Pope's Busy Week:

- Calls First Synod Of Bishops
- Says Good Will Peace Key
- Blesses City And The World

By JAMES O'NEILL
"VATICAN CITY (NC) - In a surprisingly new-packs speech to the cardinals in Rome two days before Christmas, Pope Paul VI painted "a rapid picture" of his past year's work and of the plans for next year.

The discourse, which almost amounted to the United States' President's State of the Union Message to Congress, covered a broad spe-rum of activities and plans.

Among them were:

- An announcement that the first synod of bishops to be summoned to help the Pope

- An announcement of the establishment of a laymen's council to assist the world in a apostolic movement and of a pontifical commission for justice and peace to work for social justice.

- An announcement that the intention to visit personally and by personal representatives the parish of Rome in an interprogram promote contact between its people and their Bishop.

- An announcement that a reform of indulgences is soon to be published.

- An announcement that some decrees dealing with the reformation of the Roman Curia has been known since beginning the past three years, but so far only the Holy Office has been reformed. However, as if answering doubting Thony Bishop of the Pope said:

"Though this evolution of a synodal and fully active organisation requires some firms and a certain amount of gradual change it is not to be doubted that this is und lay of the day. The administrative commission is working and allready has some decrees

A Different Kind Of Kindergarten

There are no gold stars for superior work, or punishments for misbehavior at the Montessori division of the Academy of the Assumption on Brickell Ave., in Miami. Yet pre-school children learn to read and write, to speak French and Spanish without an accent, and to work fractions.

"What we do," says Mother Clare Teresa, Principal of the Academy, "is to provide an environment prepared for learning. The child can learn from everything in the room, everything he touches, smells, hears, and sees. We stimulate the mind," says Mother Clare Teresa.

In the Montessori system the student is both teacher and student; the child teaches himself by doing. The specially trained Montessori staff only introduces the child to the unknown; they then withdraw to watch the child experience the delight of discovering for himself.

Each child pursues whatever activity interests him most. Since there is only one facility for each activity, the children must learn to work together or wait their turn. Younger children learn from older children, and each child learns at his own pace.

Language and mathematics are not the most important lessons taught the children, according to Mother Clare Teresa. First in importance is the lesson of loving to learn, of the new, of discovering the unknown. In second and third places are self discipline and the ability to work on one's own.

The two-year-old Montessori program at the Academy of the Assumption has 40 boys and girls enrolled in morning and afternoon sessions.

Pope says Good Will Holds Key To Peace

VATICAN CITY (NC)—The key to the ending of the Vietnam war is mutual good will, stressed in his 1966 Christmas message. The end of the war depends on man’s free will, he pointed out.

"It would suffice for them to express their wish simultaneously on both sides and it may be possible to advance to negotiations in good faith, the only way of reaching peace in freedom and justice," Pope Paul declared.

Pope Paul’s comments on the Vietnam war came on Dec. 13 as a Christmas message broadcast to the world on the night of Dec. 23.

In speaking of the Christmas war he turned it “typical, tragic and threatening. It is an ideological, civil and military war and it is of supreme importance to larger nations.”

The Pope quoted a message by recalling the song of the angels on Christmas night: “Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of goodwill.”

Using this his theme, Pope Paul declared: “The glory of God and peace among men are now as it were never to be the points of reference which give direction to our lives. They are the great issues which the Christmas season promises and indeed brings to us.”

The Holy Father warned the world: “We must form our guard against the danger of modern-day idolatry. Today man is tempted to worship himself, to set himself up, not only as the high object of thought and as the center of history but also of all reality. He is ready to believe that he can of himself, relying only on his own resources, make real progress and bring about his own salvation. In other words, man is tempted to seek only his glory and not the glory of God.”

Pope Paul went on to warn that this frame of mind is of supreme importance to the Pope. “It would suffice for them to express their wish simultaneously on both sides and it may be possible to advance to negotiations in good faith, the only way of reaching peace in freedom and justice.”

Pope Paul said that peace “is not static and must all the time be preserved, won and defended,” that this is the only way of reaching peace in the world.

Pope Paul went on to warn that this frame of mind is of supreme importance.

Pope Paul on the end of the Vietnam war stated: “The second joy of Christmas, that is, we ourselves will be able to sing of the glory of God in an intimate and personal poem in a solemn hymn.”

The Pope noted that peace “is not static or stationary if the order to which it gives its name is changing or moving, so human order, particularly the social order, and the social order in this world cannot be enjoyed in a state of complacent serenity but must all the time be preserved, won and defended.”

Pope Paul ended his message: “Let us go back, dear brethren, to the day when within the Birth of Christ, God and man, relations, vital relations were re-established between divinity and humanity.”

How You Can Go About Adopting Child

By MSGR. R. T. RASTATTER
The Catholic Welfare Bureau

We do not see the old year depicted as an old white-bearded man carrying gifts and torches, nor do we see children wrapped in three-cornered pants.

We know that in times, call upon your Pastor.

We have abandoned the festivity of resolutions because we know that in 2018 they will be known.

Perhaps some or all — or may be none of these prove fit you.

Regardless, we wish to make a suggestion to make it's in the field of church, and it has to do with adoption — a resolution you may make and easily keep.

If you are a childless couple, you can bring happiness to someone else and joy to yourself by adopting one of the innocents we have waiting for you. If you now have children, isn't there room in your hearts and in your home for another blessing?

GOOD NEWS

Here's some more good news — the entire process of adopting a child has been greatly simplified, and the time involved has been notably shortened. Indeed, we recently awarded a couple their new bundle of love in about four weeks' time.

Think of that — to take about two years waiting for time-savers in investigations, needless red tape and needless annoyances and delays caused by an out-moded routine.

Why not try this year, "Brooklyders that we still in"

Airman Acts As 'Stork:' Christmas Stork, Indeed

An Air Force serviceman from Miami playing the role of the "stork" definitely stole the spotlight from Santa Claus in the home of a Kansas City couple this Christmas.

Airman 2nd class Mark Estren, in need of transportation to the West Coast before leaving for overseas duty, volunteered to carry their newly adopted son to an eagerly awaiting couple.

Details of the adoption had been completed by the Catholic Welfare Bureau in Miami with the cooperation of the Catholic Charities Bureau in Salina, Kansas, where Estren sought the aid of the Miami Bureau in obtaining air reservations, evacuation of the child, and legalities because of the holiday season.

Melville S. Smith, southern regional manager of National Air Lines, made the necessary arrangements and a jubilant group, including Estren, flew to Salina.

Can God Make a Mistake?

"Because I cannot see results of an all-good, all-powerful God, I assume he does not exist." This statement is a common objection to the existence of God. While there are many questions and discussions about the nature of God and the existence of a higher power, the statement highlights a common misconception that the absence of visible evidence or outcomes is proof of non-existence.

The idea that if something cannot be proven, it must not exist, is a type of argument that is often used in discussions about philosophy, religion, and science. While many religious beliefs rely on faith and personal experience, science and philosophy often use evidence and logic to support or challenge ideas.

The statement "Because I cannot see results of an all-good, all-powerful God, I assume he does not exist." reflects a lack of understanding of the nature of God and the complexity of existence. It is important to consider the different perspectives and approaches to these questions, and to engage in open and respectful dialogue to explore these ideas further.
Our Path To Christ, Like That Of Magi, Is Difficult

By MSGR. JAMES W. WALSH

The missionaries have to be convinced that as the Magi, guided by the star, they are looking for plans for them to come to Him by the broad road of the law and never by the narrow road of personal piety. But they have to learn that the time is coming when they will have to expect from the heavens, and their response will be to discover the help they have at the Church. But this is not the story of the Magi, isn't it? What becomes especially meaningful when we recall that the Star of Bethlehem is the advent of Christ in His Church. If we see the gift of the Magi as Christ and His Church, then it is easy to understand why Father Riedmatten went on, "Christ was the refuge of persons who acknowledged the possibility that "human reproduction is a responsible act, an eminently moral act." The time is coming, I think, when the Star of Bethlehem will be understood as the Star of Christ. And it is very possible that, as the Magi journeyed the world and found for them a place to work their way to the aid of Christ, the Star of Christ will lead them in a roundabout way that was fraught with difficulties.

It seems that the only one who had the courage to lead the Magi to the advent of Christ was the king of the Jews. It seems that at some point the Magi had to profit from the evidence and the help of the star. But this is the Star of Christ, isn't it? Many aConvertion has been marked by the advent of Christ as the Star of Christ. But in the Church, the Star of Christ has always been the symbol of all converts. They were the first in the list of those who had to search the sky for a star that was different from all others and was shining in a way that touched the hearts of all the Magi. The Star of Christ is the sign of the Church. It is the Star of Christ that will enable the convert to see the necessity of putting aside his doubts and his confusion.

In the Star of Christ, we see the evidence that the Church is the Church of Christ. The Star of Christ is the Star of the Church. It is the Star of Christ that will enable the convert to see the necessity of putting aside his doubts and his confusion.

Following is a translation of the 1966 Christmas message of Pope Paul VI, issued Dec. 22:

Strikers, nuns, friends and all who are listening to our words.

We wish once again, this Christmas, the year 1966, to speak to all humanity by reading the angelic hymn which rang out in the heavens on that blessed night. It is the Virgin Mary’s birth to the Savior of the world, Our Lord Jesus Christ. Who is not familiar with this event? Who does not know that God in the highest heavens earth peace to men of good will? We repeat this exalted cry of the angels, proclaiming it to you so that you may grasp the true essence of the sentiments and thoughts which on this festive occasion move the heart of mankind and confide in the goodness which the Christmas season promises and indeed brings to the world.

God, A Mystery

To turn with the order of soul to the accessible thought of God can never be wearisome for the thoughtful and the wise because it is an effort of the heart, a desire to grasp, by effort of the mind, the essence, the centre of our life. He is ineffable goodness; ever living, dominating the universe and the heart of every creature, the centre of our life. He is ineffable goodness; ever living, dominating the universe and the heart of every creature.

We should like to repeat now what we have already said on another occasion; we must on our guard against the danger of modern-day idolatry. Today man is tempted to worship himself, to set himself up as the god of the world, as the god of history but even of all reality. He is ready to believe that he alone can guarantee his own wealth, his own progress, and bring about his own salvation. In other words, man is tempted to some day hoist his own gospel over the gospel of God and not the gospel of God.

It is for us, the following generation from the same region and human life is taking place before our eyes; from the realm of theory the destiny of God is being reduced to practice. Where was the experience of God in the life of the individual, in the invention of the world, in the contemplative man? The success of the world is resembling the story of a man who is materialistic and social.

Today a falsely humanistic mentality is becoming more and more widespread, a mentality deeply rooted in epistemology, religious ignorance, and a new, dechristianized form of man. From this perspective, the humanism which God-became-man (the mystery of Christmas) will cease to be the feast of joy and peace in a world which is materialistic and social.

Let us ask the Holy Father to increase, by his own very nature, transcends and reaches out beyond himself, he is, by nature, untainted to God. If this fundamental enemy of man, the man of God, is the most precious gift.

First, let us see how the personal development, but his freedom from fear, his freedom from fear, his freedom from fear, has not been effectively sought and still lies outside his grasp.

There are now so many ties between people, ties in technology and commerce, cultural and political ties, the bond of brotherhood between men, between classes and political power, by the mutual respect, esteem, cooperation and love have not been furthered sufficiently; even then they are individual and conficts threatening the stability of life in common in civil society.

To obtain this stability, temporal interests are an inadequate driving force; so is human wisdom; driving forces are.

Vital Relations

Let us go back, brethren, to one day, when, with the birth of Christ, God and man, relations, vital relations were re-established between divinity and humanity. Let us go back to those humble and noble efforts — the seeking of God, faith in God, confidence in God, prayer to God, love of God. We shall see how the first day of Christmas, that is, we ourselves will be able to sing of the glory of God in the new and personal person, in a solemn and cosmic hymn.

And then we will have the second joy of Christmas, the second joy, that of peace. It was almost superfluous to talk about peace. The word is on so many lips, and questions bearing on it are raised in our midst. If we constrain ourselves to examine it — and this can be done — we shall see how peace is not an independent good, but a consequence of justice, a consequence of justice and with the thought of God’s eternal kingdom.

If we constrain ourselves to examine it — and this can be done — we shall see how peace is not an independent good, but a consequence of justice, a consequence of justice and with the thought of God’s eternal kingdom.

We shall see how peace is not an independent good, but a consequence of justice, a consequence of justice and with the thought of God’s eternal kingdom.

Cheaper in the long run.

Gas will never cost you much. (You'll get about 27 miles to the gallon.)

And the amount of oil you use is like a drop in the bucket. (It only takes 2.7 quarts and almost never needs more between changes.)

And the engine is air-cooled, so you don't have to spend a red cent for anti-freeze or rust inhibitors. You get more than your money's worth out of a set of tires (around 40,000 miles).

“HE DIDN'T HAVE A VOCATION!”...

I remember thinking that when Pete first mentioned the seminary. He was too casual.

I guess I expected a vocation to be delivered by angels ... with trumpets, in a vision or something! Now I realize it's a calling, not a command. A boy has years to consider it before saying Yes. Maybe that's why priests always seem to love their job. Like Pete does!

Spanish-American Christmas

CHRISTMAS PARTY at Spanish Center included welcome from FATHER FREDERICK WASS, Centro director, and plenty of refreshments for youngsters between three and eight years of age. Children enrolled in the center’s nursery presented the story of the Nativity for several hundred guests.

Santa Speaks Many Languages

"FELICES PASCUAS," (Merry Christmas) Santa Claus told young Spanish-speaking children as he arrived at Centro Hispano Caballero, diocesan Spanish center in downtown Miami, to distribute gifts during the center’s annual Christmas party for hundreds of boys and girls from refugee families.

'Incarnation Focal Point Of Christmas'

VATICAN CITY—(N.C.)

There is nothing wrong with the liturgical primitiveness and festive celebrations linked with Christmas, Pope Paul VI said, provided they serve to give us a tangible realization of Christ's Incarnation.

"All our human attempts at recreation—logic, sentiment, symbol, art and mysticism—can serve, if properly used, as a religiously oriented language, without profaning the sacred nature of religion," he said, adding:

"This is the theological justification we owe her, and the Pope urged a greater realization of the focal point of Christmas: the fact of the Incarnation.

It was the Pope who brought Christ into the hearts of boys and girls from refugee families. Nativity for several hundred guests.

"If we want to enter into the spirit of Christmas, into its secret, its true appreciation, then we must come closer to Mary, the Christ-bearer who brought Christ into the world. From the original maternity of Mary we can find our way to for-bearliness of Christ, the God-man.

"This is the best liturgical season for the veneration of Mary. We should meditate on what the ecumenical council teaches us regarding the veneration we owe her, and we should allow our souls to be permeated with the fervor and poetry aroused and de-venerated by this veneration."

Why U.S. Bishops Set Up Two Organizations

BY MSGR. FRANCIS T. HURLEY

For whom do I work? The question is making the rounds of the membership of their respective organizations.

They have been asked, as have many people, with a certain ambivalence. Some have asked it in the context to the two names now associated with the American Bishops' Conference of Catholic Bishops and with the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

An organization is a machine that has been necessary since the beginning. It is a way of organizing the work of the Church in a particular time and place. The purpose of an organization is not to be a machine, but to be a means to a greater end.

But it also has to be said, as have many people, that the American Bishops' Conference of Catholic Bishops and the National Catholic Welfare Conference are no longer the organizations they once were.

FAMILIAR INITIALS

The name of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, known familiarly as the "NCWC," has been recognized as an essential part of the "culture" of the United States. What few realized is that the conference itself has been reorganized through an administrative structure.

The American Bishops' Conference of Catholic Bishops, now as the episcopal conference of the United States, has a dual role as the ecclesiastical and kingly function of the Church. The bishops are the successors of the apostles and are appointed by the Pope as the ordinary of the Church. The bishops are the chief shepherds, or pastors, of the Church. They are responsible for the spiritual and temporal well-being of the Church.

Two Roles

The American Bishops' Conference of Catholic Bishops was established in 1817 to be the voice of the bishops at Catholic councils and their deputies by equal right. The bishops have reacted, as have many people, in their own way. Some have reacted with criticism, some with patience, and some with a new look.

The new look is a direct result of two organizations, each with the same membership, but with different functions, different jurisdictions, and different procedures. It is in the best interest of the Church that these two organizations have been hired to do the work of the Church.

The American Bishops' Conference of Catholic Bishops and the National Catholic Welfare Conference are two organizations, each with the same membership, but they have distinct functions, distinct jurisdictions, and different procedures.

Two organizations have been established to serve the bishops in their role as chief shepherds, or pastors, of the Church.

The American Bishops' Conference of Catholic Bishops is the ecclesiastical and kingly function of the Church. The bishops are responsible for the spiritual and temporal well-being of the Church.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference is a voluntary organization, established by the bishops, to be a consultative vote, as the bishops require, on certain types of decisions.

The two organizations have been established to serve the bishops in their role as chief shepherds, or pastors, of the Church.
New Year's Custom Began In Old Rome

By JOHN J. WARD

"Happy New Year." is a quota to which we have been accustomed for over 2,000 years. But why? And when? And where? And why not in toes and nose, ear and eye, mouth and end?

The custom, as we know it, is not the original, but is a development of the old Roman practice of greeting. It was first used by the ancient Greeks, who called it "Ekeiasmos," from which our word "ekeiasmos" is derived.

In ancient Rome, the New Year's Day was celebrated on January 1st. The word "nove mese" (new month) was used to denote the beginning of a new year. The Romans believed that the New Year was a time of renewal and that the spirits of the dead were particularly active during this period.

The custom of greeting each other on the first day of the year was a way for people to show their respect and good wishes to one another. They would extend their arms and say "nove mese" as a way of wishing each other a happy new year.

The custom has been observed in Rome ever since, and is still observed today. Many people still greet each other on January 1st with a "nove mese" or a "buon anno" (good year).

The custom of saying "Happy New Year" has spread to other parts of the world, and is now commonly used in many countries around the world. It is a way of expressing good wishes and hoping for a happy new year.

In conclusion, the "Happy New Year" custom is a legacy of ancient Rome, and is still observed in many parts of the world today. It is a way of expressing good wishes and hoping for a happy new year.
Catholic life. I learn that I have a faith and morality. The Catholic Church takes no part in devotional motions because of the verses from “The Power and Wisdom,” by Father John L. McKenzie, S.J.? A Catholic is equally free to be a beneficiary of the Church as a form of prayer and to take part in devotions, if he accepts her position; and there is no doubt or deny that St. Dominic was echoing the Amen’s at the time of our death. Curley Basketballers Playing Like Champs

By Jack Houckling
Archbishop Curley High's team rolls along as the strongest high school basketball team in Miami. As the school's leading star, Gay, was unable to play due to injury, the team produced a fantastic game, defeating Miami High 86-64.

The team's performance was an excellent display of teamwork and skill, with each player contributing to the victory. The game was a testament to the hard work and dedication of the players, who have been training hard throughout the season.

The Voice Of Sports

Among the details added by the regulations are the following:

- A perpetual secretarial record of the synod will be named by the Pope, who will also name a special secretary for each convocation of the synod.
- All takers parting in the synod, are bound to secrecy, concerning preparatory acts for each convocation.
- Latin is the language of the synods deliberations.
- A two-thirds majority of yes votes (excluding guided yes) is required for matters in which advice is being given to the Pope or, with his permission, in deliberative votes. For procedural matters for which the Pope has convoked the synod.

Girls' Choir Of Immaculate Academy Presented Holiday Program

The first annual reunion game in the Christmas immediately after Curley's Curley High School will be held for alumni of Archbishop last year when Curley was upset in the finals of the Class AA Region 4 tournament. Curley registered its sixth victory of the season with an 86-64 triumph over Palmview High with Baptiste getting 30 points, last year's all-star guard Johnny Gay held to 23 and 64-6 Homer Lawyer connecting for 13. This all-around scoring punch has made Curley so tough. In the 86-64 victory over diocesan rival Christopher Columbus, Baptiste had 30. Gay 20 and Lawyer 12.

The Knights have not been playing against softies, still on the only losses that North Miami High and Miami have suffered have been at the hands of Curley while Columbus was undefeated until falling to the Knights.

The first annual reunion, the North Miami tournament, Curley still being rough and long row before state tournament time.

Music. Song Employed To Stimulate C C D Work

WEST PALM BEACH — Music and song are supplementing expanding Coeducation of Christian Doctrine programs in parishes of Palm Beach County.

Each week three seminars studying for the priesthood of the Diocese of Miami at the Major Seminary of St. Vincent de Paul, Boynton Beach, travel to one parish to sing and discuss contemporary songs with students enrolled in CCD classes as an aid to better communication of ideas.

Songs are selected on the basis that they are thought-provoking, emphasize basic truths and express problems of daily living pertinent to youth. The sessions were inaugurated on the limited basis of one parish each week to stimulate educational responses among students.

Baptists in two parishes of this area three years ago, the CCD program includes eight parishes with approximately 700 pupils. A general increase in class attendance has been noted since the music sessions began.

Parents Schedule Party In School

A New Year's Eve party sponsored by Christopher Columbus High School Parents Association will be held on Monday night in the school auditorium.

Music for dancing will be provided by Zimmerman's orchestra until 2 a.m. Breakfast will be served at 11:30 a.m. Participants may be made by calling Mrs. Anthony Ryan, father, at 566-8122. James Reink is general chairman of arrangements.

Rules Set For Synod

VATICAN CITY (NC)—Pope Paul VI has approved regulations for a synod of bishops which will advise him and collaborate with him in the government of the Church.

The regulations report much of what the Pope had already established in his decree of Sept. 15, 1965, Apostolica Sedis, by which he created the synod.

Curley Alumni Feast Today

The first annual reunion for alumni of Archdiocese Curley High School will be held today (Friday) at the school's auditorium. Activities will begin immediately after Curley's game in the Christmas immediately after Curley's game.

Mensaje Navideño de Paulo VI

Clama por Paz en Vietnam y en los Corazones Humanos

CIUDAD VATICANO. — En su mensaje de Navidad, un anarcópolis clamó por la paz, en particular por la paz en Vietnam. Así lo hizo el papa Paulo VI pidiendo un prodigio de amor. — Y el Papa, ante el silencio, ante la intensificación de los actos de hostilidad en los países de habla hispana, recomendó que se hiciesen las paces.

Proyectado y ordenado hasido para el reino de Dios, que debería estimular a los hombres de buena voluntad, a la búsqueda de Dios, en particular por la paz.

El mismo día de año nuevo, el Santo Padre diri-gió una exhortación a los Jefes de Estado de la Unión Soviética, Estados Unidos, China Comunista, Vietnam del Sur y Vietnam del Norte. La China de Mao Tse Tung y el Vietnam del Norte concordaron con el silencio.

Para el papa Paulo VI, los rojos de desencaminados, a pesar de todo, pretendían hacer todo cuanto fuese posible con objeto de quitárselos, de todas las naciones pacíficas, a mon-tor el comienzo de una so-aceión de paz. Acto de nuevo sociedad en Europa, en 32 mensajes, cartas y feriras, promovido por los Jefes de Estado de la Unión Soviética, Estados Unidos, China Comunista, Vietnam del Sur y Vietnam del Norte.

Navidad Fue Alegria Infantil

La Navidad fue alegria en Centro Hispano Catolico donde centurones de niños, en su mayoría pequeños refugiados recientemente escapados de Cuba, disfrutaron de fiestas placas de regalos y golosinas, villancicos y cantado espíritu navideno, donde cantaron al Nino Dios y rezaron a la Madre de Dios y a una serie de santos para que fuese un año feliz.

Una Apetitosa Merienda Fue Parte de la Fiesta

Año de Decisiones

Por Manuel Reyes

Todo puede indicar que el próximo año 1967 sera un período crucial en el Hemisferio Occidental. En un rápido proceso a-sistente de las circunstancias y hechos que han venido desarrollándose desde la Paz gaostada hasta Alaska, especialmente en la América Latina, se llega a la conclusión que 1967 sera un año decisivo para el futuro del Continente Americano.

Sad Problem Of Child Molesters

By JOHN J. KANE, Ph.D.

The problem of child molesters is one that is a serious concern for parents and society as a whole. A survey of psychologists in Detroit revealed that child molesters are known to make repeated approaches to children, often under the guise of being a relative or a friend. Recently, there has been an increase in the number of cases where child molesters have been caught and are now being brought to justice.

Cause Not Known

The true causes of this behavior are not yet fully understood. Some factors that may contribute to this behavior include a lack of discipline, a strained family relationship, or a child's exposure to sexual abuse.

Others are severely amoral, psychopathic, or sadistic, suffering from deep feelings of hostility and sadism.

Persons under the influence of alcohol or other drugs may also engage in this type of deviant behavior.

One tragic aspect of this for some perpetrators is their age. Some are quite young and suffering from senility or other severe psychological problems. Persons under the influence of alcohol or other drugs may also engage in this type of deviant behavior.

Need Psychotherapy

With this background it is possible to come to grips with the problem and find solutions. Perhaps the most striking aspect of it is that a prison term rarely solves such problems. They require psychotherapy for a long period of time, and obviously, we are handicapped by the specific problem you present. Perhaps the most positive approach is that it is not too late for him to be helped.

If such proves to be the case, the wife can find some solace in the knowledge that in this way she is really protecting her husband and family and himself from the public disgrace which another conviction would bring.

You should indeed be concerned about your daughter. Frankly, I do not understand why you permit this man in your home. If your daughter are old enough to understand, the situation should be made clear to them as charitably as possible.

But none of this need be made a public matter. The police undoubtedly have records of his previous convictions, and he certainly ought to realize that another conviction will earn a more severe sentence.

I would not recommend that he leave her, although I think it probable he will have to leave her as a result. It is impossible that he will be able to realize what the proper attitude toward his previous convictions should be. Ignoring the problem will not work. It may even increase the danger.

He would be wise for her to discuss this matter with a social worker or psychologist to learn just how to deal with her husband. He does need help, including his wife's help. He may not be responsible for his actions but if this is the case, society must safeguard him and others.

He would be wise for her to discuss this matter with a social worker or psychologist to learn just how to deal with her husband. He does need help, including his wife's help. He may not be responsible for his actions but if this is the case, society must safeguard him and others.

If such proves to be the case, the wife can find some solace in the knowledge that in this way she is really protecting her husband and family and himself from the public disgrace which another conviction would bring.

You should indeed be concerned about your daughter. Frankly, I do not understand why you permit this man in your home. If your daughter are old enough to understand, the situation should be made clear to them as charitably as possible.

But none of this need be made a public matter. The police undoubtedly have records of his previous convictions, and he certainly ought to realize that another conviction will earn a more severe sentence.

I would not recommend that he leave her, although I think it probable he will have to leave her as a result. It is impossible that he will be able to realize what the proper attitude toward his previous convictions should be. Ignoring the problem will not work. It may even increase the danger.

If you go to a lot of movies, as I do, you are likely to find yourself returning with the same complaint. In a formal sense, Paris Burning just smoulders.

For contrast, consider "Paris Burning!" It's a very interesting and adds chapters on the Lodges and Kennedys, smaller office holders and leaders in other fields. Their numbers, 56 members of the House of Representatives or Congress, have been 22 such families in United States history. Their stories make up a large part of United States history.

In Lyons, France, to protest against the American entry in that country, the world of the 18th century was divided. Their role of the deacon is essential to their faith. As the picture quickly fades, the finished product is now on view at a reasonable price and even amiable part of the entertainment.

Many of those who have been interested in the screen are patting the board. It is no secret that a brand new script, a fresh direction, and a rigorous effort could not be spared. But lacking anything better, it is the picture that stands today. It is now on view at the showing house and even amiable part of the entertainment.

SEEMS AMATEURISH

There is nothing at all wrong with that. It is a brand new script, a fresh direction, and a rigorous effort could not be spared. But lacking anything better, it is the picture that stands today. It is now on view at the showing house and even amiable part of the entertainment.

The public housing proposal provides the income with an income of less than $4,000 a year receive assistance in paying their rent. This enables them to move into better homes at a price that is strictly affordable. They pay up to 25% of their income for rent, and the balance is provided by the federal government under the Housing and Urban Development Act.

Social Workers’ Advising
Birth Control Protested

ALBANY—(NC)—The New York State Catholic Welfare Committee has issued a strong protest against a ruling by the New York State Board of Welfare which will allow public social workers to suggest birth control programs to welfare recipients.

Prior to the 114-dations by the Board of Welfare, social workers could provide information on public birth control programs only on the request of the welfare recipient.

By the change, the State Catholic Welfare Committee charged, the State Board put itself “on the side of those who would make the risk of inhibiting a person’s basic liberty because in that person...
