POPE ASKS DOMINICANS

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (NC) — Pope Paul VI has named five new bishops for the Dominican Republic, who are expected to bring new life to the Church in the country. The new bishops are:\n
3. Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore.

The appointments were announced by Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, apostolic delegate in the United States.

The Pope's new appointments are significant because they are the result of a decision made by the Concilium, the body of theologians and jurists that advises the Pope on matters of Church law.

The new bishops are expected to bring new life to the Church in the Dominican Republic, which has been facing significant challenges in recent years. The new appointments are seen as a sign of the Church's commitment to the welfare of the people of the Dominican Republic.

POPE WILL ANNOUNCE DECISION
Study Of Birth Control Problem Is Still Underway

MILWAUKEE — When the Church acts in the continuing birth control issue, Pope Paul VI, himself, and not the Second Vatican Council, will make the pronouncement.

This is the thought of Dr. John R. Cavanaugh, Washington, D.C., psychiatrist who is a member of the special papal commission studying the problem. He added the observation that the pronouncement more likely will be conservative rather than radical.

"I do not expect anything startling. As an individual I think the pronouncement will be more along conservative lines," said Dr. Cavanaugh, who visited the Bruce Publishing Co., here in connection with the release of his latest book, "The Pope, The Pill and The People."

POPE'S ACTION

"I believe that at the end of June, 1964, Pope Paul took the matter out of the council and left it up to himself when he pronounced the appointment of a commission to study birth control issues," Dr. Cavanaugh added.

He referred to Pope Paul's announcement last year that the Church is in the process of a major revision of its teaching on the question of birth control. And unless there is a change in the Pope's policy this certainly will be true and there is no hope of interim pronouncement," said Dr. Cavanaugh.

He emphasized that the early and final pronouncement that will come from the Pope because of the anxiety it has created not only in the United States but throughout the world.

He said the commission expects to meet again in the near future, but the exact date is dependent on the individual members who are completing in-depth research with which they are concerned.

Peace Efforts Mark Pope’s 2nd Year

By JAMES C. O’NEILL

VATICAN CITY — Anxiety for the precarious state of world peace beat like a dimly throb- ing drum throughout the past year of Pope Paul VI’s reign.

Elected on June 21, 1963, his reign is dated as June 30 since that was the day of his coronation. In the two years since his election, Pope Paul has accorded the weekly Encyclical John XXIII to the awesome and lone- some office of Vicar of Christ on earth, the 49-year-old Giovanni Battista Montini has made himself a champion of peace among nations and among men and organizations.

CONSISTENT CAMPAIGN

Consistently in the past year the Pope has spoken and written on the subject of peace. He has consistently warned the world’s leaders of the consequences of a new outbreak of war. But if he has sounded warnings, they have been only by the news which comes to us from various parts of the world — Vietnam, the Congo and the Dominican Republic.
Governing the practice of ecumenical services and worship has been a challenge for the Roman Catholic Church. This has been especially true with the rise of Protestant denominations in the United States and the involvement of Cuban Seminarians from the episcopal seminaries in Cuba. The National Catholic Welfare Conference has been involved in discussions and the ecumenical commission has been established to continue these discussions. One example of the work of this commission is the issuance of a document that outlines the roles of Catholics and other Christians in ecumenical services.

The document is titled "Episcopal-Catholic Dialogue Begins; Six Bishops Confer" and was written in response to the Catholic Church's desire to improve relations with other Christian denominations. The commission's goal was to foster unity and cooperation between Catholics and other Christians, and the document outlines the way that Catholics should participate in ecumenical services.

The document states that Catholics should participate in ecumenical services "with a sense of common witness, not of division or separation." The document also outlines the roles of Catholics in ecumenical services, including:

- Participating in services that are "open to all Christians, and toUnitarian Universalists and other denominations, the document states, "Catholics should not participate in services that are open to all Christians, and to Unitarian Universalists and other denominations."

The document also outlines the roles of priests and laypeople in ecumenical services, including:

- Priests are encouraged to participate in ecumenical services, but only in ways that do not compromise their Catholic identity.
- Laypeople are encouraged to participate in ecumenical services, but only in ways that do not compromise their Catholic identity.

The document concludes by stating that the goal of the ecumenical commission is to foster unity and cooperation between Catholics and other Christians, and that the commission will continue to work towards this goal. The document is a significant step in the ongoing process of ecumenical dialogue and collaboration between Catholics and other Christians.
Young Pilot Attended Mass Shortly Before Fatal Crash

Wise Guidelines ERECTED TO Direct STEPS To UNITY

The concise interim guidelines just published by the U.S. Bishops' Commission for Ecumenical Affairs will be welcomed by the increasingly great numbers of Catholics who have been caught up in the quest of unity among Christian churches.

Priests and laymen have been waiting for such guidance while losing the inner strangeness of discussing with other Christians. They have been hesitating to be more Catholic than the Church in putting into effect the Vatican Council decree on Ecumenism and fear taking steps into areas of common prayer and joint worship which would hurt the cause more than help it.

Many non-Catholic leaders will also find these directions helpful in issuing invitations to priests and laity, since the guidelines clearly lay out what is advisable for Catholics and what is not at the present time.

There are few surprises in the directions issued by the Commission, since the decree on Ecumenism already laid down the broad lines of interfaith dialogue. In the area of joint worship (known technically as communicatio in sacris) the idea of receiving communion in each other's churches is opposed.

Priests should not preach at non-Catholic eucharistic services or attend them when they are the same. Priests may be administered to by other priests in the same way as by Catholics. However, Catholics may attend services at other churches which have specific civil or social significance, such as wed- dings or funerals, but they may not receive Communion there. They may serve as witnesses at marriages in other churches, although they may not be sponsors at Bapt- isms.

Non-Catholics may not be admitted as witnesses and attendants, but it is not recom- mended that they be excluded. The idea of receiving communion in each other's churches is not at the present time.

Men Who Pray Daily For More Priests

By Msgr. JAMES J. WALSH

With members of Serra Clubs arriving in Miami from many nations, someone ought to tell them the truth about them. It's about time they are given a real led in their true colors and lose the false image created about them in many places.

It is not fair to people to let the idea take root that they are a rich man's club.

True, they are business and professional men, but since the Club has certain obligations on them which may come during ordinary working hours, they have to be more or less in control of their time. It would be unjust to give a busy man not able to set his own hours a Serra assignment to attend a special meeting of a vocations essay contest, or to give a lecturer to students an assignment to fulfill one of the many other possible jobs if it meant having to beg time off work and possibly lose part of his salary.

Nor should the members be allowed to get so far unmolested that the image they are in a social club related to Catholics with time on their hands and a desire for good fellowship and such things. True, it is likely that a Serra raider is strictly in the ball league.

The fact is the dining room could well have desks instead of tables, because it is primarily a classroom. It is a kind of sciousness as Christians.

They do not merely listen, they quiz the speaker. Often when the meeting is over the discussion goes on. They take it to their offices. It becomes a topic at dinner dates at "yes" and with friends during a time of relaxation. Obviously, an effort to take the Faithful appearance at 11 "classes" educates them beyond the telling and pro-ing them to further reading and study.

One reads in the press of wars and rumors of wars, race riots, fear of nuclear explosions. About 90 per cent of the news is made up of stories about those who break God's commandments. In our office we live in a different world — a world of faith and sacrifice in which souls in America are in almost immediate touch with the hungry and thirsty in other lands.

I am writing this just a few minutes after the following incident took place. An elderly woman with 'little of this world's goods had saved $300 to have an operation on her ear in order that she might recover her hearing. After thinking it over she decided that she would give the $300 to the Holy Father's Society for the Propagation of the Faith and remain deaf. She was referring to those who are spiritually deaf, that is, un receptive to the world of salvation. I assure her, that thanks to her resignation to deafness, many in mission lands would be able to hear the Gospel.

It is good for us to know that we live in a Church in which the Cross and the Sacraments inspire such beautiful devotion. It is also very likely that the gift of $300 which she gave will do an exceptional amount of good in the Missions because of the love that went into it. Thomas A. Kempis said: "Regard not so much the gift of the lover as the love of the giver."
That is one of the reasons why we try to inspire in our readers a deep love of the Missions, in order that with whatever gift you sacrifice, there may be poured out to the unbelieving people some spark of the love of God which is already in your hearts.

GOD LOVE YOU to "Grateful" for $50 "It's about time entered America," said Father Genovar, "from the offshore islands now we are faced with an atheistic ideology trying to enter from this same region."

"So let us therefore," said Father Genovar, "become a spiritual fortress which will repel the entrance of such an ideology."

The Nocturnal Adoration Society has no dues. Attendance at one hour of the society's once a month, all-night vigil before the Blessed Sacrament is not binding under pain of sin once a man joins.

VIGILS

He may, however, be dropped from the society if he fails to attend any of the vigils for a number of months.

The glare of publicity is rarely on the Nocturnal Adoration Society and this is the way the members want it.

During their hour of vigil members spend most of the time reciting part of the Office of the Blessed Sacrament in English. The rest of the hour is spent in silent prayer.

A not too well known fact is that indulgence-wise, the Nocturnal Adoration Society in one of the most richly endowed organizations in the Church.

Besides the Plenary Indulgences which each member can gain for every Holy Hour he makes with his fellow members, he can gain as many as 118 three-month Plenary Indulgences in a year.

That means a total of 30 Plenary Indulgences available to members.

The society was first formed in Rome in 1810.

The first society in America was organized in Boston in 1872.

Total membership in the society in the U. S. is more than 135,000.

Cut out this column, pin your sacrifice to it and mail it to Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, National Director of The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 366 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10001, or to your Diocesan Director, Rev. Neil Flemming, 6201 Biscayne Blvd., Miami 2, Florida.

Nocturnal Adoration Groups

Now Number 7 In Diocese

Three years ago this summer the first Nocturnal Adoration Society in the Diocese held its first all-night vigil.

Today, there are seven Nocturnal Societies in the Diocese, with a membership of upwards of 900 men.

The first group was formed in Our Lady Queen of Martyrs parish, Fort Lauderdale, by Dr. Paul D. Buhle.

From there the society spread to St. Peter and Paul parish where a second Adoration group was organized early in 1963 with Frank Margen as president.

The third was formed at Visitation parish in North Miami which later became inactive for a time but since has been reorganized.

These three were then followed by other societies at St. Rose of Lima parish which has numbered as high as 200 men in its group; Little Flower parish in Hollywood; Immaculate Conception in Hialeah and the Cathedral which held its first vigil last February.

ATTENDANCE

In the early fall of 1963, the Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Nocturnal Adoration Society held its first annual Communion brunch and presentation of perpetual Indulgences.

A total of 40 men received awards for not having missed one of the all-night vigils for the previous 12 months.

Speaker at that Communion Brunch was Father Lomar J. Genovar, then pastor at Our Lady Queen of Martyrs parish and Judean director of the Society.

In his talk, Father Genovar urged that "this Society form a spiritual wall or spiritual fortress to protect foreign ideologies from penetrating our shores."

"Just as the Christian faith entered America," said Father Genovar, "from the offshore islands now we are faced with an atheistic ideology trying to enter from this same region."

Tercer Domingo Después de Pentecostés

27 de Junio

Celebrante (Después del Credo): El Señor sea con vosotros.

Pueblo: Y con tu espiritu.

Celebrante: Oremos. Nos unimos para invocar la asistencia de las verdades que la Iglesia cree y enseña para que sus adeptos no los abandonen la práctica de la fe bajo la fuerza de la imposición.

Pueblo: Señor, Ten piedad.

Celebrante: Todos los hombres para ser candidatos deben ser de los que no supieron cumplir con el deber de sus padres; cuando murió, el amor piensa en el hermano. Así desaparecerá la soledad.

Pueblo: Señor, Ten piedad.

Celebrante: No hay un sentido especial de la soledad con carácter de eternidad quizás sea el llamado "infinito," pero hay un sentido especial de la soledad que nace en Dios y termina en el hogar del alma. Su alma está sola, musitando la ley terrenal es aisladamente de la Divinidad. Su casa es su familia. Y aun cuando esté acompañado, así disminuye la soledad, pero no se extingue. Eso es emoción del amor.

Pueblo: Amen.

La Soledad

Por Manole Reyes

El ser humano en su peregrinar por la vida necesita imprescindiblemente de la compañía de los demás. No puede caminar, ni crecer o desarrollarse sin el concurso efectivo de otras personas. El ser humano necesitará para estar acompañado. Así desde que nace viene acompañado de sus padres; cuando adulto sigue en la vida con sus cónyuges, hijos y demás familiares. Y aun cuando muera, sus restos mortales van acompañados hasta la última morada por los que en vida fueron sus más allegados.

La soledad con carácter de eternidad quita sea el llamado "infinito" reservado para los que en vida fueron sus más allegados. Pero hay un sentido especial en las almas vivas que sirve para percibir la verdad que los demás tratan de ocultar.

Sin embargo, también existen las almas que han sido arraigadas en el amor, que aún sufriendo y muriendo en la paz y a la conciencia por eso en el tránsito de Dios está presente. En el más inmenso deslizamiento en el más profundo de los océanos sin fondo, el ser humano que tiene a Dios en su alma, jamás sentirá el terrible infierno de la soledad.

El Principio Civilizador

Por el Padre Angel Nebreda

No cabe duda que amor es lo contrario de egoísmo. Si el egoísmo es buscar a sí mismo, el amor piensa en los demás. Si el egoísmo busca lo suyo, el amor da lo suyo a los demás. Si el egoísmo es querer que otros le servan, el amor es querer ser servido. Pero hay un sentido especial en las almas vivas que sirve para percibir la verdad que los demás tratan de ocultar.

En el tránsito de la vida, con cargas, mártires y otros tratan de ocultar que puedan sobrevivir o será más fuerte el egoísmo que engendra la soledad.

El amor no es "zarrillo". No sientes amor, pero puedes querer. No sientes amor al espejo, porque te puedes querer bien.

El amor no es sentir limpieza. La soledad con carácter de eternidad quizás sea el llamado "infinito," pero hay un sentido especial de la soledad que nace en Dios y termina en el hogar del alma. Su alma está sola, musitando la ley terrenal es aisladamente de la Divinidad. Su casa es su familia. Y aun cuando esté acompañado, así disminuye la soledad, pero no se extingue. POPULATION MORE THAN DOUBLED

Diocese Of Miami Develops

Pope Pius XII created the Diocese of Miami on August 13, 1958.

At the same time he named as its first Bishop the Most Rev. Coleman F. Carroll, then serving as Auxiliary Bishop of Pittsburgh. Bishop Carroll was installed in his new office on October 7, 1958, the Feast of the Holy Rosary.

There were then 51 parishes in the 16 counties of South Florida which made up the new diocese.

The Diocese of Miami today consists of 95 parishes and 19 missions.

Total Catholic population of the Diocese at the time of its founding was listed in the Official Catholic Directory as 185,000.

The same source reports the total Catholic population of the Diocese for 1965 as 415,000.

That figure, however, is expected to be far exceeded when returns are enumerated from a door-to-door census taken up in all parishes late last year.

The 415,000 total does not include more than 40,000 Cuban refugees now residing in the Diocese of Miami on permanent visas, and many of whom have applied for American citizenship.

The 415,000 population total represents an increase of 230,000, or 124.3 per cent over the 185,000 listed when the Diocese was established in 1958.

The 415,000 figure places the Diocese in 25th position among the 28 archdiocese and 120 dioceses in the United States.

Rapidly Since Birth In 1958

The Diocese of Miami has increased its population rapidly since its establishment in 1958. It is currently outranked only by 16 archdioceses and eight dioceses.

The 16 archdioceses with greater population are Boston, Hartford, New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, St. Paul, St. Louis, New Castle, San Antonio, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Archdioceses outranked by the Diocese of Miami are Atlanta, Indianapolis, Louisville, Denver, Santa Fe, Seattle, Portland (Ore.), Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia Byzantine.

Only eight dioceses are larger in population than Miami. They are Brooklyn, Buffalo, Rockville Center, Trenton, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Corpus Christi and Galveston-Houston.

In the field of education, the record of the Diocese has been a notable one. Elementary schools have increased from 51 to 63, with enrollment from 22,000 to 28,875, while high schools have shown a gain from 11 to 22, with enrollment from 2,294 to 7,075.

In addition, there are four colleges in the Diocese. They are Biscayne College for Men; Barry College for Women; Marymount College for Women and St. Joseph College, Jensen Beach.

Besides those attending Catholic grade and high schools, there are 30,246 Catholic boys and girls in public grade and high schools who are attending religious classes in their free time in their respective parishes.

The appointment last week of Ken Stibler as the first athletic director and basketball coach at Biscayne College should turn out to be a real boon to diocesan high school athletes.

With the prospects of a variety of varsity sports program being established at the young college, it will present the local high school athletes with something they have never had before — a chance to combine a Catholic education with a sports career close to home.

At the present time, the only Catholic institution of higher education in the whole state of Florida that offers the local education in the whole state of Florida with a sports career is the University of Miami. It is already operated on a massive scale for the rest of the United States.

However, as the school grows and the sport thrives, it is hoped that modest scholarships — tuition — can be offered, just as scholarships are available to talented academic students.

Father Berry has had several talks with Dennis Mainie-rie about the use of the Miami-Dade J.C. fieldhouse for its games. The results have been encouraging although the huge J.C. arena is already operated on a busy schedule.

In delivering the banquet invocation, Father Leah reminded the youngsters that the development of athletic skills to increase their physical well-being and that they might "serve the Lord" was only one part of their service to God.

Among the awards presented were the following:

SOUTHERN HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL — St. Mary's; coach, Father Joseph A. Smillie, St. • Louis.

CYO Sports Awards Given At Banquet

Diocesan CYO Sports Awards were presented by University of Miami Basketball Coach Bruce Hale at a special banquet at the Everglades Hotel.

Following the banquet, some 600 CYO's in the diocese attended a dance at the hotel.

An address of welcome was delivered at the banquet by Father Walter J. Dockrell, dio-cesean director of youth activity.

Special guests included: Fa- ther James Leah, moderator of Blessed Trinity parish CYO, who gave the invocation; Mrgr. Bryan O. Walsh, administrator, SS. Peter and Paul parish; Pete Mitchell, all American and Florida High School basketball player; Rick Jones, baseball and basketball player at the University of Miami basketball coach as F. Palmer, president of the Diocesan Council of Catho-lic Youth Organization; and Mrgr. George Gilles, CYO advisors.

Main guest speakers were Hale and Ralph Reeske, WTVJ, the local NBC affiliate.

SS. Peter And Paul Parish Plans Recreation Program

A summer recreation program open to boys and girls between the ages of seven and 12, is now in progress in SS. Pe-ter and Paul parish.

Conducted under the direction of Msgr. Bryan O. Walsh, parish administrator, the program operates Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily until July 13. Lunch is served in the school cafeteria.

A small fee provides for ac-cess to the courts, supplies and transportation to and from the beach and excursions. Enrollment is limited to 300 children and applications still are being accepted.

Applications for the day camp conducted under the direction of Msgr. Bryan O. Walsh, parish administrator, may be made by mail to SS. Peter and Paul Par-ish, 300 SW 26th Blvd. Included must be the name of the child or children, age, and the telephone number, ages of children and their grade in school.

Minnesota Joins Curley Football Staff

Archbishop Curley High has added a new football coach to its staff with the naming of Jim O'Keefe as line coach.

Herrick coached player center, line-backer and end for St. John's University, a small college power, during the 1962 and 1963 seasons. Herrick was a start- er on the team that went 6-1-1 straight games, including the NAIA small college national championship game.

Herrick will also serve as junior varsity basketball coach.
"Women Confronted By Vacuum Of Leadership"

PITTSBURGH (NC) — Bishop John J. Wright said Catholic women are confronted with a "vacuum of leadership" at every level.

"It is extremely important to be aware at every turn of the extent and nature of the vacuum into which women leaders called to move," the bishop of Pittsburgh said here in the keynote address at the National Council of Catholic Women's Institute for Leaders, held at Mount Mercy College.

The institute, entitled "Ecclesial Encounters," was the fourth in a series of seven designed by the NCCW to train Nun Appointed College Dean

Sister Ruth Albert, O.P., chairman of the Department of Education at Barry College has been appointed dean at St. Dominic College, St. Charles, Ill.

Formerly a member of the faculties at St. Patrick High School, Miami Beach, and St. Anastasia School, Fort Pierce, Sister Ruth Albert joined the faculty at Barry College six years ago. For the past year she has served as chairman of the department of education.

The author of "Patterns of Administration in Diocesan Education," published in 1957, Sister Albert holds a Ph.D. degree from Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational society, and has been active in professional education societies on the state and national level.

She was graduated from Marshall University, Huntington, W. Va., with a major in English; her graduate work has been in education with a major study of administration. Her minor for the Master's degree was in political science.

Catholic women for positions of leadership in their communities.

POSSIBLE CAUSES

The "vacuum of leadership" could be due to a world crisis in culture, to a political situation, or to an illusion of democracy that all must have an equal say in leadership, the bishop said.

"Where we are all leaders, there is no leadership. In an effort to make out everybody to be a leader, we have created a serious crisis," he declared.

Recalling the words of Pope Pius XI in Quadragesimo Anno, "There is no charity by those who are not concerned with justice" — the bishop said it is important that women rid themselves of the idea that they are exclusively the architects of charity, while justice is in the hands of men.

CHARITY AND JUSTICE

"The virtue of charity," the bishop said, "can never be dis-associated from the virtue of justice. You must be not only Lady Beautiful but also Lady Justice."

Luscious Jam-Filled Bohemian Cookies

By FLORENCIA DEVEANEY

Many of our favorite desserts and baked treats have their origin in the lavish cuisine of the Old World. Those continental bakers knew what they were doing when they invented these delicacies, and we've got a recipe to prove it. It's a modern adaptation of those boniüm jam-filled Bohemian cookies called Kolacky.

Our up-to-date Ice Cream Kolacky can be made in two forms, as a buttery crisp cookie or as tart shells, delicious with ice cream filling. The use of melted ice cream in the basic dough gives it an extra-creamy texture and delightful flavor. Chilling the dough also improves the texture, making it easier to handle.

Kolacky

Making Sheets: 100
4 cups sifted flour
Prebaked 400 deg. oven

Ice Cream Kolacky

Frost, sugar, butter and melted ice cream are the four ingredients for these tasty little cookies.

After dough has been chilled thoroughly in refrigerator or freezer, roll it out and cut into stars, circles, diamonds and other shapes. Make a slight depression in the center of each kolacky and fill with % teaspoon of preserves. After taking the cookies out of the oven and placing them on a rack to cool, sprinkle with confectioners sugar.

In storing Ice Cream Kolacky, remember that they should be kept in a jar or canister with a loose fitting cover. For long periods of storage, they may be frozen.

Delightful Jam-Filled Ice Cream Kolacys

2 tablespoons sugar
Preserves or pie filling
Confectioners sugar
1 pint vanilla ice cream.

In a mixing bowl mix together flour and sugar; cut in butter with pastry blender as for pie crust. Blend in melted ice cream. Divide dough in quarters, wrap each in waxed paper; chill thoroughly in refrigerator for several hours or in freezer about 30 minutes. Remove one quarter of dough from refrigerator; on lightly floured pastry cloth roll to % inch thickness. Cut dough in desired shapes. The most economical way is to roll each portion of dough to about an 8-inch square and cut into 25 small squares. Place on baking sheet. Make slight depression in center of each kolacky; fill with about % teaspoon of preserves or pie filling. Bake 8-10 minutes. Cool; repeat with remaining portions of dough. Remove to wire cooling racks; sprinkle immediately with confectioners sugar.

Note: To retain crispness, do not store in a tightly covered container. Freeze for long periods of storage.

TALL AND COOL

June is dairy month. So stock the refrigerator with ice cream and plenty of cold milk and you’re ready in a jiffy to whip up refreshments that are tall, cool and delicious. Strawberry, mint, chocolate and mocha are all popular flavors to team with these coolers.

Mocha Milk Shake

(One Serving)

1 cup cold milk
1 teaspoon instant coffee
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon cocoa mix

Place milk in mixing bowl or blender container. Mix remaining ingredients; add; Blend thoroughly. Pour into a glass; garnish with mint leaves. Top with a dollop of ice cream, if you like.

SPARERIB SERVINGS TAKE ON HAWAIIAN FLAVOR

Barbecuing on the backyard grill has captured culinary imaginations and given many foods such as spareribs a new place on the menu. How about going a bit further with adventures in cooking and giving spareribs a Hawaiian twist? It’s guaranteed to add a % of interest to meals, be they for family or guests.

Do cut spareribs into serving-sized pieces before they are dipped in the batter and baked.

Hawaiian Spareribs

2 pounds spareribs, cut in serving pieces
1 can (16 ounces) pineapple chunks
2 green peppers
1 cup floor
5 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablelspoons soy sauce
% cup sugar
3 tablespoons lard or
% cup vinegar
1 cup pineapple juice

Beat together eggs, flour, salt and pepper. Thoroughly coat spareribs with egg-flour batter. Brown on both sides in lard or drippings. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 25 minutes. Pour off drippings. Drain pineapple and save juice. Remove stems and seeds from green peppers. Cut peppers into 1-inch squares. Drain peppers with boiling water and cook 5 minutes. Add green peppers and pineapple chunks to meat. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Mix together cornstarch, soy sauce, sugar, vinegar and 1 teaspoon pineapple juice. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear, about 2 minutes. Pour over meat mixture and cook slowly 5 minutes. Pour servings.
The Troubles That Beset A Stepmother

THE FAMILY CLINIC

How should a man treat his second wife? I married a widower with three young children and am quite willing to raise them. But my husband places the children and his interfering sister before me. If I discipline them, he upholds them, and now they realize it. I am more lonely now than when unmarried.

By JOHN J. KANE, Ph.D.

There is a situation compounded with two dangerous mixtures: in-law trouble and an unsatisfactory stepmother relationship. There's really no problem about how a widower should treat his second wife. He should love and cherish her just as he hopefully did his first wife. But the children seem to come between you, instead of binding you together. The “interfering sister-in-law” also poses a threat to you.

Perhaps the first problem you face, Mary, is the distorted idea that society tends to have about stepmothers. The story of Cinderella was a fairy tale but the action of the cruel stepmother seems to be taken for a fact.

Thousands of stepmothers, a word that really ought to be thrown out of the American vocabulary because of its indictment undertones, have been warm, loving kind mothers. Sometimes they have proved better mothers than the natural mothers.

Whenever a man or woman marries for the second time there is always the possibility that the image of the first spouse persists as a measuring stick. The second husband or wife is unconsciously compared with the first. Furthermore, in retrospect, the first spouse tends to assume the proportions of a minor deity.

Must Discipline Children

Sometimes the children of the first marriage are cherished as a living bond with the past. A daughter may be the living image of her mother and a stepmother to her, no matter how well justified, may be construed as a reincarnated to the deceased wife. This is especially true for the highly romantic husband.

Yet any good mother must at times discipline children. Disputes between spouses over the disciplining of children are not uncommon. The case of a stepmother, however, complicates it a bit.

At the outset there must be agreement between husbands and wives on the raising of children. This can only be achieved if they discuss it at length and in detail. Again and again in the case histories of disturbed and delinquent children one finding is clear. It is not, as so frequently claimed a lack of discipline, but inconsistency in discipline.

Inconsistency occurs in two ways. The parent or parents vacillate. On Monday what they condemn with vigor, they tolerate on Tuesday. Children, as might be expected, become confused. There is no standard of right and wrong. There is only standard of value.

The second type of inconsistency in discipline occurs when another adult makes allowances in the beginning but ultimately fairness and impartiality are lost. One parent quickly sizes up this type of situation and learns to take advantage of it.

But parents must also agree on the severity of disciplinary measures to be used. A stepmother may walk into a situation in which this was already decided by the father and deceased mother. She can be as ready to support the other to the hilt. A father cannot merely step aside and view with alarm.

A Capuchin priest in Omegia, Ethiopia, lives in a squalid hut in a malaria-infested cemetery because of people he loves... His name is Father Michael. He might have been your son, your nephew, or the boy next door... From the first I saw him I wanted to be a missionary... Father Michael tells you, "God has been good to me. These people care for, the Capuchins, and they love and I'll stay with them as long as I live. I hope. They deserve to know how to read and write, how to be useful, how to save their souls... SHARING OUR TREASURE

She Had Her Own Religion But Found It Unsatisfying

By Father JOHN A. O'BRIEN

In a letter to the Duke of Norfolk, Cardinal Newman, a former Dean of St. Mary's Church at Oxford University, wrote: "From the day I be- came a Catholic to this day, now close upon 30 years, I have never had a mo- ment's misgiv- ing that the Church which I joined the Cath- olic Church which in my own conscience I feel to be divine.

Such is the testimony which converts in every age have given...

CHRIST'S WORDS

"Impressive indeed were Christ's words to Peter: 'Thou art Peter,' and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it' (Matthew 16:18). Here is Christ's promise to safeguard Peter and his succes- sors from teaching error. I had a vision of how terrible was the doctrine of confession. But Christ taught it clearly and ex- itself.

"I can't find words to de- scribe the happiness and peace of my faith that has brought me. To share it I've invited others to my home to meet Father Bauer, Already four of them, including my sister, have embraced the faith. The last we can do is to help others meet a zealous priest. That friendly contact warms their heart and brings them to look into our holy faith. With God's grace, that will start them toward the Church's open door."
