had a vague idea that this is the way it would happen. Traditionally, we had assumed that for centuries, as Pope John pointed out, with little more positive effort than prayers at the annual Church Unity Octave and intense efforts to make formal conversions.

So if Pius XII just six years ago had given the talk delivered by Pope Paul last week to the Protestant and Orthodox observers, both Catholics and Protestants would have found it hard to believe and surely it would have been on the front pages of every paper.

But now, in the light of Pope John’s amazing gift for putting Christian leaders to work and Pope Paul’s startling request for forgiveness for wrongs done in the past, the Holy Father said a few days ago brings hope to us that there has been a much more incredible revival in the church’s attitude toward reunion.

The passive attitude of four centuries is gone. The Church has taken the active role, and giving the direction, to the hope for unity. This was never more in evidence than last week when Pope Paul warmly welcomed the observers as “his beloved and lawful brothers” and reminded them that their annual meeting with him brought with it a satisfaction “more lively and trusting than ever.”

He spoke of their “common aim,” namely, “full and true unity in Jesus Christ,” rejoiced with them that the diffidence and skepticism of the past had been “mostly bridged over” and “a new friendship has been founded.” He repeated the desire of the church to have this “dialogue” with the separated brethren, but pointed out that the church “is not in haste,” being content to get it started, and then leave the rest to the grace of God.

Not so long ago, no one would have dreamed that a group of non-Catholic scholars would ask the Pope to found “an institute of study and discussion,” but these observers did. And the Pope liked the idea so much, he promised to make it a reality in memory of his trip to the Holy Land.

In reviewing the Catholic attitude towards the Ecumenical movement, Pope Paul, as Pope John was accustomed to do, pointed out what can never be forgotten in the quest of unity, namely, that the Church cannot change or compromise on any doctrine of faith.

But lest this necessary caution give the idea to some that the church, as in the past will take a merely passive attitude toward unity, Pope Paul hastened to add that we can do many other things of positive value to remove difficulties and misunderstandings.

Immediately as an example, he stated his approval for Catholic scholars to attend non-Catholic conferences or meetings, so that our representatives may acquire the knowledge necessary for eventual reunion.

And perhaps most surprising of all, the Pope and Protestant and Orthodox scholars took a long step towards spiritual unity by saying together for the first time the Lord’s prayer.

Meanwhile in the Council Chamber, “many other things of positive value are being done.” The common Bible was spoken of as a reality. In January it will be available, bearing the Imprint of the bishop of Edinburgh. It is the work of Protestant scholars, but all of our sacred books, including the seven Old Testament books not in the Protestant Bible, are included, so Catholics will have no reason for hesitation.

A new translation, the combined efforts of Catholic and Protestant scholars for the first time, is underway in the United States.

Moreover, looking back on the various topics discussed in the council this session, one can see at once that the thought of eventual unity has dictated the attitude of many bishops in their talks. Never has it been a question of re-publishing any doctrine defined by the church but many have been strongly against a new definition, lest Protestants and Orthodox be turned further away.

It was obvious in the discussion on Chapter 8 of the Church, Our Lady, when many bishops felt that the title, “Mediatrix,” should not be used, insisting that the time is not ripe for the teaching involved.

Likewise in the matter of collegiality, it was obvious that this doctrine embraced profound ecumenical consideration, since the idea of the bishops sharing in the government of the church with the Pope gave them a new and clearer image of the church.

So too in the current discussion on divine revelation, attitudes are being determined and formed with the problems of unity in mind, leaving open controversial questions on Scripture and Tradition for future treatment after theologians have had more time for research and discussion.

So when unity comes, obviously it will not be because Protestants or the Orthodox will have been forced, by their attitudes are being determined and formed with the problems of unity in mind, leaving open controversial questions on Scripture and Tradition for future treatment after theologians have had more time for research and discussion.

FR. SHEERIN

VATICAN CITY — At the Paulist Church of St. Augustine in Rome, a few days before his air-trip talk in the Council on religious Liberty, Cardinal Cushing emphasized that protection of religious liberty is the way to a true friendship between Catholics and non-Catholics.

He told the assembled that the Catholic Church should have a privileged place in the modern world.

Violently criticized the clash of viewpoints with Dr. Douglas, former head of Harvard Divinity School. He told him that he would preach religious liberty as loud as St. Peter’s that he would be heard back at Harvard.

When he stood up in the vast basilica to urge adoption of that principle, he said the Catholic Church should have a privileged place in the modern world.

Said that the world is becoming increasingly pluralistic in religion, and religious liberty is the fundamental requisite for peaceful common life in a pluralistic society.

The Church once opposed religious liberty (as advocated by rationalists) but now it realized how necessary it is to safeguard the rights of non-Catholics because there have been too few non-Catholics around.

These bishops have taken it for granted that the Catholic religious liberty course should have a privileged position in their countries, and that dissenters should be looked upon as foreign troublemakers.

The Rome Daily American described the clash of viewpoints between Spanish and Italian bishops on the one hand and American, Canadian, South American bishops on the other, as “a dramatic encounter of the views of the new world against the old.”

As against the background of American history and trac’d on, Cardinal Cushing can do, 3, that protection of religious liberty adds the national welfare, but Cardinal Cushing spoke against a radically different historical and theological background when he said, according to the official Council press release: “It is not lawful to admit freedom to spread a religion when this may harm the unity of a Catholic nation and culminate in weakening it.”

The average American Catholic, in brief, may be excused by the attention the Council is giving to religious liberty. To the American, religious liberty is almost as natural as the air he breathes.

Cardinal Meyer said in the council that a declaration on religious liberty is necessary to insure fruitful dialogue with our separated brethren. “We must give to others what we claim for ourselves.”

On the practical level, no topic discussed in the council can be considered more important than that of religious liberty. VATICAN CITY—How does the news about the Ecclesiastical Council get to the daily papers? Is it accurate? Is the press telling the true story of the council? Are the correspondents in Rome now satisfied with the cooperation they are getting from the Vatican Press officials?

Now that the third session of the council is well along and the account of conciliar activities daily goes over the wires to the ends of the earth, it may be interesting to give one observer's views on these questions.

If the council news is slim and spotty in your home paper, it is not because of any lack of news being reported. All the major wire services and many top-flight newspapers send little or no news at all. A number of weekly news magazines are represented here, some of them with more than one correspondent. In the English press section, one finds among many others Father Charles Hinni, O.F.M., director, the National Catholic Reporter; Father John C. Naughton, O.S.B., director; Father Francis C. MacNeil, O.F.M., director; and Father Francis J. McCool, S.J., Pontifical Biblical Institute, Rome. Members of the panel absent when the picture was taken are Msgr. Francis A. Clooney, S.J., Father Robert Trione, Catholic University of America. The press panel, limited to working journalists attracts more than 500 writers serving the English-speaking countries of the world.

Father Francis J. McQuilkin, C.S.B., head of the English-speaking section of the press office, reads to a press conference on the news being sent out. He and the other eight language heads have been busy in the last few days of the session talking and to give an accurate, clear and authoritative account. It is not unusual for one peritus to con-
Week after week we appeal for a little sacrifice even though it may be a dollar. How encouraged we are to learn of some of our fellow Catholics in America who give not just what they have, but what they are. Take the case of Dr. Waldo Hann. After practicing seven years as an orthopedic surgeon, he gave up his practice in 1962 and for two years worked in a leper settlement in Africa. He and his good wife who assisted him, worked without salary and during their stay there endowed themselves to the lepers by their charity, their kindness and their attention.

For two years Doctor Hann has done the following operations:
1. Reconstructive surgery on 67 claw hands.
2. Reconstructive surgery on 50 deformed feet.
3. He grafted 46 ulcers — some of which had been running for years.
4. He corrected 60 limp deformities of leprosy, medicinal and post-polio origin.
6. He treated 600 leper ulcers.

He has also trained a sister-doctor to do operations for claw hands and deformed feet.

I offer Mass here in Rome every Sunday for all those who suffer themselves to the passion of Christ by a gift to the Holy Father for the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. In Rome, I have discovered that the needs of the Missions are even greater than ever before suspected. Never, perhaps, in the history of the Church there have been gathered together so many who have suffered for Christ and the Church as there are in this Council. Simply because I am away, I do not think that those who make a sacrifice for Holy Mass, leprosy sufferer and apostolate less demanding. May the Holy Spirit inspire each priest and each of the faithful who reads this to make some sacrifice, however small, in order that the needs of the missionaries and the Church in the poor parts of the world may be met. Just remember that when you help the Society for the Propagation of the Faith you help all religious organizations and communities through the Holy Father who is the father of them all.

GOD LOVE YOU to you, for $2.00 I have a grandson studying for the priesthood and a granddaughter who is a nun. This is something small in gratitude for something very large.

... to Dr. M.P. McC, for $10.00 “I couldn’t tear up your MISSION magazine, especially that wonderful verse on the last page, without sending in an offering. I weep for the starving people in the world — starving for knowledge of God as well. This very small offering is in thanksgiving for a favor granted by God. There will be many more.”

MISSION combines the best features of all other magazines: stories, pictures, statistics, details, and human interest. Take an interest in your brothers living in the missions world. Let us know if you wish to be put on our mailing list for this bi-monthly magazine. A subscription is only one dollar.

Debate on Jews Played Up
In Newspapers of Israel

JERUSALEM, Israel (NC) — Israeli newspapers are giving complete coverage to the debate in the ecumenical council on the proposed Jewish declaration.

There has been no government statement on the matter, but public opinion has become more favorable since the Israeli bishop asked for a synodal council statement clearing the Jews of the charge of deicide.

The newspapers were passing off the opposition of bishops from Arab nations as nothing more than a political gesture to their home governments.

The Hebrew-language newspaper, Omer, praised Aquinas Cardinal Bea, president of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, and declared the bishops must "determine whether they want their religion to be the source of contempt and rejection, or a religion of love and brotherhood." The paper editorialized:

"Every place in the world has an alliance between local anti-Semitism and anti-Islamic Arabs," it said.

Syria Protests Proposed Council Statement on Jews

BEIRUT, Lebanon (NC) — Syrian Premier Sabah al-Hasheen has protested to the Vatican against the proposed statement at the ecumenical council declaring the Jews of the charge of deicide in the crucifixion of Christ.

A Syrian government source in Damascus on Sunday that Cardinal Bea had his proposal cleared by the council's dogmatic committee.

The newspaper has been running a campaign for a declaration of the presence of Jewish members in the council.

At the same time, Alas, the new newspaper of the anti-Baath party, said the Syrian government will bring a declaration of the presence of Jewish representatives who are members of the council's dogmatic committee.

FATHER HENNESSEY, JUDGE DOWNEY ADDRESS CONVENTION

Materialism Scored In Holy Name Talk

that "the crisis is at hand ... the decision has to be made. Are we to choose Christ or are we going to choose materialism?"

"The time for war is past," said Father Hennessey, adding: "there is something more now. This challenge to America given by Almighty God is to carry Christ to the world."

Mgr. Barry spoke to the convention delegates in a sermon at a Mass which was attended by the delegates at the seminary chapel.

Mgr. Barry said Bishop John F. Carroll had sent greetings to the Holy Name men from Rome where he is attending sessions of Vatican Council II.

Mgr. Barry said Bishop Car- roll appealed to the Holy Name men to become "leaders in their respective parishes" in putting the new changes in the Mass into effect.

Pointing out that there may be some objections among the laity to the reading of the epistle and gospel by laymen, Mgr. Barry said Holy Name men should be prepared to meet these objections by explaining to the laity just why it is being done.

Mgr. Barry stressed that Holy Name societies are the results of decisions by Bishops representing the entire Church and that the official teaching authority of the Church and not the result of just a few men making a decision.

"It is the right of the Church to teach us how to worship at Mass," said Mgr. Barry.

"Barry called it a "great opportunity for Holy Name men in each parish to show their great love for God" by helping in carrying out the new changes in the Liturgy.

Holy Name Membership In Diocese Is Now 8,708

There are a total of 8,708 men on the rolls of Holy Name Societies in the Diocese of Miami.

This was disclosed at the Diocesan Union of Holy Name Societies convention held last Sunday at St. John Vianney Seminary.

In reporting on the results of the month-long membership drive conducted last spring by the Holy Name Societies, Edward Atkins, chairman of the drive, told the convention delegates that he felt certain the goal of 10,000 members would have been reached if all of the 73 parishes that have Holy Name Societies had reported in.

The 8,708 figure represented the total number of men in the parishes reporting.

SAIGON (N.C.) — It's all one operation.

A Buddhist bone gives hot political "sermons" over loudspeakers, night after night in Saigon, Students in Saigon and Hue stage demonstrations to make the GVN government heed to their political demands.

"People's Committees for National Salvation," organized by a coterie of leftist professors and students, usurp the powers of local governments, threaten people and arrest them.

False rumors are spread to make Catholics think that Buddhists are going to attack the churches, to make Buddhists think that Catholics are about to burn down pagodas.

Meanwhile the dull thud of guns by night tells that the "liberation operation for South Vietnam" forces, the communist Viet Cong, are attacking outposts and villages.

These are all parts of one operation, one concerted, multiple offensive to "liberate South Vietnam and its allies, especially the U.S.," to convert, pressure and eliminate what these activities are treated as separate, unrelated deeds, in the name of the "people's will."%

Everybody taking part in them is not consciously prepared to fight against religion, because not every type of fight against religion is worthy of a Marxist. It should be a scientific fight, forcing itself to assume the true nature and, according to the changing circumstances of time and place, the problems of the religious conscience, its contents and its roots in the masses.

"It appears from the text quoted, the thing that counts for Lenin is knowing how to fight against religion, because not every type of fight against religion is worthy of a Marxist. It should be a scientific fight, forcing itself to assume the true nature and, according to the changing circumstances of time and place, the problems of the religious conscience, its contents and its roots in the masses."

The leader of these "People's Committees," Dr. Le Kha Quyen, has a reputation as a leftist. He and his colleagues published a new method of fighting which adjusts itself scientifically to the antigovernment weekly review, "Lao Trong (Vieoples)," in which the anti-Catholic anti-American, neutralist, neutralist, Thich Tri Quang, has written.

Dr. Quyen's group also published a broadsheet, which is illegal committee arrested or nada, Thach Dan (Struggle). Their students in Hue are strongly opposed to them. They published a paper entitled Luc Leung, meaning Peace.

The professor or doctor who accepts a neutralist argument does not realize that neutralism, as advocated by the Viet Cong communists, would only clear the way for communist rule.

JESUIT PERIODICAL SAYS REDS STILL AIM TO DOWN RELIGION

ROME (N.C.) — A leading Italian Jesuit periodical suggests that the communist party remains intent on destroying religion despite, or perhaps because of, the victory of Palmo Togliatti, Italian communist chief who died in August, that the old atheistic propaganda is no use.

Catholic See, Jesuit fortight-neglected periodical, said that the section on religion in the 4,000-word memorandum written by Togliatti shortly before he died does not go against the teachings of V. I. Lenin. It said the corner stone of the communist outlook on religion is the Marxist concept that religion is the "opium of the people." This was supported by Lenin in 1919 and upheld by the Italian Communist party in 1932, it said.

The magazine said: "As it appears from the text quoted, the thing that counts for Lenin is knowing how to fight against religion, because not every type of fight against religion is worthy of a Marxist. It should be a scientific fight, forcing itself to assume the true nature and, according to the changing circumstances of time and place, the problems of the religious conscience, its contents and its roots in the masses."

This was a reference to the fact that the justices, putting aside their usual custom of writing separate opinions, combined their decisions in a single big opinion setting up standards for the application of the law in roughly 600 cases.

By RUSSELL SHAW
WASHINGTON (NC) — The U.S. Supreme Court opened its 1964-65 term today with a big decision on the constitutionality of the 1963 South Carolina segregation law. The court ruled that the law is constitutional, thereby upholding the segregation policy of the state's public schools.

The court's decision in the case of McSweeney v. State of South Carolina, 373 U.S. 184, is a major victory for the segregationists in the state. The decision provides a basis for the continuation of the segregated school system in South Carolina and will likely be used as a precedent in other segregation cases across the United States.

The court's ruling in this case is significant because it upholds the principle of segregation and provides a legal basis for the continued existence of segregated schools. The decision is likely to be seen as a setback for the civil rights movement and a victory for those who opposed desegregation.

The legal arguments in the case were presented by Attorney General J. Arne Carlson, who argued that the state's segregation policy is consistent with the state's constitution and laws. The court agreed with his arguments and ruled in favor of the state.

The decision in this case is an important example of how the Supreme Court can weigh in on controversial issues and make decisions that have long-lasting implications for the country. The decision in the McSweeney v. State of South Carolina case is a reminder of the complex and often contentious issues that the court must grapple with as it considers the constitutionality of laws and policies.

Hialeah — A Corporate Communion will be held at the 9 a.m. Mass Sunday at St. John the Apostle Church by the Holy Name Society.

Following the Mass, an enrollment ceremony will be held for the new members in the church.

A reception for the new members will be held in the parish hall after the enrollment ceremony. Refreshments will be served.

Former Chaplain At Barry Returns After 20 Years

Dr. Justin C. Steurer, professor of theology and psychology at Marymount College, Bocca Raton, will be the guest lecturer during the first presentation of the Barry College Culture Series on Sunday, Oct. 11, at 8:15 p.m. in the college auditorium.

"Mental Health and the Christian" will be the topic of Dr. Steurer who holds master and doctoral degrees in theology and psychology from Catholic University of America.

He did graduate work at Oxford University, England, and at Fordham University, N.Y.

His pre-professional training was unique insofar as he purposefully combined an undergraduate major in speech and drama with this theology and psychology to provide his teaching with the character of dramatic effectiveness that his ideas would warrant.

Prior to joining the staff at Marymount College, Dr. Steurer was a member of the faculty at Mount Mercy College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and at the Mercy School of Nursing there for five years.

Dr. Steurer has been a contributor to many American periodicals and at present is working on a book on marriage. In addition he is a painter and sculptor and last year exhibited some of his paintings at Marymount College.

La Doctrina Social y Política de la Iglesia trata de los problemas sociales el alumno tendrá la oportunidad de participar activamente en el movimiento Ecuménico.

Algunos investigadores contemporáneos han debilitado las pretensiones de los movimientos de liberación como la Iglesia Sagrada y que eran dañinos a los creyentes.

En la sección 94 del Concilio, 15 oradores comentaron los capítulos 3 al 6 del esquema sobre la Revelación. El punto focal del tema trató sobre la historicidad de algunos de los Evangelios y que se puede y debe ser por las investigaciones científicas modernas en su interpretación. Entre los que favorecieron el uso de los movimientos modernos se contaron el Cardenal Alberto Meyer de Chicago, y el Obispo Auxiliar de Louisville, Kentucky, Charles G. Mullen y algunos Obispos de Irlanda e Italia expresaron el temor de que la interpretación de algunos investigadores modernos debilitaran la fe de los creyentes.

El Cardenal Agustín Bea, prefecto del secretariado para promover la Unidad Cristiana, pidió un mayor esfuerzo en el Antiguo Testamento y criticó el texto de la pascua por su vaguedad y oscuridad.

Por un voto mayoritario de 2,994 contra 1 los Padres del Concilio aceptaron una enmienda para añadir un párrafo introductorio al texto original del esquema sobre ecumenismo.

La Verdadera Libertad

Por Manolo Reyes

El ser humano mientras más se aleja de sus principios, cuando más se hunde en la codicia de ganancias, más esclavo se torna por su falta de voluntad.

La libertad es un regalo de Dios al espíritu humano. Por eso la libertad puede estar en el campo de una sola persona, fija, en el tiempo, sin retraso, más en el campo del espíritu humano, fijo, en la tierra, sin lealtad que la de sus propios humedales, directo a la libertad humana, sin poder los hombres pueden vivir la permanente y misteriosa vida de los ángeles, brillando con la misa y el alma para siempre, la eternidad.

En la eternidad, el ser humano puede afrontar con energía valiente pero con una reflexión interna, los lamentos supremos de la vida, y particularmente, de la muerte. Cada persona tiene que comprender que el espíritu de su alma y el de su destino. Nadie hará por él la respuesta que sólo él podrá hacer.

Es interna la verdadera libertad, allí donde no alcanza la materia y el principio de unirse en la fiera voluntad, con los ojos clavados en la eternidad.

" Grito de Libertad **"

El 10 de Octubre de 1868 marco el inicio de la Gran Guerra de Independencia que el pueblo cubano lanzo contra el poderío español, considerado por muchos observadores de aquella época como el primer de Europa.

Un grupo de cubanos, tales como Peruchó Figueredo, Maceo Ossorio y Francisco Vicente Aguilar, escabullidos por Carlos Manuel de Céspedes, se levantaron en armas dentro del territorio cubano. Antonio Maceo, Ignacio Agramonte, Maximino Gómez y Calixto Garcia habían de hacer las armas. Céspedes, considerando como el Padre de la Patria de los cubanos, había sido informado que debía adelantar el inicio de la guerra hacia el 10 de octubre.

La revolución que comenzó el 10 de octubre estuvo caracterizada por estar formada por las dos clases que en aquel entonces constituían el pueblo cubano: los ricos, como Céspedes, Figueredo, Agramonte, y los pobres, como los negros esclavos y los campesinos cubanos.

Por diez largos años los mambises cubanos lucharon contra ejércitos españoles perfectamente adiestrados y equipados, infatigables guerreros destrucción. En 1878 se firmó la capitulación, mas esclavo se quedó el pueblo cubano.

Al romper el alba del 10 de octubre de 1868, Cespedes tornó el principio rumián para cuatro días más tarde. De ahí que la guerra fijada para cuatro días después. De ahí que la independencia.

Los mambises cubanos de aquella época como el primero de Europa. Al fin los ideales que forjaron el hecho histórico del Grito de Libertad, el 10 de octubre de 1868, fueron alcanzados. La libertad, considerada como Cespedes, Figueredo, Agramonte, y los pobres, como el Padre de la Patria Cubana, habia sido informado que debía adelantar el inicio de la guerra hacia el 10 de octubre. EL ARTE DE VIVIR

"No Cambia la Iglesia en su Oposición al Comunismo".—RV

"Aforada Cuba"

Por FR. MAURICIO DE BOGUHA

No es por casualidad que en el principio y en la organización del espectáculo "Aforada Cuba" ha estado un sereno. Es que la vida religiosa alcanza todas las manifestaciones del alma individual y del alma de un pueblo, y en las ocasiones en que esa alma o ese pueblo se encuentra en un trance excepcional, el sentido religioso, católico, divino se apodera de todo el espacio humano, incluyendo las más apartadas y profundas, y las eleva a la categoría de arte. Es una verdad social política y patrística, y hasta, diríamos, de rito religioso.

Es el caso del "Aforada Cuba". Una familia americana, de tantas como hay llenas de bondad para con los cubanos, preguntada, en la octava representación del espectáculo, que "¿Por qué "Aforada Cuba"?". Los problemas sociales que tiene. En el tiempo, el tiempo inmesurable, que no acaba con un solo artista, sino un especial conocimiento, una experiencia irreproducible y un afecto incomunicable. En el caso de "Aforada Cuba", también los americanos saben lo que es su "home-sickness". Culturalmente todos tenemos el universal voraz gringo "nostalgia" que implica conocimiento de identificación, visión amorosa y un poco triste y, sobre todo, amor que tiene memoria y permanece fiel.

Pero el espectáculo "Aforada Cuba" supera todo esto. No se trata de un festín falso, aunque modestamente se anuncia. Es, ni aproximadamente siquiera, un ra- to musical dedicado a la melancolía dulce de rememorar y revivir tiempos pasado, a la poesía y al mismo tiempo inasolables de momento — Cuba está ahí, a la vuelta del mar y del sol de la Florida —. No se intenta tampoco aunque sea de brillantes colores, reflexión y reminiscencias de canciones y músicas que son celebradas por la redondez de la tierra. Basta ver a los cubanos y cubanas que hacen en el festival o que acuden a presentar su obra, para darse cuenta de que se trata de temas de los que la época es moderna. Pero se hace visible con una especial hermosura que nos pone y nos hace felices y mejores.

Cuanos veces pronunciamos y escuchamos en el día, en cada uno de ellos, palabras como esta palabra: "GRACIAS". Sin embargo hay ocasiones en que esta palabra no alcanza a expresar el agradecimiento que adquiere por pequeños verdaderamente sublimes. Jamás podrá olvidar el día en que un amigo — al cual había tenido que insistir ansioso para que acudiera al círculo cuya clausura abaca de realizarse desde 15 días, de que no se le hubiera ofrecido esa maravillosa sensibilidad con que solo pueden expresarse grandes sensaciones, con que solo puede expresarse el más hermoso manejo de agración y cariño que se ha encontrado en el día. Mi vida... "GRACIAS!"

Colombianos en Miami: Núcleo Importante

Por Manolo Reyes

La colonia colombiana es una de las más importantes en la Década de Miami. Esta gran representación de la República de Colombia en el exterior es atendida por el Consulado General de Colombia en Miami, el cual tiene como objetivo promover y fortalecer las relaciones comerciales, culturales y educativas entre Colombia y los Estados Unidos.

El señor Nichols, director del Consulado General, ha decidido proponer un cambio en el nombre de la ciudad de Miami, sugiriendo que se llame así en honor a la famosa ciudad de Medellín, en Colombia. Este cambio se basa en la idea de fomentar lazos culturales y económicos entre Colombia y los Estados Unidos.

ACTUALIDAD LATINOAMERICANA

La siguiente información se publica en la traducción de una emisión en el periódico español "El País" (24 de julio de 1964). Colombia ha dado otro paso importante en su política de promoción de la Unión Soviética para establecer las mejores relaciones con las naciones del hemisferio sur. Se espera que este movimiento se extienda a otras naciones de América Latina.

Un grupo de monjas Carmelitas Descalzas, que operan Radio y TV República, en Bogotá, han llegado a Miami para estrechar las relaciones entre ambas ciudades. El padre McCabe, especialista en Radio y TV, se encuentra en Miami para tratar de establecer una relación con las autoridades locales.

¿Es Pecado Comer Carne?

"Quisiera que me explicaran que pecado hay en comer carne, ya que pienso que no tienen relación la abstención con la virtud."

En primer lugar en comer carne no hay ningún pecado. En segundo lugar, la Iglesia manda en algunos días abstenlo de carne en memoria de Cristo Redentor. Por lo tanto desobedeces a la Iglesia en esto, si constituye pecado.

¿Por Qué no Comulguemos con Vino?

"Desearia la siguiente aclaración: si Jesucristo dijo "el que come mi carne y bebe mi sangre, tiene vida eterna", y en otro pasaje "bebed de este caliz", ¿por qué nosotros consumimos también con el caliz?"

Es de fe y la Iglesia nos enseña que en cualquiera de las dos especies se recibe el cuerpo y la sangre de Cristo. Según los tiempos y costumbres se ha permitido la consumición de estas especies.

¿Basto con Obrar Bien?

"Tengo un amigo cuya filosofía en la vida es que sólo importan obras bien hechas, y que la fe y el dogma no cuentan nada. ¿Es cierto o falso?"

Es falso. A este respecto el Padre Vilaflo en su libro "Puntos de Catechismo" expresa que Jesucristo nos manda estar y tener como norma de vida sus doctrinas y dogmas, y que la Iglesia católica, como depositaria de este legado, debe enseñarlas. Además, sin fe no puede haber fundamentos de la moral ni conocimiento de ella.

FORT PIERCE — Central Catholic High School celebrated the seniority of the school year, the Junior Victory Dance, held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, was a thorough success, according to the Junior President Dave Taylor.

Proceeds from the dance will go towards the Junior-Senior Prom held in the Spring.

Saturday means ceramics and uses began last Saturday morning with Rose Marie and Mary Lee Nolette, Mary and Rachel Scotty, Mary Driscoll, Barbara Mohler and Ingrid Gehl, and many more in attendance. These art students will sculpture their own molds, glaze and fire them. Christmas shopping will be no problem for these talented students; they will also make gifts that are truly creative!

The Latin Club of C. C. H. held elections and Andy Corr nell was chosen First Counsel, assisted by Mary Scotty, Second Counsel.

The Senior division of the Latin Club, as part of their enrichment program, prepared a skitent to "The Play of Daniel," a twelfth century musical drama, at the Latin, directed by Noah Greenberg and the Pre Musical Society of New York.

Scrolling past the Science Lab these days one sees orange and lemon trees which will be planted at the new high school. The Biology class is being asked to help with the landscaping and under the guidance of Sister Mary Barbara O.P., underclassmen Marsha Jenke, Barbara Cornelle, Carol Sales, and Stephanie Tsoumanis are showing their horticultural skill.

CARROLLTON

BY SUSAN BAUMAN GLENN

We are all very proud at Carrollton of the Mother General of the Society of the Sacred Heart.

Very Reverend Mother Sabine de Valon appointed one of our own, top athletic clergy, as American Council from among the religious orders of women.

Last Friday evening William Fastel's "Intruder in the Dust" was shown at Carrollton. Many of the older girls, their parents and friends atten ted and all were impressed by this fine film for one reason or another — the race question.

Freshman initiation began on Monday, and the girls in our first Academy gathered at their desks at the back and call of the first period. One assembly was given to make the official reception of the Freshman class high school.

The theme was a fashion show — and what hysterical fashions were shown! The "modesty" required of brides was far more than school girls. The show was a complete success and was met with smiles, laughter and a bit of hysteria from all.

Prizes were awarded by the seniors to freshmen for their acceptance of the initiation program, Nancy Parks and Barbara Humby were rewarded for their cooperation.

Fair Higgenbottom's clever chapeau was considered most original and the dunking caps and beanies all were re duced to the board.

Other prizes were awarded in Elizabeth Sykes, Maria Parde and Pamela Qualin. All agreed that the freshman initiation was all in fun and fun for all!

CHAMINADE

BY JAMES REHL

Hollywood — A few weeks ago the senior English class at Chamina de High School got involved in an interesting controversy while discussing the principles of Catholicism in the area of Literature, art and drama. The controversy inevitably centered around the movie industry.

To provoke thought for a composition with an interesting topic the teacher placed the following statement on the board:

"Since the movie industry is largely a degenerate enterprise the discriminating individual should, in large part, boycott its productions.

"In general there is much evidence to prove that the current Hollywood productions attack many of the cherished traditions of Christian America. There is a tendency toward rebellion and secularism, moral principles, and the basic tenets of patriotism.

"In place of these billions of values the industry has played up spectacle, immoral ty, lust, and violence." This rather strong statement happened to be the general conclusion arrived at by Miss Niki Linge, a junior, who died this summer.

Freshmen Initiation was held Sept. 10. The Junior Class conduced the initiation in the school auditorium. The theme was "A Circus."

The Student Council attended a Dinner held Thursday, Oct. 8, at the Catholic High's first social activity of the school year, the Junior Victory Dance, held at the Coral Park High School gymnasium. The theme for this year is Oct. 12, at Cardinal Gibbons, Oct. 19, home, Patrick, Oct. 26, home vs. Pacer and Oct. 29, at Saint Thomas Aquinas.

HELLO NEIGHBOR DAY was held at St. Barbara Home, in Beach, recently. Children of all ages were encouraged to promote friendship of spirit toward members of the faculty and each other. Here, members of the first grade class, taught by Sister Cath-

MADDIS, O.P., and the children of the fourth grade class taught by Mrs. Raymond

COLUMBUS

BY WARD KEARNEY

In its short history Columbus High has become one of the most respected schools in this area and in the state.

Last Saturday, in Naples, this respect was shown as schools from District VI of the Florida Association of Student Councils elected Columbus to the ofcice of District Vice-President by an unanimous vote. Next year we will automatically ascend to the office of District President.

District VI includes schools from Dade, Broward, Monroe, and Collier Counties and is the largest in the state.

It was also in charge of the discussion group concerned with School Spirit. Meetings exchanged between the schools and a num-mer of them will be incorporated into the council's activities.

Attending the meeting from Columbus were Norm Manassa, Nelson Mabour, Ward Kearney, Ben LaPointe, Steve Nube, Philip Crawford, and moderate Andrew Brodnick, P.M.S.

The first edition of the newspaper, The Log, comes out today (Friday). Gregory Blasetre-re, editor-in-chief, and all the staff who are working on the newspaper should be congratuated for an excellent publishing.

With hopes of finding a few new ideas to make the paper even better, the staff will attend a Journalism Seminar at Coral Park High School tomorrow (Saturday).

PACE

BY MARYANN FLYNN

Pace High School is in a state of mourning for Mark Elison, a freshman, who died in an auto accident.

Representatives from all classes and the entire student body attended the funeral at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church.

Tests were administered this week to all Freshmen and Seniors. This year the seniors took the Florida 120, the Exams. This was an important change in the school entrance exams because these tests will determine, to a great extent, the colleges they will select.

Freshmen were given the Florida State Apatite Tests to determine their abilities and to aid the school's guidance program.

Proceedings at the Economical St. Thomas, a forming center, were followed by the Junior Religion class and the English class, "marrieddaughters," "the Catholic attitude to the Jewish race" are the main topics under discussion.

All classes are being tested on books read during the summer. In their English Summer Reading Program, students were to read at least six selections from the books listed. The popular English teachers feel that this is one of the benefits from the program.

Miss B. Berry, the girls physical education director, has chosen this year's varsity girls track team. The first game is schedduled for Oct. 14 with St. Thomas Aquinas High.
The Curley High School Chapter of the National Honor Society held its first meeting of the year last week and elected the new officers. They are: President, Jim Concannon; vice president, Mark Silveria; secretary, Or- lando Barreto; and treasurer, Lawrence Edwards. William May, C.S.C., moderator, hopes the Honor Society will continue as an active and vital group at Curley.

The first edition of The Knight, Curley’s newspaper, was expected the last week of October. This year’s staff includes: the moderator, Father Gregory Fleischer, C.S.C.; editor, Orlando Barreto; sports editor, James Concannon; assistant editors, Paul Zilloli and Mark Silveria; and feature editor, Doug- las Bryn.

The Knight staff hopes this year to have the paper released by the Catholic Student Press Association at Columbus Convention.

In recent weeks the seniors have been preparing for the Florida State Cross Country Meet, which is scheduled for November 12. The Guidance Department has been passing out information on the meet to all those interested in order to inform the seniors and help them prepare for college decisions. This year, Curley will be a testing center for the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Examination last given last spring. The Letters of Recommendation were turned in by the students last week. The next cross country meet will be held against the Rams of Coral Park.

Two seniors were awarded the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Examination which turned in letters of recommendation for their high scores on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Examination given last spring. Letters of Recommendation were turned in by the students last week. The next cross country meet will be held against the Rams of Coral Park.

Four students were named semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Examination.

The Yearbook Ad Drive ended last week with a total of $484.50 collected. The winner of the trophy for the Ad Sellers was Junior Home- room 24. The next Senior Homeroom 25 came in second place with a total of $482.95 collected. The trophy will go to the Senior Homeroom 25 which turned in $423.

The Madonna Club is under the guidance of Sister Jose Marie, I.H.M. Father Gregory Fleischer, O.F.M., celebrated Mass on First Friday in the school cafeteria. Through Father’s training the student body attended mass with fuller participation, each girl who was going to receive Holy Communion placed a host in the ciborium before Mass. President Mary Lou Siry and vice president Nora Otero presented the ciborium at the of- fertery of the Mass.

There’s never a dull moment among our Catholic UVS. The basketball and volleyball teams, spurred on by the enthusiasm of the student body, responded. Father Arthur DeVevoise acted as commentator in the dialogue Mass. Each student poll should yield interesting results. The strong and responsible leader- ers were chosen by the student body during the past week. Of the students in the senior class were chosen. Among the leaders are: George Lauchaire, James Miller, Diane Fenn, and Gayle Mandel. For the sophomores: George Rawlings; for the juniors: George Uhlar, senior, was the scene of a heated debate and controversy over the coming presidential election. A planned student poll will foster greater interest.

CHRISTIAN FAMILY MOVEMENT

Group's Meetings Stimulate Thinking About The Faith

By MARY C. and PAUL A. KLEVLA

Both within the Roman Catholic Church and outside of it, people have asked, "Why don't the Catholics come out from behind the Clergy wall?" Being a woman, who give up time to carry on CCD work, all desire recognition, but space doesn't permit writing about each one. We tell you about just a few.

BY ETHEL TOMBIN

You haven't time, you're too busy to join CCD? Throughout the Diocese, you'll find busy men and women working for CCD. Professional people, busy homemakers, men and women whose families make time to help spread the faith through CCD.

Meet some of them:

SHARING HER BELIEFS.

She's a Diligent Worker in Bradow's CCD

Travel, young people and CCD are Kay (Mrs. Leo) LaBelle's hobbies. Kay, principal of Westwood Heights School in Fort Lauderdale, was named to the Diocesan executive board of CCD when it was organized in 1961. She was among the group of 15 who spent their Christmas holiday last year and this year taking the course to qualify them to train CCD teachers.

Kay has doved hundreds of hours to CCD, serving on the board as chairman of teachers (a position from which she resigned this past spring), conducting about five teachers and a group of students in her CCD class. She has assisted in developing the course, helping lay out the courses for this training.

Kay and her husband, Leo, who live in Hollywood, spend the summer in Mexico, their third, because they love Mexico and are learning Spanish.

Kay's interested in everything she can learn on her travels, and when people do the picture-taking. Her interest in young people is evident. Many of the phone calls ("I guess I talk on the phone more than anyone else," she laughingly says) are the young people seeking her advice. And why not — she's an enthusiastic talker and a sympathetic listener.

  Mrs. Manning Is 'Go-Getter' For CCD

In St. Dominic Parish, there's a "go-getter" for CCD.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manning became the parish president of the Parish Council after a year's speech, has taught the CCD class in the parish school, given students special training outside the classes.

She is a retired teacher, and has taught in public schools before entering church daily and receiving Holy Communion. Though she has not been a member, she has increased love of God and his fellowman. Then, once you are thinking of yourself, you will be compelled into action to change situations both within your home, parish, community, nation and world.

BETTERING THE WORLD

You must live in this world for a little while, so make up your mind today to act and help consecrate the world for Christ, it will be because intelligent and zealous laymen have been in places in life to us and if the vast millions of the unchurched in this world find Christ, it will be because intelligent and zealous laymen have properly fulfilled the role that God placed them here to fulfill.

Are you "thiking" time? We are not concerned about money, we are interested in your time.

For instance, are you attending church daily and receiving communion? If you do, you are truly receiving the Daily Bread that Christ mentioned in his "Prayer of Thanksgiving". You may find that through your spiritual growth as a CCD member, you will become a real communicant. God is always ready to assist you in all matters, you need only to turn to prayer for His guidance.

Urgent your pastor to contact the Family Life Bureau for further information about CCD. Thus you will be able to start in man's God-given role: "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and in Judaism and in Judaism and even to the very ends of the earth." (Acts 10:19)

You must live in this world for a little while, so make up your mind today to act and help consecrate the world for Christ, it will be because intelligent and zealous laymen have been in places in life to us and if the vast millions of the unchurched in this world find Christ, it will be because intelligent and zealous laymen have properly fulfilled the role that God placed them here to fulfill.

Are you "thiking" time? We are not concerned about money, we are interested in your time.

For instance, are you attending church daily and receiving communion? If you do, you are truly receiving the Daily Bread that Christ mentioned in his "Prayer of Thanksgiving". You may find that through your spiritual growth as a CCD member, you will become a real communicant. God is always ready to assist you in all matters, you need only to turn to prayer for His guidance.

Urgent your pastor to contact the Family Life Bureau for further information about CCD. Thus you will be able to start in man's God-given role: "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and in Judaism and in Judaism and even to the very ends of the earth." (Acts 10:19)

CHRISTIAN FAMILY MOVEMENT

Group's Meetings Stimulate Thinking About The Faith

By MARY C. and PAUL A. KLEVLA

Both within the Roman Catholic Church and outside of it, people have asked, "Why don't the Catholics come out from behind the Clergy wall?" Being a woman, who give up time to carry on CCD work, all desire recognition, but space doesn't permit writing about each one. We tell you about just a few.

SHARING HER BELIEFS.

She's a Diligent Worker in Bradow's CCD

Travel, young people and CCD are Kay (Mrs. Leo) LaBelle's hobbies. Kay, principal of Westwood Heights School in Fort Lauderdale, was named to the Diocesan executive board of CCD when it was organized in 1961. She was among the group of 15 who spent their Christmas holiday last year and this year taking the course to qualify them to train CCD teachers.

Kay has doved hundreds of hours to CCD, serving on the board as chairman of teachers (a position from which she resigned this past spring), conducting about five teachers and a group of students in her CCD class. She has assisted in developing the course, helping lay out the courses for this training.

Kay and her husband, Leo, who live in Hollywood, spend the summer in Mexico, their third, because they love Mexico and are learning Spanish.

Kay's interested in everything she can learn on her travels, and when people do the picture-taking. Her interest in young people is evident. Many of the phone calls ("I guess I talk on the phone more than anyone else," she laughingly says) are the young people seeking her advice. And why not — she's an enthusiastic talker and a sympathetic listener.

  Mrs. Manning Is 'Go-Getter' For CCD

In St. Dominic Parish, there's a "go-getter" for CCD.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manning became the parish president of the Parish Council after a year's speech, has taught the CCD class in the parish school, given students special training outside the classes.

She is a retired teacher, and has taught in public schools before entering church daily and receiving Holy Communion. Though she has not been a member, she has increased love of God and his fellowman. Then, once you are thinking of yourself, you will be compelled into action to change situations both within your home, parish, community, nation and world.

BETTERING THE WORLD

You must live in this world for a little while, so make up your mind today to act and help consecrate the world for Christ, it will be because intelligent and zealous laymen have been in places in life to us and if the vast millions of the unchurched in this world find Christ, it will be because intelligent and zealous laymen have properly fulfilled the role that God placed them here to fulfill.

Lay Retreat Movement Called To Sanctify

LANTANA — The lay retreat movement is the answer to "beating" the degradation which exists between the Christian life of individuals and their daily lives, Father Martin J. Cassidy, assistant director of lay retreats told affiliated presidents and retreat chairmen of the Broward County Deanery of the Miami DCCW here.

F. Cassidy spoke during a meeting of the women held at the Cenacle Retreat House whose plans were outlined for future retreats. The "lay retreat movement centers about the individual lives of men," Father Cassidy emphasized. "It looks to the sanctification of these lives by bringing them into more close and vital union with the life of Jesus Christ."

Scoring "secularism" as one of the major problems of our times, Father Cassidy referred to the way in which influence of Jesus Christ is inhibited, pressed, even "outlawed," not only in the realm of things directly and necessarily the business of this world, but also in areas which, by their very nature are moral, cultural or spiritual, and there-then "outlawed," not only in the everyday temporal life of the people involved.

"The lay retreat movement exists to heal this serious sit-uation. Having come to the realization that we are made, no longer Christians conforming to the spirit of the world, but rather to the spirit of Jesus Christ but in order that we may return to the world in tune with God and at peace within ourselves taking with us and having within us the presence of God and the influence of Jesus Christ."

"Why stand you here all the day idle," will be theme of Fall meetings for the five deaneries of the Miami Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. Members of the South Dade Deansery will hold their one-day sessions in Little Flower par-church, Coral Gables, on Wednesday, Oct. 14.

Chicken Casserole A Nutritious Dish

By FLORENCE DEVANEY

It's football time. Put your best foot forward as an after-game hostess with a spectacular chicken casserole decorated with biscuit "football." When chicken is the star of the buffet, everyone wins. It is generous with good nutrition and has few calories, making it an ideal food for weight-watchers. Whether or not you are on a diet, a creamy chicken-plea kind of dish is just the ticket.

The Kickoff Casserole is composed of succulent, meaty pieces of chicken cooked with tiny whole onions and peas. The dish takes less than an hour to make, the football biscuits are made with a prepared biscuit mix. And to implement the stadium theme, offer Pom Pom Salad with the chicken.

The salad, composed of mounds of cottage cheese covered with "leaves" of shredded carrot and a center of sieved hard-cooked egg yolk, resembles a chrysanthemum corsage. Serve the football supper with a mulled fruit punch — and await cheers from your guests.

Kickoff Casserole

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
3 1/2 cups water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Ac'cent
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup diced celery
5 tablespoons flour

1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 10-ounce package frozen peas
12 small white onions
5 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons water
Strips of pineapple

FOR THE SAUCE

11/2 cups water
1 teaspoon finely grated orange rind
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup ground raw cranberries
1/2 cup cranberries

Cranberry Waffles, Orange Sauce

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 hard cooked egg yolk, sieved
2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk

Make the batter; add milk, eggs and sugar. Stir to broil biscuits. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Turn mixture into a 2-quart oblong casserole. Top with Football Biscuits. Bake in a hot oven (405 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Place pineapple on top of "footballs." YIELD: 6 servings.

Football Biscuits

2 cups evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups water

Combine evaporated milk and water. Add to biscuit mix. Stir with large fork, beat 10 strokes. Knead gently on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Divide dough into 6 parts; shape into flowers. Garnish center of flower with sieved egg yolk.

YIELD: 6 servings.

Pom Pom Salad

2 cups (1 16-ounce container) cottage cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups grated orange rind
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Blend cottage cheese with salt, pepper, egg yolk and a center of sieved hard-cooked egg yolk; resembles a chrysanthemum corsage.
Husband So Selfish, Wife Is Distraught

For thirty-seven years of married life I have been a victim of temperamental explosions daily. Because I don't work outside the home, my husband tells me I don't "earn anything." He retired this year and says his security is his own. All his life he has been interested only in his business, discusses nothing with me, takes me nowhere, and despite the fact I have reared five children and kept a ten room house for him, he simply tells me bluntly, "Get out if you don't like it."

By JOHN J. KANE, Ph. D

There are some points in your letter, Gertrude, which make your problem far more complex than one might at first assume. I fear you have a mixture of a biological condition and aging, with its psychological impact. As I am forced to ask so many times when I receive a letter like yours, why have you tolerated a situation of this nature for a long time? Or, have you yourself tended to exaggerate it at this particular point?

It is perfectly ridiculous for any husband to inform a wife who maintains a home and rears children that she "earns nothing." True enough, she may not be bringing any actual money into the home, unless employed outside, but the mere cost of employing a maid to do the housework a wife performs would be prohibitive. Prohibitive, that is, assuming that one could obtain such a maid.

A good wife and mother not only performs the mental, dull and monotonous tasks that are part of homemaking, but the best of them do it with cheerfulness and love that few servants would bring to such a task. Then there is the matter of prudent and frugal shopping. By being careful and economical in planning her menus, skillful in use of leftovers, and other types of economies, it has been estimated a wife actually will save a thousand or more dollars a year. You pick your own expert and get your own dollars and cents appraisal.

The loving rearing of children by a good mother is something so priceless that no tag can be placed upon it. It is a profession like the clergy, physicians or teachers, and really it is something of all three at one time.

Obviously, the mother does not administer sacraments as a priest, operate or prescribe as a skilled physician, or transact advance knowledge like a college professor. But she constantly gives spiritual counsel, constantly binds up the minor physical wounds, and constantly teaches children how to be children of God. If one were silly enough to attempt to evaluate this in terms of dollars and cents, it would invariably be worth far more than husbands with the best of incomes earn.

Effects of Age?

To get to your more specific problem, mainly that your husband fails to appreciate or communicate with you, tells you to leave if you don't like things, and that you yourself are on the verge of a separation, seems to be indications that his age may be affecting him psychologically. Let me be entirely clear about this to avoid any misunderstanding.

As the vast majority of us grow older, there is a tendency to a hardening of the arteries. Some of this occurs in the brain, and under the most acute situations, is known as senility. Se-nility is the type of psychosis, that is, a mental illness, caused by arterial diseases. There is no cure for it. But let me hasten to add that many older persons are not senile, some persons live to be extremely old and do not become senile, but some others do even in their early sixties.

My positive advice to you is to consult your family physician about your husband's condition. Please do not discuss this with your husband first, but go to your family physician. I do hope you have one. Then explain these circumstances in detail.

Of course, you point out that your husband has always been obsessed with business so I may be entirely incorrect in some of the possibilities I indicated in the preceding paragraph. Like so many men who have been obsessed with business or their jobs, now that retirement is upon him, he feels hopelessly lost and bewildered.

Neither would I make a great issue out of whose money ---- retirement fund is. It is necessary, however, for you to protect yourself in the event the retirement fund is one in which he can make a choice to receive a larger sum during his lifetime, or a smaller sum during his lifetime so that a certain income is left for your lifetime. As a matter of fact, this should be investigated and if need be, you may have to take the matter up with an attorney. Your husband has a moral obligation here.

Once again I must return to one of my earlier questions: why did you tolerate this situation for thirty-seven years? Be-cause you have, I am about to take a suggestion that may save you. When you consult your family physician regarding your husband's condition, I suggest you also have a complete checkup.

With all these years behind you, you are fortunate to have each other. Instead of separation, quarrels about money, and considerations of separations, you should both attempt to find out what is wrong, patch up your differences, and look forward to the enjoyment of those years which God has left to you.

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Publication of the largely anticipated Warren Commission Report and the approach of the first anniversary of President Kennedy's assassination is the signal for renewed JFK memorabilia on movies and TV.

Bolstered, undeniably commercial plans farther to dramatize the life and death of the 35th President, have been shuffled through Hollywood agency channels for several months.

Any day now, we may learn whether or not the bereaved family has given assent and if it is to be made of such a film as lies beyond their control.

One’s first reaction to such talk is one of pause, mingled with dismay or disgust. One realizes, however, that a film that might conceivably do justice to a subject so tragically and so harrowingly near to us in time and circumstance would involve heavy financial outlay.

Then too, a good Kennedy film might return prodigious profits, a relaxation that gives the proposition a ghoulish, grooming form.

Meanwhile, Warners are re-releasing Bryan Foy’s 1963 film, “F. T.”, an account of relative and narrowly related and insignificantly hushed of Robert J. Donovan’s book, dealing with JFK’s wartime experiences as a U.S. Navy Lieutenant (j.g.).

This week (from Oct. 5-10), United Artists have begun, in Washington, New York and other key cities, a series of premiere runs of David Weisberg’s unheroic, twobed “newsmagazine,” titled “Four Days in November.”

Richard Baderhart models and some UFO and other news scenes of the vile crime, intimacy unpolished, unembarrassed. These were included. They were held back largely at the request of the Warren Commission, which also frowned upon earlier re-release of the film.

Early next month, at 7:30 p.m. on the first Sunday evening after the Presidential election, in fact, NBC will unveil its “Profiles of Courage” series. This, “JFK” stipulated, must not be publicly shown on TV or anywhere, during the fateful weeks during which he had anticipated he would be campaigning for re-election.

Produced by Robert Saudek, NBC’s “Profiles of Courage” is partly from the lead Presidential Pulitzer Prize-winning book. For reasons not fully explained, other stories have been added. These are subject to the approval of JFK’s one-time advisor Theodore C. Sorensen.
